YOUNG ATHLETE DEAD

The death last Friday of Mr. John J. Cody, Jr., one of the best known amateur athletes in this city, was particularly sad. He had won many honors in athletic sports and was well known as a high jumper and shot putter.

Together with three companions he captured the Y. M. C. A. state championship meet at Canobie Lake Park last July Fourth. In addition he held a number of local records and had won cup after cup at meets in and around Boston. Of modest but genial disposition, he had hundreds of friends.

He had entered the national championships at Chicago last summer, representing Massachusetts, when his health failed and he has been ill at his home on Oakland street, Newton, ever since. Death was due to tuberculosis. He was 26 years of age.

BENBOW-BRECK

Miss Frances Elizabeth Breck, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Breck of Newton, became the bride of Mr. John Benbow of Boston on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed at the Breck residence on Fairmont avenue, Newton, at 8 o'clock, Rev. Laurens MacLure, rector of Grace Church, officiating. The bride, who wore a simple gown of white satin, trimmed with family lace given by her mother, the groom, was given in marriage by her father. The matron of honor, Mrs. Edmund Lewis (Laura Strong) of Syracuse, N. Y., wore her wedding dress of white messaline, while the bridesmaids, Miss Amy Plant of Newton and Miss Helen Bigelow of Worcester, were gowned in white princess lace, with green chiffon tunics caught up with silver rose, short veils with silver wreaths, and carried armfuls of white chrysanthemums. Mr. Harry L. Foster of Cambridge was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. Edmund Lewis of Syracuse, N. Y., Joseph Breck of New York and Charles Breck and Luther Breck of Newton, brothers of the bride.

A largely attended reception followed until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Benbow being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Breck and Mrs. Benbow, Sr. The house was attractively decorated with flowers, the reception room being in white chrysanthemums, and green, the dining room in pale pink roses and green and the living room in red roses and green. A pleasing feature was the promenade on the piazza which was enclosed and lighted and heated with electricity. It is also interesting to note that the bride was maid of honor at the wedding of Mrs. Lewis last June and that the mother of Miss Bigelow, the bridesmaid, was a bridesmaid for Mrs. Breck.

Mr. and Mrs. Benbow will reside at Beverly Hall, 580 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, where they will be at home on the first Thursdays in January, February and March.

GREATER BOSTON

A public meeting on the question of a "Greater Boston" as advocated by the Boston Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Newton Club house Saturday evening, Dec. 3, beginning at eight o'clock and to which everyone interested is invited to be present. The meeting is being arranged by Messrs. George Hutchinson and William M. Flanders, who are members of the Chamber of Commerce committee from this city and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance and a free exchange of opinions. It may be stated in advance that it is expected that any or all plans looking to a political annexation to the city of Boston will be strongly opposed.

ENDORSES LODGE.

At a meeting of the Republican city committee of Newton, held Monday afternoon, the following resolution offered by Mr. Thomas O. Marvin, member of the committee from Ward 3, was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the Republican State convention, held in Tremont Temple, Thursday, Oct. 6, 1910, declared that "Massachusetts has always been represented in the Senate of the United States by men of high character and great ability, which has given her a place of commanding influence in the national councils, an influence never greater than at the present time, and we recognize the fact that in the framing and passage of the important legislations of the last session of Congress the Massachusetts Senators had a conspicuous part," and

Whereas, "Henry Cabot Lodge and Winthrop Murray Crane have alike earned the continued confidence of the people by many years of eminent public service,"

Resolved, That the Republican city committee of Newton emphatically endorses this plank of the platform adopted by the Republican party in state convention assembled, and heartily favors the re-election to the Senate of the United States of Henry Cabot Lodge who has honorably represented the Commonwealth and maintained the high influence of Massachusetts in the councils of the nation.

N. H. S.

At the meeting of the Newton high school foot ball team held in the school gymnasium, Tuesday afternoon, Stuart MacNeill was elected captain for the coming year.

The Freshmen completed their football season by tying the Juniors Monday afternoon on Claffin Field by a score of 0 to 0. The team has played 6 games and has not been scored on as yet.

To the captain, L. VanBuskirk and to Coach W. Whitney is due a large amount of the credit for a successful season.

All Newton will be interested in the demonstration of the superb qualities of White House Tea and Coffee at Irving & Whelands' splendid store in Newton, the week of Dec. 5-10 inclusive. Ladies who are interested in a perfect cup of coffee are especially invited to call and see what a good cup of coffee can be made out of good coffee. White House Coffee has the largest sale of any trade mark brand in this country and is never sold in anything but 1, 2, 3 lb. tins exactly as packed in Dwinell-Wright Co.'s immense factory, 311-319 Summer St. Sold whole roasted, ground or pulverized. It is recommended that the whole roasted be bought and that each family own a mill and grind its own coffee as wanted.

ITALIAN MURDERED

As Charles S. Cromwell was driving on Boylston street near John street, Thompsonville, late Sunday afternoon, he saw the body of a man lying in the gutter. He found an Italian covered with blood and still alive. A passing automobile was stopped and help obtained from Chestnut Hill, but the man was dead. About the same time another Italian called at the home of Mr. Arthur Muldoon on Langley road, about a half mile away and asked for a doctor as he had several cuts on his face. Dr. West was summoned and while dressing the man's wounds Chief Mitchell arrived and placed the man under arrest. He was later taken to the hospital in the police ambulance. The police had been notified when the body was found and were promptly on the spot. Hearing a rumor that the man who had committed the crime was at Mr. Muldoon's the chief started at once for the house. Dr. West as the medical examiner then visited the body of the murdered man. The police busted themselves all that evening with hit case and as a result three Italians were in court Tuesday morning as witnesses. Dr. West was the first witness and stated that the murdered man had some eighteen wounds about the face and neck, with several bad cuts made by sharp instrument. There was also a bad cut on the upper right arm which severed the main artery and it was his opinion that death was caused by a hemorrhage from this wound. The Italians testified thru an interpreter to the effect that the murdered man was named Antonio Di Filippo and the prisoner was Giuseppe Di Maio. That they were all together in a house in Thompsonville. As they left the house Tony told Giuseppe not to talk about a girl in the house as he had and then the men clinched. One of the witnesses separated them, but they got together again and Giuseppe was pushed down by Tony. Giuseppe got up and pulled out a razor and struck Tony a "small blow" and Tony ran down the street with Giuseppe after him. They heard Tony cry out a few minutes later "Mia Madonna" but they said they went directly home and knew nothing of what happened later. It is said that Tony got the razor away and used it on Giuseppe before he was killed but there was no testimony to that effect. Judge Kennedy held Giuseppe for the January term of the grand jury without bonds.

MRS. GLEAS IN DEAD

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Gleason, who died last week Thursday in Newton Highlands, was born July 31, 1826, in Salem, Mass. She was the daughter of Henry and Hannah (Whitney) Rice. Her father was a blacksmith by trade and moved to Quincy in 1828, where he worked for the Granite Railway, the first railroad constructed in this country. After her father's death she resided in Natick, where she was married to Mr. Albert J. Gleason in 1849, and then settled in Milford. She resided in Newton Highlands from November, 1871, to May, 1900, then in Dedham until May, 1908, when she returned to the Highlands.

Mrs. Gleason was a woman of quiet tastes, a lover of home and family, and active in church work from the time she joined the Newton Highlands Congregational Church in 1873 until her removal from town. She leaves a son, Mr. George A. Gleason, with whom she made her home. Funeral services were held last Sunday and the burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

BOLD ROBBERY

The residence of Mr. Otis G. Robinson on Highland street, West Newton, which has been closed since the recent death of his wife, was ransacked by thieves some weeks ago, and some valuable furniture, rugs and paintings taken. The job is a peculiar one as there is a great deal of valuable property in the house, including silver ware, which has been kept quiet for some time as the police found some articles placed as if a return call was to be made, and the premises have been watched for some time without success. Mr. Robinson has offered a reward of $500 for information relative to the robbery.

MISS HARWOOD'S DEBUT

One of the most enjoyable receptions of the season was that given by Mrs. Sydney Harwood on Tuesday afternoon and evening, in honor of her debutante daughter, Miss Gretchen Harwood. Nearly four hundred guests from all the Newtons and surrounding towns were present at the afternoon tea held from four until seven o'clock in the beautiful Harwood residence on Waverley avenue, and Miss Harwood was the recipient of many beautiful flowers. Mrs. Harwood wore black velvet, trimmed with Carrickmacross lace and Miss Harwood wore a gown of white chiffon over silk. The house was filled with flowers, the tea tables being decorated with Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. The young ladies who poured were the Misses Gladys Brush, Mary Hamon, Katherine DuBois, Dorothy Hale, Rebecca Mills, Ruth MacLure, Barbara Pierce, Mildred Rogers, Cecile Thomson, Nathalie Walker and Dorothy Wetherald. A musical program was rendered by Gott's Orchestra. A dinner at which forty covers were laid followed the reception, and dancing was then enjoyed. Mr. Tyler Clark of New Haven, Yale '11, and a cousin of Miss Harwood, was master of ceremonies during the evening.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ATHLETIC LEAGUE.

At a meeting held in the association rooms Friday night delegates representing the different Sunday schools of the Newtons decided to organize a Sunday school athletic league.

The first meet under this new organization will be conducted Dec. 28 in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Two classes have been organized, namely, Class A, ages being 18 and over; Class B, ages being 16 and 17. The list of events of Dec. 28 will be for Class A, 20-yard dash, running high jump, standing broad jump, 225-yard dash. Class B events will be seven potato races, three broad jumps.

It was also agreed to have a similar athletic meet in January and February and then have a big all-round meet in March.

The election of officers for the permanent organization will be deferred until later.

Physical Director Macpherson will address the men and boys of the West Newton Congregational Church Sunday on "Moral Effect of Physical Training."

RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Mr. Sidney W. Dean of Allston was struck and seriously hurt Tuesday night about ten o'clock by an automobile while standing in Nonantum Square waiting for a car. Mr. Dean was on the crosswalk in the square when the chauffeur came out of Mars drug store and entering his car, which is said to be owned by Mr. Fred S. Pratt of West Newton, started directly for Mr. Dean, whose back was turned. The machine struck him hard enough to throw him to the ground and the wheels passed over his right leg. The chauffeur, who is said to be Patrick J. Doherty, immediately started at high speed up Washington street. Mr. Dean was helped into the drug store while the police officer reported to headquarters and the chauffeur was captured in West Newton. Mr. Dean is seriously hurt in the leg and his face is bruised where he struck the ground.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

On Dec. 7 and 8 the building will be entirely devoted to the great bazaar of the months given by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Any one interested in getting Christmas presents will do well to patronize this sale.

On next Sunday afternoon at 3:15 the men of Eliot Church will conduct the service at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Thomas Weston will be the speaker.

The board of directors will meet Monday evening, Dec. 5, taking supper together at 6 o'clock at the rooms. The big basket ball game of the season will be Dec. 14 with Northampton Y. M. C. A. This is one of the strongest teams in the western part of the state and last year defeated the local team by a small margin.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The editor of the Graphic probably feels at liberty to make criticisms of the acts of the Board of Aldermen which the clerk of committees would possibly not think it in good taste to make. The article in last week's paper condemns the Board of Aldermen for establishing an insurance fund, because it is without precedent, and yet in the same article lauds himself for his own efforts to change what has been the custom in the past in paying for water construction.

The proposition to establish an insurance sinking fund has, as the clerk knows, been under discussion in the finance committee for at least two years, and this year it was decided by unanimous vote that the over-lay would permit of the creation of a fund of $25,000, without adding any burden to the tax levy of this year. It was hoped that this fund would be increased by an addition of $3000 each year until a total of $100,000 was reached.

For a number of years the city of Newton owned but few buildings of high value, but now we have several school buildings of over $100,000 cost, and the Technical High School building and contents is worth several times that amount.

The finance committee believed that the risks were too large for the city to carry, and in originating this insurance fund, without imposing any direct burden on the taxpayer, they only exercised good business judgment which would be approved by any body of business men, or by directors in any institution, and we think your Editor will be quite alone in his opinion that their action was "almost a crime."

A MEMBER OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

OUR MUTUAL FRIEND

At West Newton several years ago, in the old Unitarian Church parlors, an entertainment of tableaux, representing "Book Titles," was given. As Dickens' "Our Mutual Friend" was called there was a good deal of interest expressed by the audience, as it was not known who was to take this part. The curtain slowly ascended, and standing in the large gilt frame, in which the pictures were arranged, dressed in his every-day clothes and carrying a whip in his hand, was John Monaghan.

I shall never forget the applause and enthusiasm which greeted this tableau. The children shouted with delight, and cried "John! John!" while we older ones found our eyes wet, as we heard, on all sides, the expressions: "Wasn't it splendid to have John," "No one could have been better," "He was just the one," etc. John himself was deeply touched by the great appreciation shown him. He had called at the stage door for a passenger, as he thought, and had been persuaded with much effort to step into the frame. Since his death I have thought of this little affair many times and I think now as then, that no title was more truly deserved than that of "Mutual Friend," bestowed upon John Monaghan.

How many little children have been carried to and from school, as carefully looked after, as though their own parents were in charge! How many aged people have been tenderly assisted to and from his carriage, encouraged by his sympathy and interest! How many of us who have grown up from childhood to middle age, under his watchful eye, could tell of the countless acts of kindness and devotion shown us, by this dear and good man! Our Mutual Friend has left us, but his memory will long be cherished by his West Newton friends.

M. S. H.

A PRAYER FOR THE BABIES.

O God, since Thou hast laid the little children into our arms in utter helplessness, with no protection save our love, we pray that the sweet appeal of their baby hands may not be in vain. Let no innocent life in our city be quenched again in useless pain through our ignorance and sin. May we who are mothers or fathers seek eagerly to join wisdom to our love, lest love itself be deadly when unguided by knowledge. Bless the doctors and nurses, and all the friends of men, who are giving of their skill and devotion to the care of our children. If there are any who were kissed by love in their own infancy, but who have no child to whom they may give as they have received, grant them such largeness of sympathy that they may rejoice to pay their debt in full to all children who have need of them.

Forgive us, our Father, for the heartlessness of the past. Grant us great tenderness for all babies who suffer, and a growing sense of the divine mystery that is brooding in the soul of every child. Amen.

WALTER RAUSCHENBUSH.

The above prayer, published as an artistic Xmas card, is sold at the principal stores in Boston at 20 cents. The entire proceeds to be used for maintaining the Babies' Milk and Hygiene stations in Boston. Help the Babies.

SARAH HULL CHAPTER

Members of Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., gathered at the Newton Club yesterday afternoon and were entertained by Miss Bertie K. Shipley of Tennessee, a daughter of the "Bucksland Knights of America," and lineally descended from Abraham Lincoln and Daniel Boone. Miss Shipley told stories of the borderland pioneers, of the Civil War, dialect stories of the Southern mountaineers and a number of negro anecdotes. She was heartily applauded.

Mrs. Alvin H. Clifford was chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting and she was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Arthur Hill, Mrs. Lewis E. Coffin, Mrs. Ida Davidson, Mrs. William H. Bliss and Mrs. D. Fletcher Barber. Miss Lillian Ruddick gave several piano solos. Mrs. M. Millie Beardsley sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Mrs. Mary A. Chapman, former state regent, was the guest of the afternoon.

THEATRES

B. F. Keith's Theatre—A diver entirely different from any other that has appeared in vaudeville will be one of the leading attractions at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. Her name is Odina, and she is a Samoan pearl diver who recently came to this country, and everywhere has created a sensation, not only by her diving from great heights but from the feats she performs under water. Another big feature will be the distinguished actress, Elita Proctor Otis, who will make her first vaudeville appearance here in a splendid comedy, "Stuart Barnes," the monologist, with a big production: Fay, two Coleys and Fay, who will be seen in Boston for the first time in their musical comedy; James and Sadie Leonard and Richard Anderson in their great travesty on "Caesar and Cleopatra"; Carl Randall, the boy dancer, the Musical Philands, and Clara Ballerini.

Boston Opera House—The repertoire of the fifth week of the second season at the Boston Opera House will be made up of the most popular operas presented by the Boston Opera Company. The triple bill will be the opening production on Monday, L'Enfant Prodigue, with Alice Nielsen in the role of Lia. This will be followed by the second tableau from the opera Der Geizige Ritter, George Baklanoff will take the part of the Baron, Cavalleria Rusticana by Mascagni will end the evening's program with Carmen Melis in the title role. The performance on Wednesday evening will be Meffistofele in Italian, with Leon Sibirakoff, Florencio Constantino, Alice Nielsen and Carmen Melis. On Friday evening will be presented Il Barbiere Di Siviglia, with Lydia Lipkowska and Florencio Constantino. The opera to be presented at the Saturday matinee, Dec. 10, will be La Boheme, with Lydia Lipkowska and Florencio Constantino. Wallace Goodrich will conduct.

Hollis Street Theatre—The Boston reviewers and the theatregoing public are agreed that Francis Wilson and his comedy, "The Bachelor's Baby," which was given its first Boston production at the Hollis Street Theatre, last Monday night, are remarkable successes and that if one wishes forty laughs in thirty minutes, the Hollis Street Theatre, where Mr. Wilson is presenting "The Bachelor's Baby," is the real place to go. "The Bachelor's Baby," with its comedy and pathos is a sure cure for the blues. It is guaranteed.

FOR EXAMPLE—

An arts and crafts shade of brass for the hall and porch electric lights—or for a lamp—is effective and distinctive. That's only one of the things you yourself can make. WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

With the conference of the art department of the State Federation yesterday, that activity of the club life ceases temporarily. The next one will be that of the household economics department, and will be held in Newtonville on Jan. 11 by invitation of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs. Plans are already under way for the remaining conferences and so far as arranged they will come at less frequent intervals than last year and should on that account have a better attendance. If the others prove equally as interesting and helpful as the recent one at Jamaica Plain, they will be well worth while.

The mid-winter meeting of the State Federation will be held by invitation of New Hampshire's Daughters at Park Street Church, Boston, some time during the first week of February.

The third of Mr. Cutler's lectures will be given at the home of Miss Wilder, 53 Fairmont avenue, on Dec. 5, Subject, "Greek Drama."

Mrs. Darius Cobb will entertain the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands next Monday afternoon, Dec. 5, at 2:30 p. m.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday, Dec. 6, there will be an entertainment in charge of the Hospital committee, Mrs. G. H. Talbot chairman. It will consist of dramatic dancing by Miss Virginia Tanner and music. It is hoped that all members will bring their usual contributions of jellies and preserves to be sent to the hospital.

The Social Science Club will hold its monthly business meeting on Dec. 7. Afterwards Miss Mary C. Wiggins, secretary of the Massachusetts Consumers' League, will speak. There will be an exhibition of photographs and the work of the child toilers of the tenements of New York city. Guests may be invited for 11 o'clock.

On Dec. 8 at ten o'clock Rev. Henry R. Rose, D. D., will speak before the Newton Centre Woman's Club upon "The Passion Play of 1910." Non-members may be admitted upon payment of the usual fee.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands met with Mrs. Ballard on Nov. 28 when "Twelfth Night" was read by some of the members. Mrs. A. M. Tewksbury rendered a group of songs. Next week the club will observe "Gentlemen's Night" at the home of Mrs. Robert Gorton of Berkeley street, West Newton. A special car will leave the corner of Woodward and Lincoln streets at 7:10 p. m.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met with Mrs. Robert Clark on Monday. Miss Anna Thompson presented the paper of the afternoon, "American Literature of the Nineteenth Century." It gave a comprehensive view of the principal American writers of the century, including Emerson, Hawthorne, Lowell and the rest.

Notwithstanding the severe storm a large number of the members of the Abundant Review Club attended the meeting on Tuesday morning held with Mrs. Arthur C. Farley of Wellesley Hills. The club considered Percy MacKay's "Mater," Mrs. Ryder, Miss Lilla Rider and Mrs. Knowlton assisted by Miss Louise Davidson and Miss Margaret Goodrich reading the parts. Light refreshments were served by the hostess at the close. The next meeting on Dec. 13 will be with Mrs. Bridgman.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning Mr. William F. Garcelon spoke upon "The Government of the Commonwealth." The constitution, he said, is the basis of all the laws of the state, and he then went on to describe the process by which it may be amended. He outlined the three divisions of the government, the legislative, executive and judicial. The judicial comprises the supreme, superior, probate, district and land courts and the functions of each were explained. He then turned his attention to the duties of the executive department, that is, of the governor, lieutenant-governor and the council, pointing out how in recent years the chief executive has had more and more oversight over the finances and knows about every important expenditure.

Mr. Garcelon's description of the working of the legislature and the progress of a bill was most interesting and enlightening. Every bill presented must go to a committee and must also come out of a committee. In this respect Massachusetts differs from some other states where bills may be suppressed without even reaching a committee. The speaker enumerated the different commissions and told something of their work. In speaking of the yearly appropriations of state money he made the surprising statement that 25 per cent of the state's money each year goes for the care of the insane in the eleven institutions. The following amounts are approximate appropriations for a recent year. The legislature $370,000, executive department $136,000, militia $500,000, prisons $1,000,000 and expenses growing out of war, as pensions, etc., $1,000,000.

Mr. Garcelon is of the opinion that the standard of civic virtue in a community is pretty clearly indicated by the men it sends to the legislature.

The whole talk was listened to with great interest by the large number of members and guests present.

The Social Service Committee of the Newton Federation held a meeting yesterday forenoon. At that time the Christmas stamps remaining from the issue of last year were distributed among the committee to be placed on sale for this season. The proceeds from their sale will be used for the tuberculosis work within the city of Newton and the Federation bespeaks the patronage of Newton people. They may be found in the drug stores and some of the fancy goods and stationery stores. Members of the Social Science Club may obtain them from Mrs. W. D. Swan of Hunnewell avenue.

The Pierian Club held its regular meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Willard. Mrs. Thompson read a fine paper on Socrates and Mrs. Dresser played piano selections.

On Dec. 9 Mrs. Ellen Richards will speak before the West Newton Women's Educational Club. Subject, "Division of the Income." Tea will be served after the lecture.

SOCIAL MEETING OF THE NEWTON FEDERATION.

A large number of ladies attended the social meeting of the Newton Federation at the Central Congregational Church at Newtonville yesterday afternoon. In order to make it as informal and social as possible the first part of the afternoon was given to a reception, when Mrs. J. H. Pillsbury, the president, Mrs. J. W. McIntyre, recording secretary, Mrs. Bernard Early, corresponding secretary, and Miss Lilla A. Rider, the treasurer, received the guests as they arrived. This was followed by a program of monologues by Miss Bertha Everett Morgan and vocal selections by Miss Alice Reese. Miss Morgan's selections were well received and she is particularly happy in her children's pieces. Miss Reese's rich, melodious voice was much enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served at the close under the direction of the social committee. Mrs. Frank A. Day and Mrs. Edward R. Speare presiding at the table. The Federation at this time extended courtesies to many neighboring clubs and a large number accepted the hospitality.

The Newton Equal Franchise Association is getting in some telling work this year. The association has taken the G. A. R. Hall, Masonic building, Newtonville, for its regular meetings to be held the second Thursday of each month, at which time various well-known speakers give addresses.

At the next meeting, Thursday, 2:30 p. m., Dec. 8, at G. A. R. Hall, Katherine Lente Stevenson is to give an address on "Woman in Many Lands."

Those who are interested in present day questions and a real democracy were extremely entertained recently at an incident in one of Newton's best-known schools.

The powers that be ordained that the school, which as usual is composed of more girls than boys, be made into a republic, called "The City of . . ."

A system of voting was inaugurated, officers nominated, and the boys invited to vote. Naturally the girls, who are doing the same work as the boys, and to whom the old, old argument, "A woman's place is in the home," could scarcely apply, and who are subject to the same rules, made a vigorous protest, and several high-spirited lassies carried around a placard, "Votes for Women." There were frequent witty contests between the different factions, and feeling ran high. The climax came Monday afternoon. The girls were set off to Cooking School in Newtonville. The election for the officers of the new republic (?) took place. As one of the girls wittily remarked, "What is a democracy?" "A democracy is a government of the people, for the people, by the MEN."

As a good business proposition, can any one afford to heat a home by any other method than hot water or steam heat? It returns big interest on the investment, in fuel saved as in colds prevented. The "WINCHESTER" boiler is among the best. Investigate. Made by Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress street, Boston, Mass.

LODGES

Sumner P. Lawrence Rebekah Lodge held a successful barn dance in Odd Fellows' Hall, Newtonville, last evening. The hall was decorated for the occasion and there were many unique costumes. Dancing was from 8 to 12 and at 9:30 an old-fashioned supper was served.

CITY HALL

Employees of the forestry department are at work this week on the skating pond being constructed in Cabot Park for the benefit of the children who use the playground. The pond will be flooded by damming the brook that flows through the park.

The largest shipment of canned goods, which ever came into the city of Newton, arrived at the Newton Upper Falls station this week, consigned to W. H. Brayton & Co., the well-known grocery firm of Newton Highlands. This shipment was composed of more than 800 cases of holiday and Willett Brands of high grade canned goods, and was shipped by the Burt Olney Canning Company of Oneida, New York, who are well known as the finest packers of high grade canned goods in the United States. When asked about this shipment, Mr. Brayton stated that part of the goods would be sold at wholesale, but most of them would be kept for the requirements of W. H. Brayton & Co.'s large retail business.

All things come to those who come unto themselves.

MANY MOURNERS

An unusual tribute was paid to John V. Monaghan Friday morning at funeral services held in St. Bernard's Church at West Newton. Fully a third of the large gathering that attended was composed of wealthy residents of the most exclusive part of the city. Mr. Monaghan, who died at the age of 58, was one of the best known men in the city.
For years he was a stable keeper and his work brought him in daily contact with prominent men, who counted his friendship as worth while. No funeral ever held in the church had such a display of flowers. A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev.
Father Francis J. Cronin, with Rev.
Father Charles J. Galligan as deacon and Rev. Father James Crowley of the Academy of the Assumption at Wellesley Hills as sub-deacon. The burial was in Calvary Cemetery at Waltham. The bearers included four brothers of the deceased, Edward, John,
James and Paul Monaghan. Edward Collins and Patrick Cruise. At the grave services were conducted by Rev.
Fr. Galligan and Rev. Fr. Crowley.

MR. FREDERICKS DEAD

Albert S. Fredericks, well known in this city and among Boston stock brokers, died Monday evening at the Newton Hospital. Death was due to pneumonia, after a week's illness.Mr. Fredericks had been a resident of Newton for 30 years. He was born in New York city about 58 years ago, and spent the early part of his life in his native state. On coming to Boston
he engaged in business as a stock broker, and was respected by all his business associates. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. Arline Lange of New York City. The burial was at Utica, N. Y.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The School Committee met last week Wednesday with Mr. Bothfeld in the chair. The school census report showed a net increase of 153 over 1909 and a total of 6768. The distribution by wards follows:

Ward One	1038
Two	1275
Three	1134
Four	716
Five	1269
Six	947
Seven	389

6768
The superintendent recommended the appointment of an advisory board for the Evening Industrial School and the present advisory board for the Independent Industrial School was so appointed with the addition of Mrs. John T. Prince in the interests of the household economics department. The board consists of Messrs. George H. Ellis, W. B. Mehl, Oscar E. Nutter and Mrs. Prince.

A conference followed with Mr. F. H. Keyes, an expert employed by the mayor to investigate the heating and ventilation of the drill hall. Mr. Keyes recommended an outlay of about $700 and also said that there should be a new dry well constructed at the high school, the present well filling and overflowing into the basement in stormy weather.

The resignation of Miss Ida M. Pettee of the Emerson School was accepted and Miss Elizabeth G. E. King appointed to the vacancy.

The Christmas vacation was ordered from Friday noon, Dec. 23, to Tuesday, Jan. 3.

A request for use of rooms in the Mason and Bowen schools for gymnastic work in connection with the Newton Centre Playground work was referred to the ward committee and superintendent with full power.

The annual report of the chairman was read and adopted.

WHITE CATS USUALLY DEAF.

Writing about the raising of high-class Persian cats, Blanche E. Watson says in Suburban Life for December: "If one is planning to raise white cats, the fact should be remembered that the majority of this color are deaf; especially is this true of the blue-eyed specimens. It is pleasanter to have a kitten respond to your voice, but the deaf ones are so keen in sight and intuition that it is simply wonderful how near to hearing they seem. Usually the darker-colored cats are the harder, but there are exceptions to all rules. In buying a kitten, select one having a broad face, short legs, short body and a short tail. If you have the price, be particular that there is not a white hair on the solid-color kitten. Sometimes a gray spot on a white kitten fades out but I never knew a bunch of white to turn black, orange or blue." The article contains a picture of one of Mrs. D. B. Wiswall's cats of Newtonville.

NEWTON CLUB

The clubhouse was the scene of a very pretty dance Friday, Nov. 25, when the P. B. Club entertained.

Tuesday evening the lecture by Mrs. W. H. Allen on Japan for the benefit of the Nonantum Day Nursery was enjoyed by a large audience.

The Sarah Hull Chapter of the D. R. held their regular meeting in the Assembly Hall Thursday afternoon and refreshments were served after the meeting.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL WORK

GOOD RESULTS OBTAINED AT NONANTUM

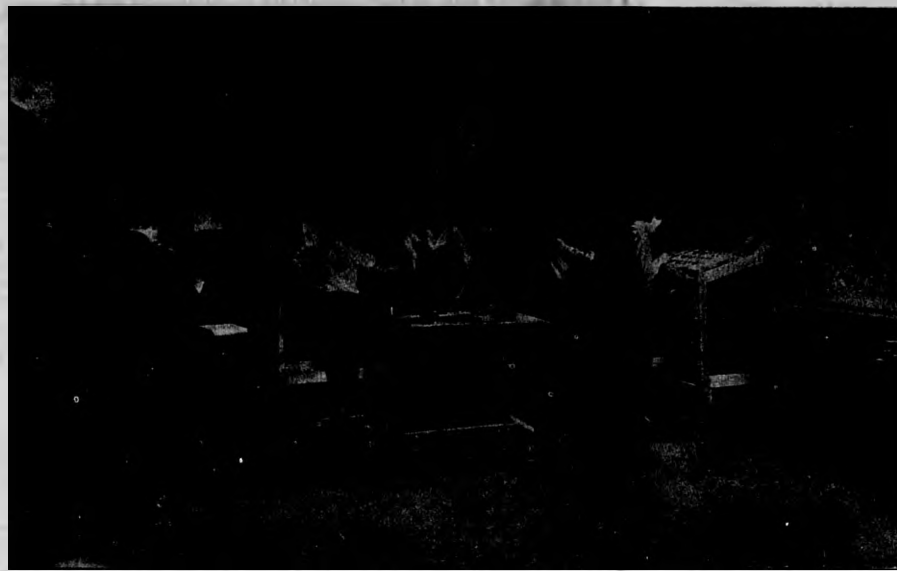

A most interesting educational experiment is now being conducted at Nonantum in the Newton Independent Industrial School.

In the fall of 1908 it was found that in the city of Newton there were a number of boys who had reached the age of 14 who were not profiting from the grammar school work and likely soon to leave school but who could profit from a school in which hard work should predominate, with academic work and drawing correlated closely with the shop work. A number of other boys were found who were doing excellent work in the grades, whose family circumstances rendered it impossible for them to complete a high school course, but who would make superior mechanics if given an opportunity to begin a trade or lay the foundation for a trade.

There is a study room for academic work on the second floor and an office, printing and recitation room are on the same floor. The skylighted rooms on the third floor are used for mechanical drawing and sheet metal work. The basement offers limited space for moulding work which is yet to be developed.

The shop work of the pupils is spent largely in constructing such equipment as they can make and which can be used either in their work or for use in the school. The mechanical drawing room is fitted with substantial tables, which were built by the pupils in the wood shop. Type cases, stands, galleys, imposing table and cabinet for the printing room; demonstration tables, experimental cases and wiring stands for electricity work; tool room, motor shelf, and benches for the machine

dren. It should not be understood that this school is such an institution. In the matter of the name, perhaps, it would be more fortunate if the school were called a "Vocational" rather than "Industrial" school. Discipline and school spirit are excellent. Boys are put on their honor entirely and often left alone in shop or study room without an instructor. They have organized a club and publish a school paper each month, giving the important news of the school. Many pupils in this school would make excellent academic records if they could go thru high school and college. Family circumstances or individual inclination determines that they shall become wage earners at an early age. Of the 45 boys in the school probably not half would have remained in any other school but would have gone to work at occupations offering little chance for promotion. Other boys who have found it difficult or impossible to keep up with the academic requirements of the grammar schools have found an inspiration and incentive in the Industrial School and are learning habits of work and study and obtaining a broader outlook on life than they otherwise would have acquired.

PRINTING ROOM—BOYS AT WORK.

It therefore seemed advisable to establish in Newton a school which should be the immediate step between the grammar grades and the occupation in which such pupils should find their life work; a school should be industrial in character, aiming to lay the foundation for an industrial career; also varied enough in the industrial branches taken up to give each pupil a chance to prove his ability for some definite trade. This shop; lumber racks, tool racks, for the wood shop have all been made in the school. Pupils in the pattern making have also made patterns for all castings in the machine shop and the sheet metal equipment. In the machine shop, pupils have constructed tool stands, gas forge and stand, small electric motors and generators and many machine attachments and small tools. Drawings for each article built in the school are made by

One thing that appeals to boys in the school is the prospect of being directed into a trade without any waste of time. They realize that all the academic work in the school (which takes about one-third the time) is closely related to the shop work, and that the subject matter is just what they will need in real life. Another feature which the boys appreciate is the fact that the teachers are men who are skilled mechan-condition came to the knowledge of one of Newton's well known and generous citizens and he offered to provide the money necessary to establish such a school.

Accordingly the Newton Independent Industrial School was authorized by the Board of Aldermen of the city of Newton, Jan. 12, 1909, with the approval and subject to the supervision of the Massachusetts Industrial Commission (now consolidated with the State Board of Education).

The session of the school began Feb. 1, 1909, in the Stearns grammar school building in Nonantum. The manual training equipment of the Stearns School was used for the shop work, and an unoccupied grade room was available for academic work and drawing. There were 15 pupils and one instructor.

The results obtained were so satisfactory and the demands for admission became so pressing that its patron generously increased his first offer and guaranteed $5000 annually for a term of five years.

The following September the school was moved to its present quarters in the building on the corner of Watertown and Bridge streets, formerly used for a grammar school. In December two more teachers were added and the number of pupils increased to 45. The machine shop equipment was installed during December and January, all the work being done by pupils.

There are two large rooms on each of the three floors. On the first floor one room is used for a machine shop, the other for a woodworking shop.

the mechanical drawing class. In addition to this equipment for their own use, the pupils have also built several articles for the Technical High School and cabinets for several grammar schools.

From the fact that the name "Industrial School" has been used by reform or transient schools, or institutions for feeble minded and deficient chil-

des in their respective trade. One is a draughtsman, formerly employed in the draughting rooms of the largest concerns in the country. Another is a high grade machinist with several years' experience in such firms as the Draper Company and the General Electric Company. The third teacher is a pattern maker, as well as a college graduate.

The pupils also realize that they are working with real tools and machinery and are making real things. Theoretical instruction is reduced to a minimum and practical work is the keynote in each department. Each pupil keeps an accurate shop record of each piece of work he does, including time, material and total cost. Each pupil is also given an opportunity to specialize in some definite trade, rather than take a general course in several trades. Very short elementary courses are provided in each trade, so that a pupil can try one after another until he finds the one which most appeals to him and for which, in the judgment of the instructors, he is best adapted. When he thus chooses his trade, he devotes his whole time to it for the remainder of the course. This feature of trying out the boy is being emphasized more in this school than in any other industrial school at the present time.

Printing was introduced last spring to produce instruction sheets and blanks for the school use, and also to correlate with English for the emphasis it places on spelling and punctuation. The trade possibilities of printing have appealed to several boys already, some of whom would not now be in school but for this feature. This desire of the pupils, together with the need of the school for printed matter has made it advisable to enlarge this department and to add a practical printer to the faculty.

New machinery will soon be installed in the wood shop, making a complete equipment for commercial pattern making and cabinet making. A new bench lathe and an engine lathe shop. Sheet metal work will be commenced in a few weeks, much of the equipment having been already made by pupils in the pattern and machine shops.

Some practical results have already been seen from the work. During the summer months several of the advanced pupils found employment in local shops and with the opening of the fall term several pupils have been employed afternoons and Saturdays at the Technical High School installing the new equipment there. Two more are working in a Nonantum machine shop on afternoons and Saturdays.

The part time system which is being followed in one or two other industrial schools of the state is thus being started spontaneously in Newton for the school has made no effort to secure employment for its pupils. Requests for their services have come unsolicited, and pupils are permitted to work only on the assurance that the work given them to do will be equivalent in its educational value to that done in the school shops.

The reputation of the school has extended into other municipalities and applications have been received for admission from Watertown, Brookline and Waltham. For out of town pupils a tuition fee of $100 is charged, the state paying one half and the city or town where the pupil lives paying the other half under state law.

WOMEN FIRST.

Rev. Allan A. Stockdale, pastor of the Union Congregational Church, in a sermon last Sunday criticized the signs "Women first, please," placed by the Boston Elevated Railway Company at the Dudley street station. Commenting upon these remarks, Mr. J. Harvey White, publicity agent of the company, in an interview this week said:

"The notice that the company has placed in its cars reads as follows: 'The company respectfully requests male passengers to give women precedence at stations.'"

"Much complaint is made that men and boys board cars before they reach entrance steps." This notice explained the 'women first please' signs.

"The company is very grateful to the newspapers for the publicity that has been given to its efforts to protect women passengers from the discourteous conduct of some of the men and boys who ride upon its cars. We are very glad that Mr. Stockdale has assisted in securing further publicity."

"The company has received a great many letters, some of them from a long distance, expressing approval and appreciation for what it is trying to do.

Doubtless, Mr. Stockdale would agree that women should have at least an even chance to board the cars, which they do not have if men and boys board the cars before they come to a stop. If Mr. Stockdale can propose a better plan for bringing about this result we should be very glad to have it suggested. We would also be glad to have suggestions as to how to further prevent spitting in the cars and station, crowding, pushing and other offensive and disorderly conduct without posting signs, even though such signs do not apply to all persons."

WHERE IS THE SPIRITUAL WORLD?

Lecture by Rev. John Goddard at New Church Sunday evening.

The tourist in Switzerland watches for the rising of the clouds from the mountain tops, and at first sees the outline of a mountain so indistinctly that it is indistinguishable from the outlines of the passing clouds. But he knows that it is a mountain from the fact of its permanency.

It has been one of the chief arguments of philosophers for the belief in a life after death that it has remained permanent among all nations and in all faiths. In spite of the mistiness, its mixture with superstitions, its childishness, it has remained an undying element of religious faith.

How vague the belief has sometimes been, however, we may see in the various answers to our question, "Where is the Spiritual World?" by different peoples. All have located it, some under the earth or sea, some far away on the earth's surface, while others have conceived of it as existing somewhere above in space—in the air, or in the planets, or suns, or beyond the stars. To the Druids, the Milky Way was the innumerable company of shining souls on their journey to the home beyond. Even Christians, up to the present time, have scarcely improved on Mark Twain's conception of keeping company with stars and comets on the journeys thither.

Will the mist ever arise? Shall we ever know more about it? We have parabolic promises. The prophet says, "He will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the veil that is spread over all nations. He shall swallow up death in victory." And our Lord said that He would come in the clouds or heaven with glory. We believe these promises have in a measure been fulfilled. The Bible itself, rightly understood, answers the question.

If we could have asked the servant of Elisha (2 Kings vi, 17.) whose eyes were opened to behold the horses and chariots of fire, or the shepherds of Bethlehem, to whom the angels came; or the three disciples on the mountain, with their transfigured Lord; they would have said, "Why the spiritual world is here, not far away." And so in a hundred such instances, including that of the apostle John, to whom, while in Patmos, the inner world was opened.

But this answer alone is not enough. We need a new light.

There is a barrel, full, as we say, of old-fashioned round cannon balls. But it is not full. The spaces between can be filled with bird shot. Still it is not full. Water can be poured in by the gallon. It is not full yet. There are more subtle fluids which will fill the spaces between the particles of water without overflow.

This is a crude oriental illustration. Look deeper. Here is our solid earth, on its rock basis, which we call real, sound. Within the air the ether, man form. And so the spiritual world of each planet has its own form, its own adaptability to the needs of its people, its own power to supply the needs of a real life. But the life in that world will be on a different plane than the life here.

Although so much has been revealed to us, we are only now at the beginning of this knowledge. Some time the mist will clear away; and then we shall behold, at all times, the mountain of the Lord.

REAL ESTATE.

The following real estate transactions have been placed through the office of Alvord Bros and Co., 72 Essex Street, for the purpose of furthering the interests of Democratic candidates in this city. Alderman William J. Doherty was chosen president, ex-Alderman William P. Sweeney secretary, and John C. Madden treasurer. It is proposed to form a similar club in each ward of the city.

Rentals:—16 Institution Ave., Newton Centre, belonging to the Bray Estate, to Mrs. J. C. Buffum, and which has been opened for a Tea house. 29 Ivanhoe St., Newton, for Miss Hull to Miss Cushman.

Some excellent photographs of the beautiful statue bust of Rev. Dr. Hornbrook in Channing Church, have been made by Mr. Ellis E. Moore and are on exhibition at Mr. Moore's studio and at Hahn's drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson Leighton of Watertown announce the engagement of their daughter Ethel to Mr. Harold Bacon Stanton.

POLITICAL NOTES.

A Ward One Democratic Club was formed Saturday evening in Eagles Hall, Nonantum square, for the purpose of furthering the interests of Democratic candidates in this city. Alderman William J. Doherty was chosen president, ex-Alderman William P. Sweeney secretary, and John C. Madden treasurer. It is proposed to form a similar club in each ward of the city.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT

A shocking accident took place early Tuesday morning, when Constantino Prannotazzi, an Italian about 19 years of age, employed in the construction of the tunnel for the Metropolitan water works, was blown to pieces by the explosion of dynamite. The accident took place near the dynamite house in the vicinity of Montrose street, and the cause is only a matter of conjecture.

There are two gangs working on the tunnel, which is being constructed by James Handredy of Chicago. Robert Towers is foreman. That morning, shortly after 2, the workmen were preparing the holes by means of air drills and Prannotazzi was sent after some dynamite to prepare a blast at the east end of the tunnel.

The next thing of which the workmen were aware was a roar and a crash that nearly upset them. They knew instinctively what had happened and a rush was made to where the dynamite was kept. In the glow of the lamps the workmen stumbled upon a hole in the ground large enough to drop a tipcart into.

There was no trace of the victim noticed then. One end of the engine house had been demolished and the blacksmith shop was in ruins, while the dynamite shed had disappeared completely. Some thought that the boy was carrying the dynamite and that he stumbled and fell. Others thought that he may have been trying to throw the stuff out and that it exploded. A hunt was made then for traces of Prannotazzi and here and there bits of clothing and shreds of flesh were picked up.

Medical Examiner George L. West was notified and after an investigation he ordered that the fragments of the body found be sent to a local undertaker's shop in Newton.

Singularly enough, the force of the explosion was felt for the greatest distance in a line due directly west from the tunnel. Thus persons living in Auburndale, Weston, parts of Wellesley and towns in that section could judge of the size of the explosion from the shock and noise better than those living in other directions. The fragments of Prannotazzi's body were scattered generally in a westerly direction.

Men who were at work in the tunnel heard nothing of the great blast. Houses on Montrose, Ivanhoe, Kenilworth and Ward streets and on Waverley avenue all within a radius of half a mile, were not so greatly affected as residences further away. Prannotazzi lived at Morgan court, Nonantum.

LODGES.

The members of Nonantum Conclave, No. 1045, Improved Order of Heptasophs, at the last meeting, held on Friday evening, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Past archon, Robie C. Cumming; archon, John P. Doyle; provost, Henry Wilson; secretary, Joseph A. Doyle; treasurer, Geo. F. Wilson; financier, C. Edwin Josselyn; prelate, Evelyn E. Snyder; inspector, James P. Slattery; warden, John C. Ward; sentinel, Mathew Carly; trustees, Harris E. Johnston, Herbert E. Conant, James E. Hunt.

A large number of the members were present and formulated plans to increase the membership.

THE PLAYERS.

The 22nd season and the 50th series of performances by The Players, Newton's well known amateur theatrical organization, was opened on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week in Players' Hall, West Newton, with large and fashionable audiences in attendance each evening. The Professor's Love Story was presented by the following cast: Waldo Glidden, Arthur W. Hollis, R. G. Whiting, H. W. Pierce, H. C. Johnson, E. I. Locke, Mrs. F. W. Freeman, Mrs. Francis Newhall, Miss Julia Colby, Miss Harriet Seaver, Dana Thomas and Stuart Chase. Miss Ethel H. Freeman was acting manager, C. P. Newell stage manager and Philip Davis his assistant. The ushers were Mayor Charles E. Hatfield, Harry L. Burrage, Ellery Peabody, A. Stuart Pratt, Arthur G. Hosmer and William T. Farley.

CONCERT.

On the evening of Dec. 12 the people of Newton Upper Falls and vicinity will have the rare opportunity and privilege of hearing at the Methodist Episcopal Church the celebrated Lotus Male Quartet of Boston. Each member of the quartet is a soloist of highest rank while the blending of their beautiful voices is perfect. During the month of March this year they filled 47 engagements and it is a fortunate circumstance that makes possible their appearance at Newton Upper Falls.

A public office is a public trust, but the public don't trust them.

The prize winners in the recent Newton Civic Federation's photograph contest were as follows: Landscape class—First prize, Ellis E. Moore, 356 Centre street, Newton. "The Charles River from Concord Street Bridge." Second prize—Mrs. Alice L. Clark, 1143 Beacon street, Newton Highlands. "The River Bank at Auburndale, near the Park." Third prize—C. O. Tucker, 18 Copley street, Newton. "Hammond Street, Chestnut Hill." Architectural class: First prize—Mrs. Alice L. Clark, 1143 Beacon street, Newton Highlands. "Newton Cemetery Gates, Walnut street, Newton Centre." Second prize—F. W. Sprague, West Newton. "Echo Bridge." Third prize—The Partridge Studio, Newtonville. "Weston Bridge, Riverside."

NEWTON CENTRE PLAYGROUND NOTES.

Last Saturday the Newton Centre Playground soccer team was defeated by the Brookline G. A. A. at Brookline. Although greatly outweighted, the Newton Centre boys played a good game, and held Brookline scoreless until 30 seconds before the close of the first half. The final score was 3 to 0. It is probable that a return game will be played in Newton Centre.

DEATH OF MADAME WENDTE.

Madame Johanne Wendte died Friday, in her 91st year, at the house of her son, Rev. Charles W. Wendte, D. D., on Washington street, Newton, with whom she had made her home for the past 40 years. Born in Hanover, Germany, Madame Wendte came to Boston in 1843 with her husband, Charles Wendte, who was one of the first to introduce the art of fresco painting into this country. She was early left a widow.

Madame Wendte became for years a teacher of the German language and literature in Boston, numbering among her pupils Rev. Theodore Parker, Mr. Eliza Buckminster Lee, Miss Ellen Frothingham, Frank B. Sanborn, F. H. Peabody and the daughters of many eminent Bostonians. Before making her home with her son she had lived in Chicago, Cincinnati and California.

Funeral services were held from the family residence Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Benjamin F. McDaniel of Barnard Memorial, an old friend and pastor of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Harry Lutz of Channing Church, President Eliot of the American Unitarian Association and other prominent men and women were present. The remains were taken to Mt. Auburn for cremation.

MRS. EDDY DEAD

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, one of the most noted women of the century, died at her home at Chestnut Hill last Saturday night at 10:45. Mrs. Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, has resided in Newton since 1908.

She had been indisposed for about nine days, but had been up and dressed and as late as Thursday transacted business with one of the officials of the Christian Science church. She took her daily afternoon drives until two days before her going.

Saturday night she quietly fell asleep and those around her could at first hardly realize that she had gone. Her thought was clear until the last, and she left no final messages.

No physician was in attendance, but she had the assistance of the students comprised her household. With her at the time of her departure were Mr. Calvin A. Frye, Mrs. Laura E. Sargent, Mrs. Ella S. Rathvon, Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, her corresponding secretary, William R. Rathvon, and her secretary, Adam H. Dickey.

There having been no physician in attendance, Dr. George L. West of Newton Centre, medical examiner for the district, was called early Sunday morning. Dr. West, after investigation, pronounced the death due to "natural causes" and issued the customary certificate.

Mrs. Eddy was born in Bow, N. H., July 1821, and was therefore in her 90th year.

It is said that the cause of death was pneumonia.

Simple funeral services were held from Mrs. Eddy's late home yesterday morning. In view of the extraordinary interest of the public elaborate precautions were taken to prevent an influx of curiosity seekers. Admission was by ticket only and members of the Christian Science church acted as guards. Mr. Charles E. Lord of Newton was at the main entrance. Hon. Charles E. Hatfield and Mr. Albert Metcalf were among the honorary pall bearers and Mr. James A. Neal of West Newton was an active pall bearer. The body was placed in the receiving tomb at Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

On next Sunday afternoon the men's meeting will be in charge of the men of the Newton Methodist Church. Dr. George S. Butters will be the speaker, Hugh Campbell director of music and Howard Lyman soloist. All who come will enjoy this meeting, which is for men and boys over 16. Last Sunday 23 men were present. Make it 100 this week. The boys' meeting will be in charge of Robert West.

One of the most interesting games of basketball will be played on next Wednesday evening, Dec. 14. The opponents of the local team being from the Northampton Y. M. C. A. Mr. William Macpherson, the present physical director of the Newton association, began his association work at Northampton so this will give the game unusual interest to all members of the association.

One pleasant feature of the Christmas season has been in times past the presentation of membership tickets to boys and men as Christmas presents. Any one who desires to give a present which will last the year round and give pleasure 365 days in the year should send for one of the Christmas cards gotten out by the association, which will entitle the possessor to a year's membership. A telephone call or letter will bring full inquiries as to the advantages of this plan.

DISCUSSED AT MEETING AT NEWTON CLUB

An interesting meeting was held at the Newton Club Saturday evening on invitation of Hon. George Hutchinson and Mr. William M. Flanders, the Newton members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce committee, appointed to consider a "Greater Boston." About 150 gentlemen were present and showed their interest by staying until a late hour. Mr. Flanders presided and ex-Mayor Hutchinson was the first speaker. Mr. Hutchinson read from a report made by the expert employed by the committee as to the different plans which would bring about a Greater Boston, including annexation, close federation and loose federation. He believed that there were some advantages to be gained, but also thought that they had been magnified. He questioned the advisability of metropolitan parks, police and fire and favored metropolitan sewer and water. Mr. Hutchinson rather believed in a plan similar to the London County Council, where each community retained its own government save in matters which involved their neighbors.

Mayor Hatfield favored a federation which would not lose our individuality and right to govern ourselves. He was opposed to any political annexation to Boston and to metropolitan street lights, schools and police. He believed in helping the business interests of the so-called Greater Boston, but our schools are out of politics, are run by an efficient superintendent and school board and have never been a political football. We live here because we want to live quietly and to enjoy the fruits of the things we have built up ourselves.

After Mr. Hatfield sat down he was nominated for lord mayor of Greater Boston amid laughter and applause.

Mr. March G. Bennett, chairman of the committee, was the next speaker and said in part: "My views coincide with Mayor Hatfield's, in that I am opposed to annexation. However, if we wish to expand we have got to have some metropolitan layout of main highways leading into Boston. The government of London is the one from which the government of 'real Boston' should be modeled. By its use none of the various towns or cities interested will be submerged."

"We are already a federated community, made so by metropolitan water, sewerage and park systems. What we want is local representation to build the community up. I think we will be obliged to adopt the plan and we can do better now than if we wait and have it forced on us suddenly as the water and sewerage systems were, because we didn't want the annexation. A council of the mayors and chairmen of the boards of selectmen from the 40 places interested would be the greatest bar to possible annexation and that is the kind of a council we should have, one with advisory powers only."

After his address Mr. Bennett answered many questions pertaining to the plan.

Remarks were also made by ex-Mayor A. R. Weed, City Solicitor Slocomb, Mr. Henry F. Ross, Mr. F. G. Melcher, Col. Morton E. Cobb, Mr. F. M. Forbush and Secretary R. G. Wells of the committee. Mr. Melcher stated for the mayors being members of the Metropolitan Council, what was wanted in his opinion was a council of "wild, rabid enthusiasts" to give the Council publicity. Mr. Cobb believed it paid to advertise and favored some scheme of federation. Mr. Forbush was opposed to a single representative on the proposed council and believed that Newton ought not to be on the same footing as the smaller towns.

At the suggestion of Col. Cobb, the chairman was authorized to appoint a committee consisting of the mayor, the board of aldermen and one member from each ward to ascertain the sentiment of Newton and to advise with the Chamber of Commerce committee. A vote of thanks was given Mr. Bennett and those present were invited to partake of light refreshments after adjournment.

MR. BURR DEAD.

Mr. Francis Hardon Burr, a member of one of the best known families of this city, died early Sunday morning at a private hospital on Newbury street, Boston, after a long illness with typhoid fever. He was taken ill early in October and has made a valiant struggle against the disease. Mr. Burr was a native of the city, being born at Chestnut Hill, Sept. 13, 1886, and was the son of ex-Mayor Herman M. Burr and the late Mary Ames Burr. He prepared for Harvard at Noble and Greenough's and at Andover, and was a member of the class of 1909 Harvard. In college he achieved an enviable reputation both in athletics and scholarship, altho he was possibly best known as captain of the football eleven in 1908. He was also interested in baseball and was shot putter on the track team.

He was elected president of his class in its freshman year, was a member of the athletic committee and of the student council, and during his course served on many important student committees. He was first marshal at graduation, and was awarded a Harvard College scholarship, an honorary distinction which marked him as a scholar. He was a member of many clubs, including the Institute, D. K. E. Pudding, Signet, Varsity, Polo, Sphinx, Western, Round Table, Memorial Society, Cosmopolitan and A. D.

Besides his father, Mr. Burr is survived by a brother, Roger, and by a sister, Mary.

Funeral services of a simple nature were held Tuesday noon in Appleton Chapel, Cambridge, which was filled with Mr. Burr's many friends, and all college exercises were suspended between 12 and 1 o'clock as a mark of esteem.

A profusion of roses, chrysanthemums and other cut flowers covered the casket and formed a background for the coffin. Preceded by Bishop Lawrence, the coffin was brought to the chapel, supported on the shoulders of the bearers.

While the congregation was singing the second hymn, the coffin was carried from the chapel as it had been brought in. In every way the service was extremely simple, but marked by an impressiveness intensified by the deep sense of loss felt by the great number of students present. The body was cremated and the ashes buried in the family vault at New Ipswich, N. H.

The pallbearers were S. B. Bush, 2d; John W. Cutler, G. P. Denney, W. Grosvenor, Samuel Hoar, C. D. Moss, M. Douglas Robinson, and Nathaniel Robinson, Jr.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Congressman John W. Weeks' official plurality at the recent election was 4341, the second largest Republican plurality in the state, Congressman Gardner being first, with 5234.

Our Special Experience for Your Benefit

Every business has its peculiarities and its special needs. This bank prides itself on its familiarity with the shoe, leather and textile trade. Some of our directors have business interests in those lines. All of our officers and staff know by actual experience just what the banking needs of wholesalers, jobbers and retailers in those branches are. Moreover, the convenient location of our offices—right in the heart of the district where most of this business is found—is another strong reason why we can handle your banking matters with accuracy, promptness and entire satisfaction. WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

Last spring the readers of the Federation Bulletin were surprised to receive, instead of the Bulletin in its familiar dress, a copy of "The Conquest and the Federation Bulletin," accompanied with the announcement that the Bulletin had combined forces with the first mentioned publication issued at Troy, N. Y. With the volume beginning in October the publication has now become "The General Federation Bulletin," the name Conquest having been dropped. This is certainly welcome to all who have become accustomed to thinking of the official organ as the Bulletin. Miss Helen A. Whittier still appears as one of the associate editors and it is to her that all notices and material from Massachusetts should be sent. The numbers thus far issued contain much of interest concerning the Federations of the various states and many illustrations. Success to the larger undertaking.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. W. F. Richards of Floral street on Dec. 12.

The first meeting of the Current Events Class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be held on Tuesday morning, Dec. 13, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. May Alden Ward will be in charge as during the past years.

On Dec. 13 the Abundant Review Club will consider "The Melting Pot," at the home of Mrs. R. L. Bridgman of Hancock street.

Mr. George Gibbs, a graduate of the Harvard department of landscape gardening, will address the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning. Guests may be invited.

By invitation of Mrs. George M. Fiske the Newton Ladies' Home Circle will meet at her home, 438 Wolcott street, Abundant, on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 2:30.

Mr. Edward H. Cutler's closing lecture of his course will be given at the home of Mrs. William T. Rich, 20 Sargent street, at 11 o'clock on Dec. 12. Subject, "Greek Tragedy."

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met with Mrs. Darius Cobb on Monday afternoon. The program was in charge of Miss Marion Morse, assisted by Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Emery Clark. The subject of the afternoon was James Russell Lowell and the papers treated of his youth, his career as a professor, poet, critic and diplomatist. Selections from his letters were also read.

The Gentlemen's Night of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands was a decided success. Mrs. Robert Gorton of Berkeley street, West Newton, opened her home for the occasion and a large number of members and their guests went over by the special car. All present were charmed with Mrs. Margaret Crandall Miller's readings, which included sketches and monologues. Mrs. Gertrude Bowes Peabody rendered violin selections accompanied by Miss Alma Suren. A social hour with refreshments followed the program. Next week the club will meet with Miss Amanda Webster of Chester street, when the study of Robert Louis Stevenson will be begun.

Mrs. William H. Gould of Beacon street entertained the members of the Waban Woman's Club on Monday afternoon, Dec. 5, the president, Mrs. Andrews, in the chair. At the business meeting interesting reports from the delegates to the State and Newton Federations were given, after which Miss Marion Miller rendered two piano selections which were heartily applauded. The guest and speaker of the afternoon was Miss Georgie A. Bacon, president of the State Federation, and her talk upon the work of that organization was listened to with much pleasure. An informal tea closed a delightful afternoon.

The Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club has presented the English department of the Newton Technical High School with a set of the Temple edition of Shakespeare.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon the Hospital committee of which Mrs. G. H. Talbot is chairman, James Whitcomb Riley's "Old Sweetheart of Mine" was recited by Mrs. A. D. Sallinger with piano accompaniment and illustrated with living pictures. Miss Elizabeth Upham in native costume represented the Italian girl and sang Italian songs, Mildred Macomber, the Spanish girl, Miss Adelaide Chase, the French, Miss Alice Soden, the Japanese, Miss Dorothy Lucas, the English, Miss Mildred Homer, the Scotch, Miss Margery Soden sang "Sunbonnet Sue," and the closing picture was "Our President," with Mrs. Enoch C. Adams, the club's president, in the frame. The dramatic dancing by Miss Virginia Tanner was an attractive feature of the afternoon. Jellies and preserves to the number of two hundred were contributed for the hospital.

An account of the meeting of the Social Science Club is crowded over until next week.

Newton Centre

—At the evening service at 7:30 of the First Baptist Church next Sunday, Rev. M. A. Levy will speak on "The City Election." Violin selections will be given by Mr. Elmer C. Adams, a pupil of the celebrated teacher, Mr. Felix Winteritz.

—Next Sunday evening at the Methodist Church, President William E. Huntington of Boston University will deliver the sermon. This is the first of the series of lectures which will be given in the church evenings by several eminent and popular men.

—Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mabel Webb, youngest daughter of Judge and Mrs. William D. Webb, of Atchison, Kas., to Mr. F. A. Edmunds, of Boston and Wellesley Hills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmunds of Lake avenue.

Newton.

—Mr. Nathan H. L. Turner passed away Monday, aged 59 years. Funeral services were held from the house on Jackson road at 12 o'clock today and the remains were taken to Lincoln for burial.

—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duckett of Maple avenue will have the sympathy of their friends in the sudden death of their 8-year-old son Thomas on Tuesday. The lad had been ill with throat trouble and heart failure was the direct cause of his death. Funeral services were held from the house Thursday morning, Rev. Dr. Laurens MacLure, rector of Grace Church, officiating, and the remains were taken to Providence for burial.

—The Men's Club of Grace Church was organized at a meeting held in the parish house last Monday evening. The following officers were chosen to serve the coming year: President, John H. Selman; vice-president, Edwin R. Sawyer; secretary and treasurer, Herbert H. Howe; executive committee,

ART CONFERENCE.

The lecture room of the Museum of Fine Arts was crowded almost to overflowing for the conference of the Art Department of the State Federation on the morning of Dec. 1. Miss Bacon, president of the Federation, in opening the session, reminded the members that it was less than one year ago that this department made its initial bow to a conference audience. She urged those present to remember that they were there to learn and to discuss.

Mr. Frederic L. Burnham, state supervisor of drawing and the manual arts, was introduced as the first speaker. His subject was "The Value of Art Study in the Life of the Pupil." The speaker started by analyzing his subject and saying that he understood it to mean the value of art study in school to its function in after life, or for men and women. He found two kinds of life general for both men and women, the social and the personal. With men the social side comes to them in their business and for women in the home, in professional life, and both men and women come together in civic life. The personal life on the other hand is the mental side, the way we look at things and the way we do our thinking, that is the same for both men and women. He desired, however, to discuss the side women represent. Taking the ore as a figure, he divided women into two groups, the crude and the refined.

On the personal side, he said, who is the crude woman? What is she? In reply he said she has very little material to think with, her range is very limited, has not much to work with, her perspective of life is not very deep; in case of an emergency she does not know how to do it. On the social side the same thing holds true.

The refined woman is just the opposite. She takes every possible chance to increase her mental range, she is trained to compare, to select, and to reject. The difference between the two is very marked when they visit an art gallery, the crude one picks out merely the pictures that attract her with no standard by which to base her choice, the refined benefited by her training knows almost instinctively the good from the bad. By means of an illustration upon the blackboard he showed how the intellect enters into our judgment of art. The two designs were of exactly the same number of lines in exactly the same position, only the proportions were different. The well balanced one was pleasing, while the poorly balanced one was not, for it did not fit the sense of sight perfectly.

The refined woman is the artist in living.

POLYMNA MUSICAL.

On Friday evening, Dec. 2, the Polymnia, Madame Isidora Martinez, musical director, began its fourth season under the present plan of home musicals. Miss Harriet Morse, vice-president, opened her house for the occasion. A fine program was presented, with an unusual array of solo talent. Assisting artists: Miss Jean MacLellan, soprano; Mr. John W. Johnson, baritone; Mr. Daniel B. Linn, basso; Mr. Karel Havlicek, violin. Madame Martinez and Mrs. Larsen at the piano.

Mr. Linn has been singing for some years in Providence and Boston. His voice is of wide range and deep, rich quality, unfortunately marred by too free use of a blurring vibrato. It is a pity he did not sing the music done for him on the program, the "Figaro" music should admirably suit his emotional temperament and dramatic qualities. He has already made some success in opera.

Mr. Johnson has a glorious voice. His style is quieter, but his songs gave evidence of intelligent reading of more than one class of music. The "Stand by your Horses" was given in sturdy, declamatory fashion, to which the tilt and swing of "Rolling down to Rio" furnished excellent contrast. But it was in the dignity and grace of Handel's "Where'er You Walk" that Mr. Johnson's good taste and the breadth and artistic finish of his singing were most evident, suggesting the wish to hear him in oratorio.

Mr. Havlicek is a very young man—a native of Bohemia—but he certainly can play the violin. The virility of his playing, and his fine technique took the audience by storm, to which he responded by an exquisite rendering of the Ruff Cavatina so dear to the hearts of music lovers. His playing promises a brilliant career.

Miss MacLellan is no stranger here, but her singing Friday night showed a marked advance in power and brilliance, as well as in greater confidence and poise, while the artistic style and musical understanding that have won her warm friends and admirers in the past are equally noticeable now. It is a delight to hear such pure enunciation and clear-cut vocalization. Madame Martinez may well be proud of this talented and modest pupil. According to program, Madame Martinez and Mrs. Larsen were at the piano. We must take the program's word for it—the piano could not be seen. Mrs. Larsen, well known as Elsie Phelan, is still more widely known perhaps as Mrs. "Boh" Larsen. She has written some delightful songs.

The work of the Polymnia itself can hardly be fairly judged, because of the unusual conditions under which they sang. To be heard and not seen undoubtedly does make it difficult for a chorus to produce its best effect. But this is certain—the music was of an unusually difficult order; such as a year ago the Polymnia might have hesitated to attempt. "De Coppah Moon," with its intricate harmony and almost impossible dissonances, might well have proved a stumbling block. But under Madame's skilful baton, its distinctive character and real beauty were well brought out. The successful accomplishment of such things as "De Coppah Moon," "The Wind Swept Wheat," are proof of the earnest study that is the "raison d'être" of this little club.

The Reinecke Canon Trios, too, are magnificent study, and are exquisite bits of tuneful, melodious rhythm and splendid harmony. A large audience was present to enjoy this fine program.

Boston Opera House—Following is the repertoire for the sixth week at the Boston Opera House. It will be noted that the regular subscription performance of Friday evening has been changed to Thursday evening, Dec. 15. On Monday, Dec. 12, Madame Butterfly will be presented with Carmen Melis in the role of Butterfly. The first performance of Laparra's La Habanera in French, in America, will be given on Wednesday evening, Dec. 14, with Fely Dereyne, the French soprano as Pilar, George Baklanoff as Ramon, Robert Lassalle as Pedro, Jose Mardones as Le Viejo, and Leo Devaux as Un fiance Aragonais and first Compare. The opera Cavalleria Rusticana will follow with Carmen Melis as Santuzza. The regular Friday evening performance will take place Thursday evening, Dec. 15, and will be La Boheme in Italian with Mme. Nellie Melba as Mimì. This will be Mme. Melba's first appearance with the Boston Opera Company. Fely Dereyne will sing Musetta and John McCormack will sing Rodolfo. Wallace Goodrich will conduct. The opera to be presented at the Saturday matinee will be Otello in Italian by Verdi. Giovanni Benatello will make his debut as Otello. George Baklanoff will sing Iago, and Carmen Melis will sing Desdemona. Saturday evening, Dec. 17, at popular prices, will be given Rigoletto in Italian by Verdi. Lydia Lipkowska will take the part of Gilda, Florencio Constantino will be the Duke, and Carlo Galeffi will sing Rigoletto. Wallace Goodrich will conduct.

Castle Square Theatre—"The Love Route," which will be the play at the Castle Square next week, is a stirring drama of life in the Southwest, its title being derived from a railroad which the hero is commissioned to build. A spur of the line will have to cross the ranch of Allene Houston, a young woman whom Ashley loves, but she refuses to give permission, and shows herself the cleverest of maidens in her attempts to thwart the efforts of her adversaries in their efforts to dispossess her. At the Castle Square "The Love Route" will be acted by Mr. Craig and all his associate players. Mr. Craig himself will appear as the hero, with Mary Young as the heroine, and Mr. Meek. Mr. Hassell, Miss Colcord, Miss Curtis and Mr. Walker all excellently cast. The scenic production will be notable.

The Christmas Gift Problem

Is there another season during the year when you count your spending money as often as you do near Christmas time? Does the dollar ever look quite so small as when you mentally decide upon the many, many gifts you must purchase? Can there be more perplexing conditions? What to give? Where to buy? How much to spend? And yet the solution is simple.

Go to a Distinctively Christmas Store

Where stocks are abundant and comprehensively displayed, and where prices are universally the lowest; where every counter is overflowing with Christmas novelties, and where every floor offers practical suggestions.

For many years this store has proclaimed the superiority of Low Cash Prices, and undoubtedly caters to a larger cash trade than any other in New England. The crowds which visit this store daily are an emphatic endorsement of our determined policy to give a little more and a little better for the dollar than is usually given where cash does not reign as king. If you will come and witness the enthusiastic shopping spectacle any day, it is safe to assume your Christmas Gift Problem will be solved. If you shop in the morning, you will be given Double Legal Stamps in addition.

Boston. Anthem, for mixed voices; published by Mr. Arthur P. Schmidt, Boston. "Rejoice the heart of Thy Servant." "Be of good cheer. I have overcome the world." When I consider Thy heavens? During the past 38 years Mr. Trowbridge has written and published about 200 musical compositions, in large and small form, vocal and instrumental.

WHAT IS THE SPIRITUAL WORLD?

A summary of lecture by Rev. John Goddard at the New Church, last Saturday evening.

That the spiritual world, or world beyond the grave, is so much like this one in outward appearance that a man might be there for some time without knowing of the change, is one of the many striking statements made by the Rev. John Goddard in his lecture last Sunday evening at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville. He explained that the authority for such statements came from the experience of Emanuel Swedenborg, who was able for many years to pass from one world to the other at will, but he also asserted that the members of the so-called "Swedenborgian" church do not rest their belief in this experience primarily upon Swedenborg's assertion (though the word of a man of his eminence cannot but carry weight) but on the coherence and reasonableness of the experience itself.

One thing, said Mr. Goddard, which makes an answer to the question "What is the Spiritual World?" important, is the popular attitude toward death. It is commonly spoken of as the "King of Terrors," and even where there is a belief in immortality there is a feeling that the future life will be very strange, if not somewhat terrible. To the latter idea old conceptions of hell have added weight, though such conceptions have of late been largely cast aside.

As a matter of fact the world beyond will be neither strange nor terrible. If we once let ourselves realize that the Ruler of that world as of this is the Lord Jesus Christ, whose love we cannot doubt, we shall realize also that our fears are groundless. And he cares for the newcomers to the other side through his angels, who have all been men and women like ourselves, and among whom are our own loved ones who have gone before. It is in their keeping that we shall awake from the sleep of death.

Death is a sleep and no more. The supposed "death struggle" is only, as scientists tell us, a physical reaction, of which the dying person is wholly unconscious. There is no shock at all. And after it comes a new life that is more real even than the life here has been. The spiritual world is a real world.

A world may be substantial without being material. Plato recognized this two thousand years ago when he taught that the realm of ideas was the real realm, and the basis of the realm of matter. The spiritual world is the world of ideas and the world of causes. Everything in the material world exists as the result of some corresponding thing in the spiritual one. And it is not a world of abstractions. There is here an exterior and objective environment gives definiteness to the life of the individual. But the phenomena there, while they are real and permanent, are not fixed and dead as such things are here. They are such outward expressions of the thought and feeling as Eddy, ignoring the comparative deadness of material things, supposed could be effected here through proper thinking. And so each man's surroundings are in perfect accord with his character and temper, are indeed the direct expression of them.

It follows from this that there are three general divisions of the spiritual world—the first for those who are willing to accept the Divine guidance, the second for those who will have no master but their own desires, and the third for those whose true character has not yet come to the surface. For in the material world our inner characters are unknown and unmovable, but the greater freedom of the life there by degrees leads a man to express his true self fully and to make it known to others and to himself.

This gradual expression of the true character is the "judgment" and there is no other. For the good this is a wonderful emancipation, bringing as it does a relief from life's hindrances and discolorations. For the evil, too, it is an emancipation, because it gives freedom from the weariness of continual pretending. It was the knowledge of the existence of such a spiritual realm of preparation and self-realization from which the idea of purgatory took rise.

Heaven may be briefly described as a place, not of idleness, but of eternal and unselfish usefulness. The details of its life are infinitely varied and individual, but there is no kind of right happiness that it does not include. As for hell, it is no prepared place of punishment, for a loving God could not punish. It is simply an association of the persistently selfish under the conditions in which they can least hurt themselves by their own folly, and it is Infinite Wisdom can find a means out of compulsion for bringing them out, the way will be found.

There was a large attendance at the lecture, and much interest was aroused by the unusualness and depth of the ideas. The course of which it formed a part will be concluded next Sunday with a lecture on "Why is the Spiritual World?" in which the grounds for belief in a future life and the need for such a life will be discussed.

How easy the work of holiday shopping might become were we all to send books in every case where they might properly fit? It would surprise many people to know how many of their friends, young and old, would appreciate them more than other things that cost more money. If any one is skeptical in the matter, let him step into Lauriat's any one of these busy days and see what people are buying and why. It will be strange if he does not catch the infection himself and like the others, buy and wish he could keep on buying forever. There is something in the very atmosphere of the place that is enticing at all times, but never more so, it would seem, than when the store puts on its holiday garb.

—The first entertainment under the auspices of the Entertainment Club will be given in the parlors of Channing Church next Sunday evening. A dramatization of Charles Dickens' story, "The Cricket on the Hearth" will be presented by members of the club. Mr. Frank J. Robinson is the new treasurer of the club, taking the place of Mr. Horace Harrington, who resigned to assume the editorship of the Channing Messenger.

Colonial Theatre—The many-sided talents of David Montgomery and Fred Stone have never been so cleverly displayed as in their performance of "The Old Town," which is in the midst of a tremendously successful season at the Colonial Theatre, Boston. There are lots of comedians who can sing and dance and act, but there is only one known to contemporaneous theatregoers who in addition to singing and dancing and acting, can walk a wire, do a neat acrobatic "stunt" and eclipse one of Buffalo Bill's cowboys in the adroit handling of a lariat and a revolver. That one is Fred Stone, and he with his partner, Montgomery, keeps the performance of "The Old Town" moving rapidly every minute that it runs. George Ade and Gustav Luders have given Montgomery and Stone an excellent basis of characterization, humorous situations and tuneful music. They must be praised for most of the other quantities which go to make "The Old Town" the most entertaining musical show of the year. The engagement of Montgomery and Stone at the Colonial Theatre has been extended to include Christmas eve—Saturday, Dec. 24. Matinee performances are announced for Wednesday and Saturday afternoons of the final fortnight.

Hollis Street Theatre—"The Bachelor's Baby" at the Hollis Street Theatre, which presents Francis Wilson both as author and star, is said on all sides to be the longest, loudest, cleanest, healthiest, heartiest and merriest laugh in Boston. This merry comedy-farce with Mr. Wilson in his original role of Thomas Beach, the child-hating bachelor, goes into the third and last week of its engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre tonight. "The Bachelor's Baby" is a particularly clean and wholesome farce with a laugh in almost every line, and if one wishes an evening of delightful amusement, it would be difficult to find anything at the local theatres more entertaining. Next week will be the last of Mr. Wilson's engagement and the only matinee of the week will be given on Saturday.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—B. F. Keith's Theatre will present next week a very pretentious musical comedy entitled "Tom Walker on Mars," in which John B. Hymer and company will appear. This is a production big enough for a legitimate stage, and the light and scenic effects surpass anything previously presented in vaudeville. Another big feature will be Mason-Keeler and company, in a comedy called "In and Out." In fact, the entire bill will be made up of acts that have never been seen before in this theatre. One particularly interesting feature will be the first vaudeville appearance of Steve White, late star of the Bank Officers' Shows, who will sing and do some of his eccentric dances. The Ellis-Howell troupe will appear in an acrobatic sketch called "Fun in a Fire House." This is a large company and is one of the greatest laughing vehicles on the stage. Others will be Barends and Robinson, in a musical and singing act; Dooley and Sales, comedians; Skromka Sisters in an aerial act, and others.

Read the ad on page 3 of the confectioner, who for the 19th year has supplied so many of Newton and Waltham families with all of their Christmas candies, and who is making greater preparations for this year than ever. It will pay you to visit him early.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM.

Many of our readers will remember the late Henry A. Gane, whose residence was on Waltham street, West Newton. When he retired from business he built a greenhouse for his own personal enjoyment and not for profit. Among the plants he cultivated successfully was the chrysanthemum. He took a number of prizes at the Horticultural Society, and among them, one that he christened the Mrs. Jerome Jones (his daughter) took a gold medal prize, for its excellence has lived through all the different competitions, for its excellence as a blossom, an incurve with a superb foliage coming up close to the blossom and a stalk strong enough so it does not top over, as many large blossoms do.

Within the last two weeks, at the annual exhibition of chrysanthemums in Chicago, New York and Cincinnati, it has been awarded premiums.

It may be news to some that seed planted of the chrysanthemum never produces the same, a paradox of nature, and the way to perpetuate a given specimen is to cut slips from it and grow them the following season.

The chrysanthemum comes at the time of year when it finds an appreciation of lovers of flowers. Coming as it did originally from Japan, it is an important feature now in the flower shows of France, England and this country.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF THE RELATED SHOPPER.

I. Thou shalt take with thee Christmas shopping neither thy husband, thy brother, thy father, thy son, thy sweetheart, nor any other man, for, verily, a man in a department store is worse than a bull in a china shop, and his temper when he emerges is like unto that of a hyena, and, besides, what doth he know about it anyway?

II. Thou shalt not carry a baby with thee shopping, neither shalt thou drag a little child by the hand. Better a well child with only home made Christmas presents than one whose stocking is filled to the brim with man measles or scarlet fever hath laid low.

III. Thou shalt not ask for a holly box with a 25 cent necktie or a 15 cent handkerchief. Thou wilt not receive it anyway, and thou wilt have saved thy breath.

IV. Thou shalt not stop in the middle of the aisle with thy dear friends reminiscences and Christmas plans. The management provideth a large waiting room for impromptu social functions.

V. Thou shalt not say with a lofty air when looking at gingham dress patterns, "I want something for my maid," for the saleswoman is next to thee. She hath seen thousands of thy kind, and she knoweth that thy only maid is the old laundress who cometh to thee for a half day each week.

VI. Thou shalt not get angry because thou must wait for thy turn, and rush to a floor walker saying angrily, "How much longer must I wait? I want you to know that I am Mrs. De Ponsonby and my husband is a most intimate friend of the proprietor, and I will see whether I have to be treated this way or not." It gets thee nothing, for thou art the two hundred and sixty-fifth woman who hath said that to the floor walker. Verily, at Christmas time the women whose relatives know the proprietors of the department stores are like the sands of the seashore.

VII. Thou shalt limit thyself to one hour for each present. If thou hast eighty presents and hast put out thy shopping until this last week, then thou wilt experience some little difficulty in getting through, but as thou art the ordinary woman an hour a present is the least that can be expected of thee.

VIII. Thou shalt keep ever before thee the total sum which thou hast planned to spend for Christmas. Of course thou wilt get beyond it, but remember that a receipted bill from the grocer in January will give thee more satisfaction than the perfumed notes from the friends who are wearing thy gifts of silken stockings.

IX. Thou shalt wear upon thy coat a sprig of holly, upon thy face a Christmas smile, and in thy mouth shall be continually, "Please" and "Thank you" and "I am very sorry to have troubled you." Thus shalt thou find thy way, even upon the night before Christmas, made easy unto thy feet.

X. Thou shalt be a "Good Fellow," and remember in thy Christmas shopping some of the children to whom Christmas is only a tragedy.

TWO QUESTIONS.

What shall I give? Where can I find it? Miss Caroline is displaying some unusual exclusive, desirable, expensive "Nouveautes pour jours de fetes." Besides these odd bits of jewelry, etc., she has reduced the price of all her imported hats and trimmed stock—practical holiday gifts—at her parlors, 486 Boylston street, in the block of the Brunswick Hotel, Boston.

SAN JOSE SCALE

We are now making a specialty of the treatment for the San Jose Scale. We guarantee beneficial results provided the tree is not too far gone. The solution we use is highly recommended by all leading entomologists of New England.

We will cheerfully give estimates for this work in any part of Newton. Also Gypsy and Brown-tail Moth work done at lowest possible prices.

Read what Newton Forest Commissioner says—

"The Gill Insecticide Company has done work in this city and has been approved by me, and I recommend them to any one wishing tree work performed."

BELL'S SEASONING

Has delicately flavored the Dressings of Turkey, Chicken, Game Meats & Fish served in New England during the past 40 Years. It's the only original. Refuse substitutes.

MEAT OR TURKEY DRESSING (equally good when baked and served separately). Toast 7 or 8 slices of white bread. Place in a deep dish, adding butter size of an egg. Cover with hot water to melt butter and make bread right consistency. Add an even tablespoon of Bell's Seasoning. An even teaspoon salt, and 4 slices of salt pork, fried to a crisp and chopped fine. When well mixed, stir in 1 or 2 raw eggs. Bake in same dish. Note.—The above dressing may be improved, to some taste, by adding chopped nuts of any kind, chestnuts, peanuts, walnuts, etc. Oysters also give a fine flavor. Remember, a 10c. can of Bell's Seasoning is sufficient to flavor the dressing for 100 lbs. of meat or poultry, and the 25c. can 300 lbs. With but three contests, and those confined to the limits of individual wards, the city election on Tuesday will be so tame as call forth only a small percentage of voters and the danger of a change in our license policy is therefore probable. With a full vote the city can be depended upon to say NO with emphasis. What it will do with less than half its electorate voting is worth serious consideration. Friends of the NO license policy should be sure to vote and to urge all their neighbors to do the same.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, whose death took place this week at Chestnut Hill, will live in history as one of the most remarkable characters of the century.
The theory of religion, to which she has devoted her life, has been of incalculable value to thousands of people, both physically and spiritually, and has become one of the distinctive features of the Protestant faith.

It is a matter of congratulation that the board of aldermen decided to debate the question of municipal insurance. A policy which has met the approval of city governments for 35 years ought not to be changed without the fullest consideration.

Our account of the meeting of the board of aldermen on Monday night is crowded over until next week.

REV. DR. SHINN DEAD

Rev. George Wolfe Shinn, for 31 years rector of Grace Church, Newton, died Wednesday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George C. Stevens, at Summit, N. J.

Dr. Shinn had been seriously ill eight weeks. A year ago he was forced by failing health to relinquish his literary work and his active interest in the Episcopal Mission Church at Mil-wood, N. J., which had received his attention since he retired from Grace Church as rector emeritus.

The funeral services will take place at Grace Church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in St.
Mary's Cemetery, Newton Lower Falls.

Rev. Dr. George Wolfe Shinn was born in Philadelphia, Dec. 14, 1839. His early education was secured in that city, after which he received his theological training in the old Virginia Seminary near Alexandria and the Divinity School in Philadelphia.

His first charge was the Church of Our Saviour, Philadelphia, which he relinquished at the end of three years on account of ill-health. He next took up work in Trinity parish, Shamokin, Pa., then St. Paul's, Lock Haven, Pa.,
and later St. Luke's at Troy, N. Y.

From Troy he was called to Newton and entered upon his rectorship at Grace Church in January, 1875. Here he remained 31 years, retiring in the spring of 1906 as rector emeritus. For the next four years Dr. Shinn had lived in Summit, N. J., with one of his daughters, Mrs. George C. Stevens.

Dr. Shinn served on the Newton school committee for 12 years, and was one of the founders of the Newton Hospital. He has been connected with a number of organizations, such as the Natural History Society, the Tuesday Club, the Eastern Convocation, the Church Congress, and was the president of the Newton Ministers' Union, the School of Expression, the Episcopal chapter of the Actors' Church Alliance and the Society for the Entertainment of the Shut-ins.

The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by William and Mary College.

Early in 1906 Dr. Shinn found that his health would not permit continuing his duties as rector of Grace Church.
The death of his wife only a short time before was a shock from which he never recovered. May 14, 1906, he was made rector emeritus, though he resigned as the head of the parish June

MR. HENRY BARBER DEAD

Mr. Henry Barber, a resident of Newton Centre for about 25 years, died suddenly while attending to business in Providence last Wednesday. Mr. Barber, who had been dictating to a stenographer, complained of feeling ill and dropped dead. He is survived by a widow and four children, Ruth, Payson, Eleanor and Ellen. He was an attendant at the Newton Centre Unitarian Church and had many friends in the city. Funeral services will be held from his late home on Sumner street, Newton Centre, at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

RECEPTION.

Mrs. Harold D. Corey gave a reception yesterday afternoon with tea at her residence in Newton, in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Wallace, who before her marriage was Miss Margaret Whidden, and who has recently returned from a stay in Mexico and California. Mrs. Corey had to assist her in her hospitalities in the tea room.

tea table was decorated with white sweet peas and Killarney roses.

CLAFLIN GUARD VETERANS.

The 16th anniversary of the Claflin Guard Veteran Association was held last evening at the Exchange Club, Boston, the members being the guest of the president, Mr. Lewis R. Speare. At the business meeting held prior to the banquet, the former officers were re-elected as follows: President, Mr. Lewis R.
Speare; vice-presidents, Mr. Frederick W. Turner, Mr. Reuben Forknall; secretary, Col. Robert Ball Edes; treasurer, Col. Walter E. Lombard. Seated at the head table with President Speare were Col. Isaac F. Kingsbury, General William B. Emery, Department Commander
H. J. McCammon, Spanish War Veterans, and Vice-President Turner. Brief speeches were made by Col. Kingsbury, Judge John C. Kennedy, Col.
Lombard, who acted as toastmaster, Comrade W. W. Montgomery of Charles Ward Post, Commander Mc-Cammon, Major Ernest R. Springer, and Lieutenant George H. Daniels.

EQUAL FRANCHISE.

One of the social events of the week was the very successful meeting of the Newton Equal Franchise Association, held Thursday afternoon at G. A. R.
Hall, Newtonville. Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson gave an extremely interesting address on "Women in Many Lands," touching upon women in the Hawaiian Islands, Japan, China, Burmah, India, ending with the more fortunate and happy condition of women in Australia and New Zealand, where enlightened government has given them full political liberty, and where on their part, the women exercise it without bringing about any of these terrible effects which the timid are constantly predicting.

Mrs. John Leonard of Brookline, chairman of the State Ward and Precinct Committee, gave a talk on this subject, and it was decided to organize along these lines. A committee was formed, with Mrs. C. W. Heizer chairman, Miss Anna Whiting, Mrs. W. E.
Birdsall, to take charge of this work.

Announcement was made of an address to be given on Jan. 12 at the same place on "Women in Civic Life" by Mrs. Teresa Crowley of Boston, mother, writer, lawyer and speaker.

Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Fred A. Wetherbee and Mrs. C.
W. Heizer, Mrs. S. L. Eaton and Miss Anna Whiting. Many new members were enrolled.

PRESENTED WITH PLATE.

Mr. Albert Plummer of Auburndale was most agreeably surprised on Wednesday, his 70th birthday, when he was presented with a beautiful and valuable piece of silver plate by his associates
on the staff of the Shoe and Leather
Reporter and other friends in the trade.
In presenting Mr. Plummer with the silver, the president of the company paid him a high tribute of respect and esteem. Mr. Plummer has been connected with the Reporter for nearly 34 years.

Nonantum

The annual fair and sale of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the North Congregational Church was held Wednesday and Thursday in the church rooms at Nonantum. The decorations were seasonable, and the various booths were attractively arranged. The food table was in charge of Mrs. W. H.
Wilcox and Mrs. Frank Seaward.
Those in charge of other tables were:
Ice cream, Miss Mary Frye, Mrs. Le-lie Burgess; candy, Mrs. Clement McPhee, Miss O. Beatrice Forknall; fancy
table, Mrs. L. M. Lowry, Mrs. Reuben Forknall; mystery booth, Mrs. Edwin Frye, Miss Edna Wilcox; Japanese tea room, Mrs. W. E. Halliday, Miss Beatrice Wilcox, Miss Nellie Billings. An entertainment was included, the program containing piano selections by Miss Edna McCullough, violin solos by Miss Anna Fox, and a drill by 13 girls from the Sunday school led by Miss Edna Wilcox.

SUGGESTIONS TO SHIPPERS OF CHRISTMAS PACKAGES
BY EXPRESS.

First—Ship your package early. The express company will give you a small label to paste on the package reading
"Do not open until Christmas." This will give opportunity for the package to reach its destination before Christmas and give the additional pleasure to the recipient of the gift of having it on Christmas morning.

Second—Use wooden boxes for packing, especially for glass and other fragile articles, which should be well protected. It may cost a few cents more, but the danger of damage will be very much reduced, and you should do your part to make the transportation of your gift safe.

Third—Write the address in full—state, county, city, street and number—on the box or package, with ink or crayon. Tags are frequently torn off and lost.

Fourth—If you want to prepay the charges, write the word "Paid" in large,
plain letters on the package.

Fifth—Insist upon a receipt and see that the amount paid and the value is marked on the receipt and on the package.

Sixth—Write your own address in full somewhere on the package, following the prefix "From....."

Seventh—Enclose a card in each box or package, showing who from and the address, also enter on same card the name and address of consignee.

Eighth—If not convenient to ship in wooden boxes, use strong wrapping paper (not newspapers) except for glass and fragile articles, and tie with strong cord.

Ninth—If package contains anything of perishable nature, write the word
"Perishable" in large, plain letters on the box or package, which will call for special attention and delivery.

If you will observe these suggestions,
you will greatly assist in the prompt delivery of your gift in good condition.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Mrs. E. E. Frye, late of Newton in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Theophilus Frye, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named,
without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex,
on the twenty-ninth day of December,
A. D. 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have,
why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in this estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this first day of December in the year of James H. Nickerson, late of Newton in said County of Middlesex, deceased.

WHEREAS, Abbie M. Elwell and Emma L. Harrington, executrices of the will of said deceased, have presented to said Court, their petition praying that they may be allowed to pay out of the cash in their hands a sum equal to twenty per cent of all claims as allowed by the Commissioners appointed by said Court to receive and examine claims against the estate of said deceased, said estate having been represented insolvent, and that they may retain in their hands the sum of $265.15 to satisfy future charges by decree of said Court dated July 28, 1909.

You are hereby cited to appear at

DO YOU APPRECIATE A PROPERLY Laundered Collar?

Please consider a moment how many details must be successfully attended to in securing this result. There must be Good Washing, Careful Blueing, Expert Starching, Thorough Drying, Uniform Dampening, Smooth and Even Ironing, Shaping, Edge Finishing, Inspection Assorting; and last, but not least, Careful Bundling.
Any one process of these noted above not properly carried out, means poor work, which is NOT what we give you.

QUIET CITY ELECTION

MURPHY AVERY AND COX WIN WARD FIGHTS

The average citizen of Newton hardly knew that a municipal election was in progress last Tuesday, only 2910 ballots being cast out of a registration of 6697 and over 1900 of the total being cast in the three wards which had contests on for ward aldermen.

The Republican nominees for ward aldermen were opposed in wards one, two and three by Democrats, and were successful in wards 2 and 3, where Alderman Avery won by a margin of 27 and Alderman Cox by 250. In ward 1 Mr. John W. Murphy, Democrat, was elected to succeed Alderman Doherty, carrying both precincts and winning by 234 votes over Paul W. Wing, the Republican candidate. No license carried the city, 1733 to 802, a very flattering margin on such a light vote.

The Republican nominees for aldermen at large and for school committee were unopposed. Forty-three women were elected out of a registration of 621. The detailed vote for aldermen at large and for license will be found in another column.

The other totals were as follows:

School Committee, ward 1 (one year).	Men 1535
Fred H. Tucker.	Women 35
School Committee, ward 2 (two years).	Men 1565
Albert M. Lyon.	Women 33
School Committee, ward 3 (three years).	Men 1526
S. Edward Howard.	Women 34

D. A. R.

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton, met at the Newton Club house Monday, Dec. 12, at 3 p. m. The hostesses were Mrs. Fred M. Lowe, Mrs. John L. Damon, Mrs. Isaac F. Osgood, Mrs. Gardner I. Jones, who with the regent, Mrs. Arthur P. Friend, received the members and their friends.

The business meeting was presided over by the regent and the announcement was made of a very creditable sum realized from the recent entertainment. The motion was carried to send $50 at once to the Martha Berry School at Rome, Ga.

After listening to some fine music on the violin by Miss Tudman, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Baker, one of the chapter members, Miss Lucy Allen, gave a delightful paper on Sicily, illustrated by photographs. The audience certainly felt the atmosphere of this garden spot of Italy, guided by the recollections of an enthusiastic traveler.

A social hour was enjoyed in the tea room, where Mrs. George P. Bullard and Mrs. George H. Talbot poured, assisted by young ladies.

NEW PASTOR.

Rev. Charles L. Merriam of the Congregational Church of Derry, N. H., has accepted a call to the North Congregational Church at Norantum, and he will begin his new duties Jan. 1. He succeeds Rev. Henry E. Oxnard, who recently resigned after a pastorate of ten years.

Mr. Merriam studied at the Yale Divinity School and the Andover Theological Seminary. He has filled pastorates at Kingston, Paterson, N. J., Pelham, and previous to going to Derry had charge of the Highland Congregational Church at Lowell. He is associate editor on homiletics work for the Congregationalist and is considered an able and talented preacher.

PEACE SUNDAY.

Peace Sunday, Dec. 18, 1910, will be observed at Trinity Church, Boston, by a public service, to be held at 8 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Samuel J. Elder, counsel for the United States in the fisheries case at The Hague, will speak on the topic, "A Century of Arbitration," in which he will tell of the success that the United States and Great Britain have made of arbitration in the settlement of their disputes. Dr. Alexander Mann will speak on "The Hundred Years' Peace between the United States, Great Britain and Canada." Invitations have been extended to the Canadian Club, the Intercolonial Club, the Victorian Club and the American Peace Society.

Castle Square Theatre—The annual musical production chosen by Mr. Craig for the Christmas holiday season will be "Jack and the Beanstalk," and the first performance will be given Friday evening, Dec. 23. For the first four days of the coming week the Castle Square Theatre will be closed to the public in order that preparations may be made for a complete staging of this remarkable musical extravaganza. For Mr. Craig's production of "Jack and the Beanstalk" he is preparing new stage settings, the costumes will be brilliant and novel, and the music will be played by an enlarged orchestra under the leadership of Joseph Marr. The box office of the Castle Square will remain open all next week for the sale of seats for this production.

Mme. Gray will close her millinery store from Jan. 14 to March 20. All winter stock will be closed out regardless of cost. 21 Mt. Auburn street, Newton. Closed Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

LODGES.

Tennison Rebekah Lodge of West Newton will elect its officers for the year 1911 on next Tuesday evening. The degree will also be conferred on four candidates.

MR. BARBER BURIED

Funeral services for Henry Barber, who died suddenly in Providence on Wednesday, were held Saturday afternoon at his late residence at 155 Summer street, Newton Centre. The floral tokens included gifts from his associates in the Dennison Manufacturing Company and from his class in the English High School. As an active business man in the prime of life, Mr. Barber had hosts of friends and associates as well as a wide circle of acquaintances in Newton, and there was a large attendance at the funeral. The services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Robinson of Newton Centre and Rev. Dillon Bronson of Brookline. The funeral arrangements were in charge of J. R. Armstrong of the Dennison Manufacturing Company and the pallbearers were Joseph Smith, Henry F. Smith, W. D. Brigham and H. W. Hawkes. Burial was in the family lot at Forest Hills.

Mr. Barber was born in Boston 48 years ago and was the son of Captain Henry Barber and Eliza Frances (Floyd) Barber. He was educated in the Boston public schools and graduated from the English High School with the class of 1880. He moved to Newton Centre about 13 years ago. He was a member of the Brae Burn Country Club, the Newton Squash and Tennis Club and the Republican Club of Massachusetts. He was clerk of the Newton Centre Unitarian Church for nine years until a few years ago. He had been in the employ of the Dennison Manufacturing Company since he was 17 years of age and at the time of his death was manager of the Rhode Island office with headquarters at Providence.

CITY HALL.

Mayor Hatfield entertained a number of friends at his camp on Lake Winnebago last Saturday.

Arrangements are being made for a banquet by the board of aldermen in honor of the members who retire this year.

A sepia reproduction of a photograph of the late Benjamin F. Otis has been hung in the city auditor's office. It is in a neat brown frame and has the following inscription on a silver plate: "Benjamin Franklin Otis. 1827-1910. City auditor of Newton, 1876-1910." The work was done by Partridge, the photographer.

NEWTON CENTRE WINS.

The Newton Centre squash tennis players turned the tables on their opponents last Saturday when they captured all three matches in the Massachusetts tournament, defeating B. A. most decisively.

E. Ray Spear, Newton Centre, beat Philip Nichols, B. A. A., 17-15, 15-8. George F. Wales, Newton Centre, beat H. W. Read, B. A. A., 15-7, 15-7. A. T. Bryant, Newton Centre, beat George W. Morrison, B. A. A., 15-8, 15-1.

George W. Pratt, Newton Centre, beat S. I. Fields, B. A. A., 11-15, 15-10, 15-9.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Proctor, who were recently married in Oakland, are visiting in this city. Mrs. Proctor was formerly Miss Florence A. Ward of Boston and Newton Centre, Mass., and has spent several winters in this city. Mrs. Ella Garfield and Mrs. Emma G. Martin of 2924 West Eighth street entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Tuesday evening and Thanksgiving Day they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Shillito of Juliet street. Saturday evening Mrs. Phillips of their honor and Mrs. J. Everett Polsey, who was a school friend of Mrs. Proctor, will give a large party in their honor Friday evening—Los Angeles Times.

CHURCH DEBT PAID

At the Universalist Church, Newton, Rev. Albert Hammatt, announced the completion of the task of raising the sum of $7800 to pay off the church debt and place the church finances on a firm foundation. The news came as a surprise and gratification to the audience. Last spring a special committee was appointed, with the sanction of the trustees and the parish meeting, to take steps to secure subscriptions. This committee has been quietly and persistently at work among members and former members of the society, and friends of the church in and out of Newton, until the requisite sum has been fully secured. The committee, which has had the very active and effective co-operation of the pastor, consists of Mr. C. D. Cabot, Mr. W. H. Zoller, Mr. Franklin Ranchor, Mr. Louis E. G. Green, Mr. F. E. Proctor, Mr. J. P. Wescott, Mr. H. Stewart Bosson and Mr. Winthrop L. Marvin. Last Sunday Mr. Hammatt in making his announcement stated that a service of thanksgiving to commemorate the completion of the work would be held in the church on the evening of Jan. 15, 1911.

DEATH OF MRS. GRANT.

Following close upon the death in Newton, just a week ago, of Mme. Johanne Wendte, the mother of Rev. Charles W. Wendte, D. D. of this city, came the death Friday, also in Newton, and in the same house, of Mrs. Ellen M. Grant, in her 78th year, the mother of Mrs. Wendte, who was Abbie Grant. Mrs. Grant, who was the widow of George E. Grant, a pioneer in California development, had been ill a long time and last spring she was brought East and taken to Newton by her daughter, Mrs. Wendte. She had continued ill ever since then, more seriously so since the early fall. Mrs. Grant was born in Farmington, Me., and early in the sixties she went to California by way of the Isthmus, which she crossed. She had lived nearly half a century in Oakland and had been one of the women upbuilders of that place. She is survived by a son, George E. Grant, Jr., of San Francisco, and by her daughter, Mrs. Wendte. The body of Mrs. Grant was taken to Oakland, accompanied by her daughter, for the funeral service and burial.

SYLVIA.

The customers of Mr. A. H. Waitt, the well known real estate man, have received recently some mysterious postals, inviting them to call and see Sylvia. Those who did so received one of the handsomest calendars of the season. Mr. Waitt is to be congratulated on his good taste.

REV. DR. SHINN BURIED

In Grace Church, of which he was the beloved rector for more than 30 years, funeral services for Rev. Dr. George Wolfe Shinn were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, many clergymen of this and other cities being present, as well as former parishioners and friends. The singing of three of Dr. Shinn's favorite hymns supplemented the simple ceremonial of the Episcopal Church.

Seated in the chancel were Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of Massachusetts; Archdeacon Samuel G. Babcock of Boston, Rev. Francis E. Webster of Christ Church, Waltham; Rev. George Winthrop Sargent of St. Paul's Church, Natick, and Rev. Dr. Laurens MacLure, rector of Grace Church.

The casket as it was carried to the chancel was preceded by the full surpliced choir, 34 boys and men, under the leadership of Charles N. Sladen, choirmaster. The pallbearers were John R. W. Shapleigh, Edward H. Cutler, the wardens; C. W. Emerson, Edward A. Whipple, Charles E. Riley, Sydney Harwood, William E. Jones, J. H. Sellman, and Charles L. Harrison.

Following the casket were the clergymen assisting in the service, with Bishop Lawrence in the rear. The service opened with the hymn, "O Paradise! O Paradise!" Selections from the Scriptures were read by Dr. MacLure, prayer was led by Bishop Lawrence, and the choir sang "Hark, Hark, My Soul" and "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest."

In the family pew were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Shinn of Litchfield, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stevens of Summit, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Hough of Williamsport, Pa.

The burial was in the yard of St. Mary's Church, Newton Lower Falls, where the commitment service was read by Dr. MacLure.

BISHOP MALLALIEU 82

Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu quietly observed his 82d birthday last Sunday at his home on Grove street, Auburndale. There was no special observance of the day, save that the bishop was agreeably surprised in the afternoon by a company of Lasell students who gave him a serenade before coming in to offer their congratulations.

Bishop Mallalieu, who has the honor of being the primate of the Methodist College of Bishops, is of Huguenot extraction, and was born in Sutton, Dec. 28, 1828. After preparing for college at East Greenwich and the Willbraham Academy, he entered the Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and graduated with honors in 1858.

While at that seat of learning, he lightened the severity of application, among other means by stump speaking, and was peculiarly active in this direction during the presidential campaign of 1856. The enviable ease of his address in public is in part due to the employment of his great natural gifts as an orator.

He entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, uniting with the New England Conference in 1858. His life has been spent almost entirely in the pastorate, and in this respect he differs widely from his associates elected at the same time to the episcopate. He was pastor in his native place, Sutton, was twice pastor of Bromfield Street Church, Boston, and has had pastoral charge of Walnut Street Church, Chelsea; Lynn Common Church, Broadway, South Boston, and Trinity, in Worcester.

In 1875 he travelled in Europe, and made a careful study of continental ecclesiastical life, and especially of the state of religion in the Roman Catholic countries. He has exhibited remarkable executive ability in the office of presiding elder of the Boston district, which he left for the episcopal service.

He was a member of the general conference of 1872, contributing largely to the election of his confidential friend, Bishop Gilbert Haven. He was also a member of the conferences of 1876 and 1880. His earliest ministry was in New Hampshire in 1858.

In the 20 years that he has been in the episcopate, Bishop Mallalieu has always been considered the particular friend of the negro. This was principally owing to the circumstances that swept him into the bishop's chair. He was elected in 1884 to fill the vacancy made by the death of Bishop Gilbert Haven. The latter gentleman had been the presiding officer of the Freedmen's Aid Association, an institution for the benefit of the Southern negroes.

The then youngest of bishops, he was appointed to the work that the deceased diocesan had left, and since then much of his work has been in the South. He at first elected New Orleans as his episcopal residence and has since made his home in Buffalo, Boston and Auburndale.

He married Miss Eliza Frances Atkins of Sandwich, who was the second daughter of Captain Atkins, an old Cape Cod retired sea captain.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

An automobile containing two men and two women met with an accident early Tuesday morning on Commonwealth avenue near Central street, Auburndale, one of the women being slightly hurt. When the police arrived they found that the men had run away. Their names were obtained, however, and the operator will be complained of for operating a car under the influence of liquor.

LODGES.

A series of joint whist parties have been arranged by members of Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent, D. of V., and J. Wiley Edmunds Camp, S. of V., which will be given twice a month, throughout the winter, in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville.

BOARD OF SURVEY OPPOSED AT LAST MEETING OF BOARD OF ALDERMEN

The aldermen held a long meeting Monday night and transacted considerable business, altho it was nearly ten o'clock before actual work was reached owing to many hearings scheduled for that evening. President Jones was in the chair, and Aldermen Burr, Higgins, Leonard and Williamson were the only members absent.

Mr. William B. Young favored the petitions of the Edison Co. for pole locations and attachments on Laurel street and they were opposed by Hon. J. M. W. Hall, W. F. Bacon and W. C. Brooks, Jr. Messrs. Bruce R. Ware and Louis S. Drake spoke in opposition to petition of the Telephone Co. for poles on Bennington street and letters of protest were read from Clara H. Briggs, Channing Lilly, J. R. W. Shapleigh, A. W. Fuller, Mrs. Russell Freeman, L. S. Drake and E. B. Church. Mr. H. S. Allen favored the petition for the company. Hearings on petitions of the Edison Co. for attachments on Linwood avenue, of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Beacon street, of Burnham Bros., John S. Alley and Charles A. Hubbard for gasoline licenses were unattended and the two last petitions were granted at once.

No action appeared on the proposed taking of land for sewer in Withlowe road but opposition developed to the sewer to be laid in Westwood street, Webster street and off Webster street. On the latter subject, Mr. R. F. Gammons 2nd, treasurer of the U. S. Signal Co., which is erecting an addition to its plant on Westwood street, spoke in favor, as the employment of some 50 men would require more adequate sanitary conveniences. Mr. J. H. Westworth spoke rather doubtfully as to the attitude of the Wentworth-Lister Co., which has a factory on the same street. Mr. Westworth said they employed some 35 to 40 men and later in answer to a question of Alderman Lyons admitted that there were no sanitary conveniences in his mill, the men using the ground. Mr. William Kellar said he had already paid sewer assessments on Webster street and did not care to be charged any more.

At the hearing on the proposed bill to establish a Board of Survey there was considerable opposition.

Mr. George A. Ward said in part: This seems an arbitrary act. It fixes power in the hands of a Board of Survey in the city of Newton so that a man cannot lay out his own property unless it coincides with their ideas. It gives them absolute power to do as they see fit, accept your plan or change it, and it may be at an advantage and it may be at a disadvantage. I have talked with conveyancers and they say there is a clause which would be unconstitutional. It raises a cloud in the conveyance of your title and I am not in favor of this act as it reads now, only as an advisory board to consult in laying out streets. And another thing, a great deal of our land is laid out and the plans are in our offices and they may be all changed. We have been to thousands of dollars of expense in laying out this land. I am thoroughly opposed to the bill in its present condition.

I don't want any board which has power to lay out my property and tell me what I can't do with it. I have a right to lay it out as I deem best, but I am open to suggestions if they can show me a chance for improvement before I go ahead, but I do want the privilege of carrying out my ideas and not be held up by the Board of Survey and told that I must get a sewer line for other necessary things and hindering me in developing my property.

You take undeveloped property and pay taxes on it for several years and then see what the regulations are in Newton. It is the hardest place in the world to sell real estate. You can't get an outside builder to come to Newton. If you are going to develop Newton you want to give the land owner some show to build up his property. I have been in this business since 1892, developing real estate. It is principally the restrictions and the building and the plumbing laws that we are up against. I have had practical experience that way.

Wiley S. Edmunds: I am in favor of a Board of Survey. I think the last thing is to check development. I think the wording of the bill may hamper it a great deal. You have a veto power which may check everything for an indefinite period.

I think the veto power should be controlled. I think the owner should have the benefit of two-thirds or a majority vote of the Board of Aldermen, not six-sevenths.

Mr. Adams D. Claffin: I desire to appear in opposition to the Board of Survey. This bill is most unfortunate to land owners in the city of Newton. I handle a large lot of real estate and land today in Newton is not worth as much as 10 years ago and that is not an encouraging thing for land owners and by the passage of any such a bill it will not improve. It places a cloud in the title which would involve much more examination every time a piece of land is transferred. I have talked with two or three conveyancers and they say it would involve greater expense to transfer land. Now in the second place after the board is appointed it does not say of whom it is to consist, and it might be a very unwise board. The land owner on filing his plans places his property absolutely in the power of the Board of Survey, that is, they have absolute power to change the details and the man does not have anything to say about it. Then in the next section, any further development that would seem desirable would take six-sevenths vote of the Board of Aldermen, an unheard of majority because six-sevenths is practically the same as unanimous, to change it. It seems to me that the bill as here drawn is very dangerous and detrimental to the land owners in the city of Newton. It certainly would decrease the price of land. I think the bill is unwise and don't see any necessity for it. It seems to me anyone owning real estate has a very heavy burden to carry without it.

Mr. E. Arthur Robinson: I want to put myself on record in objection to the bill. I don't believe you could get any bill that would not be objectionable. For instance, two or three years ago a man wanted me to sell a lot of land and asked me how much I could get for it. I said probably $1000 and he said, "I was offered $1000 for the same lot 30 years ago." Now if you are going to shut out operators you are going to handicap the city of Newton. I believe the majority of land is vacant and I think a great majority of the vacant land ought to be developed, and you have got to sell it to someone who will develop it and the very minute that you appoint a Board of Survey to restrict land owners you are going to shut out operators and they will operate somewhere else. A man must not be told how he can lay out his land to make the most money. You might have a board to show the owners something of benefit. For instance, the best man for this board had better be a landscape architect attached to the engineer's force of the city. I think that any man would like to have advice from a good able engineer as well as an artist. If you are going to pass this you are going to shut off the sale of Newton real estate. The average purchaser can't see beyond the end of his nose. If you show him a piece of land he can't see what a beautiful place it could be made if you build. The only show for Newton to come out and equal other suburban cities is to develop the land and build on it.

Mr. William F. Harbach: I heartily agree with the opposition to this bill. I can't see any necessity for any bill. I believe that land owners have a hard enough time now. There is one feature that seems to me to be a special hardship. This provides that the Board of Survey may decide on the width of the street. Now one man presents his plan for a 40 foot street, another man can make it 75 or 100 feet, in fact they might confiscate his whole land to accommodate his neighbor. He will have nothing left to sell. It seems to me that there is no occasion for any bill.

Mr. W. B. Young said he had been in the real estate business for some time and thought the ordinances covered everything necessary.

Mr. William F. Bacon spoke in opposition saying that he thought the most unique thing was that it allowed the Board of Survey to take the initiative.

Alderman Chadbourne was designated to draw four furors for the U. S. Court in Boston and drew the names of Charles A. Clarke of Newton, James R. Condrin of West Newton, John H. Stickney of Auburndale and Charles A. Dean of Newtonville.

Petition of T. J. Birmingham for a common victuallier license at Price's lunch was granted and the license held by Mr. Price was revoked. Other petitions received were from Antonio Morella for pool table licenses, West Newton, Nicholas Veducchio for liquor transportation permit, Guilo Salvi and Benedict Martini for street musician licenses, the Telephone Co. for relocation on Auburn street, the Edison Co. for relocations on Centre street, Crescent street and Faxon street, the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Co. for pole location, Walnut street, and for a track location in Elm road, Grace B. Bliss for gasoline license and the Gas Light Co. to open Crofton road and Waban avenue. The last petition was subsequently granted.

The usual recess was taken for a committee meeting and on re-assembling the following action was taken on recommendation of committees: Making transfers into collection of ashes, $2000, $100 for board of aldermen printing, and $500 for fire incidentals; appropriating $920 for certain hydrants, $330 for locating four blow-offs on the water system, $584 for water mains in Adella street, Upland road and Mill street, $3000 for water main in Chestnut street, $1350 for purchase of material by water department, $900 for 75 bling fountains in school buildings, $875 for additional heating at Drill shed, taking land for sewer and ordering sewer laid in Smith court, making betterment assessments on Bellingham street, Bradford road, Carver road, Endicott street and Plymouth road, amending annual appropriation order for 1911 so as to place appropriations for care of the City Hall and court house under control of mayor, authorizing consolidation of certain items in annual appropriation of 1911 to simplify bookkeeping at City Hall, granting Telephone Co. attachments on Oakland, Washington and Ballard street, relocation on Watertown street, Aberdeen street and Cheswick road and granting the Edison Co. for poles on Berkeley street.

The order to transfer $25,000 from the overlay account into the new Municipal Insurance fund was laid over until the next meeting after a considerable debate. Alderman Barker strongly opposed the order as he believed the money could be more wisely expended in other directions. Alderman Heard believed the advisability of establishing such a fund was open to question, and called attention to the annual fixed charge of $3000 which would be entailed in the future. He advocated a postponement for a few years until the city was in an easier position.

Alderman Towle said the matter had been discussed for some years and believed it unwise for the city to continue without insurance with two millions of property.

Alderman Doherty said unless he was more fully advised he would vote against the order.

Alderman Lyons said it was too early to start this fund and the money should be expended for better streets.

President Jones took the floor and spoke strongly in favor of the matter, saying that it was a legitimate charge for maintenance; that it would not be necessary to make appropriations each year, and that he did not believe the city had any right to use this overlay fund for current expenses. The order was then laid on the table.

Every business is what the patrons make it; there is a business for every class of patrons, good, bad and indifferent.

—Much sympathy is extended to Professor J. H. Pillsbury of Beacon street and to his family upon his serious illness. He was afflicted by a severe shock while on the train on Monday, which resulted in almost total paralysis of the left side and since that time his condition has been critical and showing little or no improvement.

Newtonville

—Mr. John B. Turner quietly observed his 76th birthday Thursday at his home on Court street. Mr. Turner was a former postmaster at the local office and later carried on a real estate and insurance business. He is now agent for a number of insurance companies. He received the congratulations and best wishes of many friends and a number of appropriate gifts.

NEWTON CLUB.

An enjoyable vaudeville entertainment was held last evening in place of the lecture scheduled for Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith. Mr. Smith will speak later in the season.

On Monday the D. A. R. held a well attended meeting.

Saturday nights are becoming popular and there was a large attendance.

Why are some newspapers like a man with cold feet? Because they suffer from poor circulation.

Did you ever notice that a country banker always refers to a loan as an accommodation?

We are all wireless stations; we receive the harmonious or the discordant, just as we are tuned.

Don't envy the man who is riding around in an auto until you know how big his mortgage is.

Time may be money, but the average man would rather give you two hours' talk than lend you a quarter.

Cook prunes by pouring hot water over them and letting them stand on the back of the stove a few hours.

Don't make ginger cookies and then hide the jar. Nobody ever hid a cookie jar where a boy could not find it.

I find turkey fat, after it has been tried out, a splendid substitute for butter in making cookies or biscuits.

Gruels are more tempting to the sick if whipped to a froth with an eggbeater, and served in a pretty, dainty cup.

When your stocking feet are past mending, cut off the legs for bags to put over the broom when wiping walls or floors.

To prevent woven carpet from unraveling, it is a good plan to unravel about two inches and tie together the ends of warp.

Some jars of nicely canned fruit, or glasses of jelly or pickles, make a Christmas present that is always acceptable to the recipient.

When you make doughnuts, remember that it isn't the hole that fills up a hungry boy's appetite. Put in some doughnut, as well as a great big hole.

If the neck of a sweater becomes stretched too loose from wearing, shring it by dipping it in clear, warm water, then drying.

It is sad to contemplate the number of men who are willing to go without food and clothing in order that they may contribute to the prosperity of the saloon keeper.

"Kind lay, I'm just merely trying to keep soul and body together!"—he did look thin;

But the lady did neither smile nor weep.

As she handed the tramp a safety pin!

A Long Island farmer heard a noise one night, and thinking that the wagon spoke he went out to investigate. He discovered that the wagon was tongue-tied and that he had merely heard Long Island Sound.

Hearing at another time a commotion near a piece of timber not far from the beach, and fearing that it was smugglers or pirates, he went out to frighten them away by having the hickory bark. The hickory failed, but he found that the dog-wood succeeded. However, it turned out to be simply an ocean squall.

A five-year-old girl in this city who was attempting to eat a tough lamb chop, stopped long enough to say to her mother that "it was like chewing the rag."

The same little girl was laboriously trying to teach her baby sister how to read, and as the baby was not old enough to talk, was having a rather hard time, exclaimed at last in her impatience, "I don't think you amount to much, anyway."

A small boy whose parents were compelled to take him with them almost everywhere they went, was at communion service one Sunday. A few days later his mother found him playing at church and overheard him invite his imaginary congregation "to step up front and have some bread and Moxie."

The same boy was in the habit of looking out of the window each night before he went to bed and ask God to make him a better boy. His mother was considerably shocked one night to hear him say in all seriousness, "God, make me a better boy and I'll give you a piece of pie."

WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

Heinrich Heine in one of his lyrics tells of the pine tree of the North buried 'neath ice and snow keeping itself warm dreaming of the palm of the sunny Southland. Similarly the Club Editor has kept her courage up during these bitter cold days living again the experiences of the summer. A point which comes back with increasing vividness is the wealth of flowers seen everywhere in Europe, particularly in England, Holland and Germany. They do not seem to have the definite seasons there as here, for even well into September the roses were still blossoming. What a part the vines and shrubbery play in making Oxford the beautiful and charming place it is! Who can think of Berlin in summer without its rows upon rows of window boxes aflame with red and pink geraniums? And there were the parks with all their reds. What would happen in Boston if the dwellers on Commonwealth avenue should turn that grass plot into a garden? And yet that is done everywhere in Europe and they are left to flourish and bloom undisturbed.

The December General Federation Bulletin just at hand announces that at the recent board meeting of the general Federation it was decided to hold the next meeting of the council in Memphis, Tenn., in April, 1911, and the 11th Biennial in June, 1912, at San Francisco.

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will meet with Mrs. Albert Hayward of Centre street on Monday, Dec. 19.

Mrs. Archie C. Burnett of Waban avenue will entertain the Waban Woman's Club on Dec. 19, William F. Boos, M. D., of the Massachusetts General Hospital will lecture, his subject being "The Instruction of the Young in Some Vital Matters."

On Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 20, the Newtonville Woman's Guild will have a home meeting, subject, "Antique and Curios." There will be several short talks upon historic matters.

The Social Science Club will omit the meetings which would regularly come on Dec. 21 and Dec. 28, owing to the pressure of the holiday season.

On Friday, Dec. 9, the West Newton Women's Educational Club listened to a very interesting lecture by Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, president of the American Home Economics Association, upon "The Division of the Income." Music for the violin and piano preceded the lecture. At the close tea was served. Decorations of holly and red carnations made the room and table very attractive. Mrs. A. H. Clifford and Mrs. Hill poured.

On Monday afternoon last the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands met with Mrs. Richards. Mrs. Darius Cobb gave a paper upon "The Poetry of James Russell Lowell." She dwelt particularly upon "The Vision of Sir Launfal," "The Commemoration Ode," "The Cathedral" and some of the shorter poems. Miss Marion Morse sang several of the poet's songs which have been set to music.

peat that there is a "white list" of bakers and of ladies' tailors which thoughtful women are urged to patronize. Her talk was supplemented by an exhibit of articles made by the women and children of the tenements of New York city, the wages received for them being indicated. This exhibit spoke more eloquently than any words and should open the eyes of every thoughtful person who sees it.

The first meeting of the Current Events Class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild was held last Tuesday morning. A large number have joined the class which will meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays, the next one coming on Dec. 27th.

"Intensive Farming of Massachusetts" was the subject presented to the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning by Mr. George Gibbs. Mr. Gibbs explained the term as meaning the farming of relatively small areas to produce the largest results in distinction from extensive farming as it is done in the West. In a way the former sort is a necessity in New England owing to its situation. Reports show that Massachusetts yields the largest returns per acre of any state in the Union. They are largely products for home consumption, and it is not ranked as an exporting state. No cereals are raised, the dairy products are largely imported as well as the meat, so that the main products are garden truck, hay, poultry, dairy products and cranberries. A new industry, which yields good returns, is that of horticulture. Agencies which have aided the farmer are the establishment of school and agricultural colleges, agricultural societies, the district granges, special class societies, the county fairs, the poultry, horse and dog shows. These have been quite a stimulus to the science and art of special farming. The possibilities of the farms are beginning to be realized and with the modern telephone, rural delivery and the automobile life on the farm is not so seriously handicapped as formerly.

By means of a map Mr. Gibbs pointed out the areas where the various products are raised. A large territory immediately around Boston is devoted to market gardening and the greenhouse industry, a large tract in the central part, is chiefly devoted to hay as is also a tract in the western part of Berkshire county to the southeast are the cranberry bogs which yield some $4,000,000 annually. West of that area and extending into Rhode Island is the great poultry raising district. Here the soil is poor and the poorer the soil the better adapted it is for poultry. Along the Connecticut River are the great tobacco fields and north of this area a region devoted to onion raising which brings in half a million dollars annually.

There are today in Massachusetts 2800 farms being worked and their total products amounted to $73,000,000 in 1905, an increase from $43,000,000 in 1900. On these farms a large outlay has been necessary to put the land into condition. It has not been unusual to spend $1000 per acre on land that cost but $25. The results, however, are sufficient to show that the art of farming has not been lost.

Further information concerning the relative value of different fertilizers, the necessity for deep cultivation and for sub-soil drainage was brought out during the discussion.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NEWS-PAPER ADVERTISING.

Advertising pays if the man that has something to sell so regulates his advertisement as to convince the people that it is worth buying.

All the substitutes for newspaper advertising can be easily avoided or disregarded by the people the advertiser tries hardest to attract, the man or woman that can afford to buy.

They do not stand gaping at billboards and they do not bother with circulars in the mail because they are too busy, but their old friend, the newspaper, is taken into the inmost privacy of the family circle. It is discussed at the breakfast table and at the supper, it is read at leisure in the evening, and its pages are scrutinized with the interest born of long habit and discriminating taste.

An advertisement in that newspaper goes into the family circle and cannot be excluded. It is welcome because it is a part of something else that is welcome, and it goes there at the very time when the occasional domestic economical council takes place. There is no substitute for newspaper advertising.—Allentown (Pa.) Item.

CHOSEN CAPTAIN.

Sidney A. Clark of Auburndale has been elected captain of the Dartmouth cross-country team for next season. Clark was one of the best men on the Dartmouth team this season, and in the intercollegiate run at Princeton this fall he secured several points for the Green. This fall was his first experience in cross-country work, but last year he made the varsity track squad as a two-miler. Next to cross-country, this is his best event, and he is expected to equal the present record in this event this winter. The standing record was made by his brother two years ago. Clark comes from a family long associated with Dartmouth and a brother is now professor of German at the college. He is the son of Rev. Francis E. Clark, the founder and head of the Christian Endeavor Society. Clark is a prominent member of the junior class and of the Gamma Delta Epsilon fraternity. He is an honor man in his studies, an editor of the Literary Magazine and a member of the Glee Club.

LASELL.

In the chapel at Lasell Seminary Sunday afternoon a large number of students and townspeople attended the Christmas vespers service of the seminary glee club. Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, read from the Scriptures and offered prayer. A program of carols, choruses and vocal solos was offered. Miss Dorothy Payne played the violin. Miss Ruth Graham sang, Miss Mary F. Curtiss assisted at the organ and Miss Marion Ordway at the piano.

NOW LAUGH.

Annual sale now on. Don't go elsewhere to be cheated—come in here. A lady wants to sell her piano, as she is going abroad in a strong iron frame.

For sale—A pianoforte, the property of a musician with carved legs. Wanted—A room by two gentlemen about 30 feet long and 20 feet broad. Wanted—By a respectable girl, her passage to New York; willing to take care of two children and a good sailor. Mr. Brown, further begs to announce that he will make up gowns, capes, etc., for ladies out of their own skins.

Bulldogs for sale: will eat anything; very fond of children. Wanted—For summer, a cottage for a small family with good drainage. Lost—Near Subway, an umbrella belonging to a gentleman with a bent rib and a bone handle.

Widow in comfortable circumstances wishes to marry two sons. To be disposed of, a mail phaeton, the property of a gentleman with a movable headpiece as good as new. Notice—If any man's or woman's cows gets into these here oats, his or her tail will be cut off as the case may be.

THE MILESTONE.

(To John B. Turner, Esq.)

Here, at this milestone let us sit and rest And look along the retrospect of years. Here for a moment let us ease our loads.

Here for a moment rest our weary feet, And here seek solace for our burdened souls.

This be the solace: Though the way be before Be thick with dangers, and with pitfalls strewn.

Though sorrows' self shall lead us by the hand, Though cruel, Wrong, and Pain, and bitter Grief

Companion us, and darken all our day, We may be confident that what will be,

Whatever burdens we henceforth may bear, Can nothing be to what has gone before! So, looking back,—we look with dauntless eyes

At what may come, and we can be content. Let us go on!

The proposed board of survey for this city is evidently dead. If the facts brought forth at the public hearing on Monday have any weight, it is evident that any attempt to obtain legislation on the matter will be so strongly opposed before the General Court that history would only repeat itself, and the fate of a previous attempt again invited. At the same time there is something to be said on behalf of the city having some control over land development, in which at some future time it would probably be asked to enter, either in the way of street acceptance, or by investment for water and sewer pipes. It is not true, as was stated at the hearing, that the investor pays the entire cost for water and sewer service. Water mains are laid on agreement for a small guaranteed return on the cost for but five years, and sewers cost the abuttor less than one half the total expense. It is therefore a fair business proposition for the city to have some voice in the proposed laying out of streets, in order that the full benefit of its investment for water and sewers may be received. In these respects, the city ought to have some means to compel the owner to use some public spirit in his land development. If this, however, cannot be done without meeting with the opposition manifested at the hearing, it is still possible for the city government to exercise some control and by a judicious system of procedure require certain conditions before it will authorize water and sewer connections. There is no power which can compel the aldermen to lay water and sewer pipes, and in the end, possibly, the opposing land owners may have cut off their nose to spite their face.

The lack of interest in city primaries ought to bring to the attention of the thoughtful voter the advisability of abolishing party designations at city elections and follow the nominating paper system now in force in Boston, Gloucester and Haverhill. Such a change would save something like $700 in expenses, would give every aspirant an equal chance for votes and incidentally might abolish the so-called machine influence in this city. An amendment to the city charter to this effect would be popular.

ADVISORY BOARD MEETS.

The first meeting of the Advisory Board of the Newton Technical High School was held on Wednesday evening. This Advisory Board consists of 25 members, as follows: Frank A. Day, Charles A. Clarke, E. E. Stanley, Eben H. Ellison, Charles E. Riley of Newton; William J. Doherty of Nonantum; Hon. Marcus Morton, Liveris H. Howe, Walter C. Mehl, Austin H. Deatur of Newtonville; Hon. Charles E. Hatfield, Benjamin S. Palmer, Harry L. Burrage, Hon. George Hutchinson of West Newton; William T. Farley, Edward J. Frost, Charles P. Darling of Auburndale; Frank J. Hale, Frank L. Richardson of Newton Highlands; Charles H. Moulton of Newton Upper Falls; Chas. E. Kelsey, William E. Parker, William C. Bray, Allen Hubbard, Frederick H. Butts of Newton Centre.

The members of this Advisory Board were selected by a committee of three, Messrs. Henry E. Bothfield, Frank A. Day and George Hutchinson. This committee was appointed for the purpose of selecting an advisory board at a meeting of citizens called together in the Technical High School by the School Board last April.

At the meeting Wednesday evening steps were taken to make a formal organization. After the meeting was called to order by Mr. Bothfield of the nominating committee, Mr. William C. Bray was made temporary chairman, and Principal Irving O. Palmer of the Technical High School secretary. It was voted that the temporary chairman appoint a committee of four, which should include the chairman and the superintendent of schools, to plan a permanent organization consisting of the usual officers and the necessary committees, to be reported at the second meeting of this board to be held some time in January.

At the meeting last evening Superintendent Spaulding, Principal Palmer, Mayor Maxim, head of the commercial department in the Technical High School, and M. W. Murray, director of the mechanical department in the Technical High School, spoke briefly concerning the conditions and needs of education in the city, particularly in connection with the Technical High School.

FOR CHURCH FEDERATION.

The first layman's rally of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches was held Wednesday evening in the chapel of the Eliot Congregational Church, with less than a dozen persons present. The president of the Federation, Rev. Dr. O. P. Gifford of Brookline, was unable to be present and the field secretary, Rev. Edward Tallmadge Root, presided.

Rev. Dr. Root delivered an address in which he briefly outlined the policy of the movement. Rev. Dr. Charles Conklin was another speaker.

MR. PLUMMER SURPRISED.

Mr. Albert Plummer, who has been connected with the Shoe and Leather Reporter for nearly 34 years, celebrated the 70th anniversary of his birth on Wednesday, Dec. 7. He was tendered congratulations by the New England Shoe and Leather Association, Boston Boot and Shoe Club, the Leather Associates, and numerous friends in the shoe and leather trade of Boston. He was also given a pleasant surprise by his associates on the Shoe and Leather Reporter and the Shoe Retailer, who assembled together Wednesday afternoon and presented him with a silver plate on which was beautifully engraved the following inscription:

Presented to Albert Plummer, dean of the Shoe and Leather Trade Press, who has been actively connected with the Shoe and Leather Reporter since May 1, 1877, as a token of the high esteem in which he is held. From the staffs of the Shoe and Leather Reporter and the Shoe Retailer, Dec. 7, 1910.

The presentation was made by F. F. Cutler, president of the Shoe and Leather Reporter, who offered the following appropriate remarks: "Our Dear Mr. Plummer:—

We, the assembled members of the staffs of the Shoe and Leather Reporter and the Shoe Retailer, are here on this, your birthday, to express to you in some fitting way our fullest appreciation of you as a man and a co-worker. Your temperate life is manifest by your remarkable state of preservation, both mentally and physically. Your business loyalty is best proven by your uninterrupted career in the employ of the Shoe and Leather Reporter since May 1, 1877—nearly 34 years. Both records are such that you may well be proud of them, and it is the hope of every one of us that they may be unbroken for many years to come.

As a token of our regard for you and your many good qualities, we here-with tender to you a modest but genuine gift which will, in turn, we hope, cause you and Mrs. Plummer to ever be mindful of us and our love for you. We have seen to it that this gift is of the genuine article, that it is pure and 'sterling' in order that it may typify your characteristics which are pure and sterling. Please place it where it can be seen, so that you may never forget us, and rest assured that we shall never forget you because you have so firmly impressed yourself upon every one of us.

In conclusion, Mr. Plummer, allow me personally, as president of the Shoe and Leather Reporter, to grasp you by the hand and state how your loyalty to your business has been appreciated. It is refreshing, it is uplifting, and it is a most glorious example for every young man to imitate. Success only can follow when all members of an organization are as faithful as you have been during all these years. May the rest of your life be blest with health and happiness.

Mr. Plummer responded and extended to all the donors his most heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift and the kind feelings which prompted the same.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

COLBY-HOPEWELL.

The wedding of Miss Nellie Harriet Hopewell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hopewell, of Waverley avenue, Newton, and Mr. Clarence Conant Colby of Boston, Harvard '02, took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The house was attractively decorated with smilax, holly and Killarney roses in the drawing room, holly and chrysanthemums in the reception hall and library, and holly and American beauty roses in the dining room. The ceremony took place at 7 o'clock. Rev. A. F. Record of Springfield officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. George W. Bicknell of Cambridge. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chiffon, trimmed with velvet and rose point lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies. Miss Florence Colby of Boston, sister of the groom, wearing blue satin and carrying a basket of pink sweet peas and maiden hair, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Clarence M. Casselberry of Boston and Mrs. Frank B. Hopewell of Newton, in white satin and marquisettes, with baskets of white sweet peas and lavender orchids, were the matrons of honor. There were six bridesmaids, all in pink satin veiled with chiffon cloth and carrying baskets of pink Killarney roses and maiden hair. They were the Misses Ruby Crosby of Newton, Vera Stiebel of Brookline, Edith Chapin of Natick, Grace Hopewell of Wellesley, Ava West of Pittsfield and Harriet Burleigh of Natick. The best man was Mr. Frederick W. Colby, of Boston, a brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Charles Hopewell and Henry Chase Hopewell of Newton, brothers of the bride; Frederick C. Hopewell of Wellestey, a cousin; George A. Evans of Newton Highlands, Hollis T. Gleason of Cambridge, Woodbury Rand of Brookline, Damon C. Whitteer of Boston and Mr. Hilbert F. Day of Boston. A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Colby being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. John Hopewell and Mr. Frederick W. Colby and Miss Florence Colby, brother and sister of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Colby will reside at 58 Nonantum street, Newton, where they will be at home after March 1.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

Mrs. Sarah H. Newell, the widow of the late Joseph A. Newell, died last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Newhall, on Temple street, West Newton, after a long period of failing health. Mrs. Newell was born in Rochester, N. H., and was nearly 87 years of age. For over 50 years she has resided in West Newton. Besides her daughter, she is survived by one son, Mr. Harry H. Newell of Hancok, N. H., formerly of Auburndale. Funeral services were held at the Newhall home on Sunday afternoon in charge of Rev. John Matteson of the Church of the Messiah. There was singing by the Mendon John Quartet and the burial was at Newton Cemetery.

ORGAN RECITAL.

In Eliot Church last evening the 9th public organ recital was given by Mr. Everett E. Truette, organist and choir master of the church, under the auspices of the New England Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. Mr. Lev-crest B. Merrill, bass soloist, of Eliot Church, assisted and the artistic program was from the compositions of Bach, Dunham, Massenet, Faulkes, Guilman, Truette, Bullard, Wolstenholme and Thiele.

Hollis Street Theatre.—At the Hollis Street Theatre for two weeks beginning Monday evening, Dec. 19, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees and special Christmas matinees, Monday, Dec. 20, Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger and Henry B. Harris will present Ruth St. Denis in a series of dances depicting the religion and customs of ancient Egypt in conjunction with the Imperial Russian Court Ballet Orchestra, in selections from the folk songs and famous composers of their native land. Ruth St. Denis has selected for presentation this season four dances, founded on the religion and customs of ancient Egypt. The first is a dance entitled "Prayer to the Nile Gods." The second dance is called "The Tamboours." It is taken from the custom of the aristocracy in giving memorial banquets called feasts of eternity. The third dance is called "The Mystery of Isis" and is divided into two parts. The first one illustrates the visit of the king to the goddess in her sanctuary. The second takes place in the sanctuary and here is shown the manifestation of Isis as Nefit and Hathor. The fourth dance, "The Festival of Ra," is divided into three parts. First comes "The Dance of Day," typifying the rise and fall of Egypt; the second part discloses the hall of Double Truth with the "Dance of Night." The third is the Golden Boat of Ra. Miss St. Denis has in her company some 50 people. The stage settings are elaborate in the extreme and comprise seven large settings. The Imperial Russian Court Ballet Orchestra will introduce at its portion of the program folk songs of Russia, in addition to classical selections by famous composers.

LODGES.

At the last meeting of the Sons of Veterans, Wiley Edmonds Camp No. 31, which was held last Wednesday evening, the election of officers for the coming year took place. The following were elected: Commander, Edward P. Hunt; senior vice-commander, Mr. Herbert T. Fuller; junior vice-commander, Albert Dubois; secretary, Lawrence T. Putnam; treasurer, Charles M. Bradbury; members of the camp council, James H. Wentworth, George F. James, Ernest W. Robinson, and the delegates to the camp council, Rev. Maurice A. Levy, George F. James, and alternates, Herbert T. Fuller and Barton Groth. The annual reports show that the camp is in a flourishing condition.

UNITARIAN CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club was held last evening at the Unitarian Church in Newton Centre. The reception was from 6:15 to 6:30 in the parlors and was followed by dinner served in the vestry. The public meeting was held in the main auditorium at 8 o'clock, presided over by President Charles A. Clarke, when Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York, president of the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice, spoke on "The Revolutionary Function of the Modern Church." He spoke of the present age as one of revolution in the church and the school when the result must prevail, not the method. There must be evolution to keep up with modern conditions of society which bears close relations to religion, and poverty, is not the individual that must be considered, a product of civilization, but conditions which makes him what he is. The speaker closed with an account of the work of the physician to prevent disease and of the associated charities and similar organizations to improve the conditions of the poor in a world wide way. The church must co-operate with the physician and the charity worker on a practical business basis for the uplifting of the human race.

BULLOUGH'S POND SKATING.

Arrangements are being made by the Forestry Department to have Bullough's Pond ready for skating on Christmas Day. The water will be about four feet in the deepest place, and two feet at the lowest point. This will make it safe for everybody, without the thoughts of some of the children getting drowned. There will be a hockey rink erected on the ice and it is expected that this pond will be the skating place for Newton's citizens. The executive committee of the Newton Centre Improvement Association will allow Mr. Eichbauer to direct the sports on the ice, and the Forestry Department will have some person there to keep order. When the ice is ready for good skating the Street Railway Company have agreed to place bulletins on their cars notifying the public as to the conditions for skating.

The first carnival of the Brae Burn Country Club will be held this evening, Dec. 16. There will be music and illumination at the pond, and a hockey match at 8:30.

LAND COURT.

To the Brae Burn Country Club, a duly existing corporation having its usual place of business in Newton, in the County of Middlesex, and said Commonwealth: Robert H. Hill, Margaret C. Mague, Frank A. Day, Trustees, and Charles I. Travelli, Trustee, of said Newton; Ann Ridgway, residence unknown, or her heirs, devisees or legal representatives; and to all whom it may concern:

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court by Henry E. Day, William B. H. Dowse, Benjamin S. Palmer, Charles I. Travelli and George A. Frost of said Newton, to register and confirm their title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate in said Newton, bounded westerly by land of Brae Burn Country Club, Gates Street, land of Robert Hill, and land of Margaret C. Mague measuring in all about 954 feet; northeasterly by land of Frank A. Day et al, Trustees, about 524.35 feet; easterly by the same about 258.60 feet; southeasterly by the same about 563 feet; and southwesterly by the same in part and in part by land of Brae Burn Country Club about 420.47 feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the ninth day of January A. D. 1911, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid, your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of December in the year nineteen hundred and ten.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

(Seal.) CLARENCE C. SMITH, Recorder.

NEWTON ALUMNI GATHER.

The New England Alumni of the Newton Theological Institution held its annual meeting Monday afternoon at Newton. The speakers were the Rev. W. W. Ingham, formerly of Boston, pastor of John D. Rockefeller's church in Cleveland; the Rev. A. C. S. Wallace of Baltimore, W. W. Peterson of Medford, President George E. Horr of the institution, the Rev. M. J. Twomey of Portland, Me., and Prof. Henry K. Rowe of the seminary, who holds the recently created chair of sociology.

The speaker urged the necessity of being up to date and of a closer adaptation to the conditions of the present day. The new chairs of sociology and psychology, recently established at the seminary, were commended, as was the forethought of the trustees in establishing those departments.

Gastitis is a disease which results from too much talking.

N. H. S.

The fall meeting of the New England Association of Teachers of English, of which Mr. Samuel Thurber is secretary and treasurer and Mr. Charles S. Thomas, editor, will be held tomorrow at the Brae Burn Country Club rink, West Newton.

FINED $40.

Four Cambridge boys who were arrested recently for breaking electric incandescent street lights in Waltham felt the stern and heavy hand of justice when they got into the police court. They were found guilty on the testimony of the officer who arrested them and were fined $10 apiece, making a total of $40 as the price they paid for what they thought was an escapade.

The law is very strict in the punishment of marauders who think they are having fun breaking street lights. Their devilry is not only an expense to the electric lighting companies, but is a source of very serious danger to every citizen who has occasion to use the streets. Both in East Boston and Waltham, where hoodlums had broken street lamps, fire alarms called out the departments before the broken lamps could be replaced. The result was that drivers of fire apparatus were nearly killed because they were forced to drive their horses through streets that are ordinarily well lighted, but happened at that time because of the wickedness of the boys to be in darkness. Judges in our courts are more and more severe, and there is always the possibility of a maximum sentence, which, under the statute, is $100 fine or one year's imprisonment, or both.

POLICE NOTES.

The police are satisfied that Charles Howard, the Boston burglar who is now under arrest, seriously wounded, in Pasaic, N. J., was concerned in a burglary in the Newton Corner district on Nov. 17. The house of Mark M. Gertridge, a Boston insurance man, who lives at 56 Boyd street, was entered and a quantity of jewelry stolen. The list included a pair of diamond earrings valued at $375, a diamond pin, and other articles of value. The thief also took a number of linen handkerchiefs.

DARLING—CRAIG.

Elmer I. Darling of Felton street, Cambridge, prominent in business and Masonic circles, gave his parents and friends a surprise this week when he returned from a few days' absence bringing with him Mrs. Darling. The latter up to last Saturday was Miss Margaretta Kate Sannom Craig of Peabody street, Newton. Unknown to their parents and friends, Mr. Darling and Miss Craig were united in marriage Saturday, Dec. 3, by Rev. H. H. Sanderson, pastor of the Austin Street Unitarian Church, Cambridge. They left immediately for Maine, where they spent a few days. Upon their return they were given a hearty reception by their parents. They had been engaged for some time, but the wedding was not to have taken place for some time yet.

Walsh, the Back Bay's fashionable milliner, 276 Boylston street, has everything in the prevailing styles of ladies' hats, including toques, soft close-fitting hats, hoods, large wide hats, and all the most popular fur hats, racoon, Australian opossum, Kangaroo, etc. Many years' experience in catering to ladies who desire the newest and most stylish models is at your service.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

On Monday night next, Dec. 19, the company will hold its last drill in the old armory. It is expected that immediately after Christmas, the removal to their magnificent new quarters will take place, and the present home of the company will take on a lonesome look.

But there will be no tears shed by the active members, as the present quarters have for some time been a serious handicap to the development of one of the best companies in the state service.

On Monday last Captain Guilford visited the new armory and selected the colors for the finishing of the walls. It is needless to say that there will be some class to the finishing.

Captain Guilford is very anxious to obtain photographs suitable for framing of all the past captains of the Claflin Guard. It is his intention to complete the line of company commanders and have them adorn the walls of the captain's room in the new building.

The following men have been appointed corporals and assigned to duty: D. F. McNamara, H. E. Reynolds, F. W. McCabe.

Q. M. Sergt. Weinmouth met with a painful accident during the past week and is confined to his home. While pouring hot iron on the red hot metal took the wrong course and struck his foot, burning it very severely.

TOM PEPPER.

S. E. L.

Loosed is the silver cord that bound
To earth her faithful soul,
And broken is his loving bow,
The dear heart's golden bowl.
Another star its course has swept Beyond our narrow skies;
Another saint from earth has stepped
To God's sweet Paradise.
Christ has prepared for her a place
Where his beloved dwell.
And now she sees him face to face
She served so long and well.
Her children rise and call her blest.
He prides all in pieces sound;
She enters into happy rest
With love and honor crowned.
Generous and wise, sincere and sane,
Her daily round she went;
Unweary by ill, untouched by stain,
Her home's dear ornament,
Her life in noble beauty shone
Through all her quiet grace
The force that might have filled a throne
Preferred a mother's place.
Speak dear her praises as she lies Asleep among the flowers;
Nor let the sorrow of our sighs
Disturb her peaceful hours.
Beyond the veil, across the stream,
She gains a country fair;
And we may almost catch a gleam
Of those who greet her there.
And oh wherever in God's keep
She draws celestial breath,
Be sure a love so true and deep
Is sundered not by death!
Oh, blessed soul, wherever thou art,
Say to us from above—
That time nor space can ever part
The hearts of those who love.

BELL'S SEASONING

Used by the best Hotels, Clubs, Restaurants, & families of Rich & Poor alike to flavor the Dressings for Turkey, Chicken, Game, Meat and Fish. Insist on Bell's 40 Years the original

MEAT OR TURKEY DRESSING (equally good when baked and served separately). Toss 7 or 8 slices of white bread. Place in a deep dish, adding butter size of an egg. Cover with hot water to melt butter and make bread right consistency. Add an even tablespoon of Bell's Seasoning, an even teaspoon salt, and 4 slices of salt pork, fried to a crisp and chopped fine. When well mixed, stir in 1 or 2 raw eggs.

NOTE:—The above dressing may be improved, to some extent, by adding a small amount of any kind, mustard, paprika, Worcestershire, etc. 17668 and 17669 are a few hints.

Remember, a 10¢ can of Bell's Seasoning is sufficient to flavor the dressing for 100 lbs. of meat or poultry, and the 25¢ can 500 lbs.

For Delicious Sausages, flavor with Bell's Sausage Seasoning.

25¢ and 50¢ Cans: 9, 12 and 25 lb. Sizes, 50, 75 and 150 lb. Drums.

SOME NEW BOOKS*HELEN GRANT'S DECISION.

By AMANDA M. DOUGLAS.
Eight volume of the "Helen Grant Books" illustrated by Amy Brooks.
12mo. Cloth $1.25.

The "Helen Grant Books" win because the heroine is made to seem real, and has in this way become a most helpful and enjoyable personal friend to thousands of girls and young women who find it hard to wait for each new book. In this story, which, like all the series, is entirely independent, Helen is found entering upon her second year as a teacher in the Westfield High School, although there has been a glowing offer from a college in the Far West. Her decision is to remain where duty seems to call, and she also makes another decision of much interest.

AT THE HOME PLATE.

By A. T. DUNLEVY.

Illustrated by Charles Copeland.

12mo. Cloth $1.25.

The scene of this book is at a public school, "Newbury," which seeks to win a prize cup held by its rival, "Westcott's," the winner during the first year of the "Triangular League." This is hard to accomplish, and an important factor is a new student who has to overcome the handicap of being the brother of an unpopular teacher. There is good baseball in this book, as its title indicates, but it is hardly more prominent than football and hockey, which in turn are simply features in a grand story of school life, with its unequalled trying-out of character and the elements of deserved respect and popularity, whether on the part of student or teacher. In addition to being in the front rank as entertaining stories, Mr. Dudley's books are so well written that they have been commended as models of English and English literature in the technicalities of athletics that they are genuinely helpful in that respect. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

THE OTHER SYLVIA.

By NINA RHODES.

Illustrated by Elizabeth Withington.
12mo. Cloth $1.00.

Eight-year-old Sylvia has a beautiful home, with every luxury usual in the household of a wealthy family, but she has no mother and is very lonely. A slight acquaintance with children whose parents have merry times with them fills her with longing to be more "intimate" with her reserved and dignified father, of whom she sees but little. By chance she learns that girls who are "Kings' Daughters" pledge themselves to some kind act or service, and that one little girl named Mary has taken it upon herself to be helpful to all the Marys of her acquaintance. This is such an interesting way of doing good that she adopts it, but she is much puzzled how to find another of her unusual name. She succeeds, and sets in motion a most surprising chain of circumstances, bringing great and unexpected joy to many others, as well as herself. None of the genuinely excellent "Brick House Books" is brighter or better. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

DAVE PORTER AT STAR RANCH.

Or, The Cowboy's Secret.

By EDWARD STRATHEMEYER.

Illustrated by Lyle T. Hammond.

12mo. Cloth $1.25.

The "David Porter Series" is known throughout the country as a favorite, and there are few, if any, books so persistently ordered long in advance of publication as is each newly announced one having David Porter as its hero. In this book David passes a summer vacation at a ranch in Colorado, owned by friends of his newly-found sister, Laura. Of course some of Dave's inseparable school friends are included, and highly interesting features developed from the fact that a neighboring ranch is owned by the father of Link Merwell, a vicious student with whom Dave and his honorable gentlemanly comrades had come into natural conflict. Unexpected events and disclosures increase the interest. Dave carries himself throughout as the best type of an athlete, and at the same time brainy and well-bred American schoolboy. The book is so written as to be entirely independent of the series, although continuing so many of the favorite characters. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

A LITTLE MAID OF BOSTON TOWN.

By MARGARET SIDNEY.

Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill.

12mo. Cloth $1.50.

Margaret Sidney, the founder of the National Society of the Children of the American Revolution, is the most fully qualified of our country's writers to produce a genuinely inspiring patriotic story for the young. The best of it is that Margaret Sidney's pen, while adhering rigidly to historic truth, has a lively point to it, so that young people will read the book, even if not at first historically inclined. The opening chapters introduce us to Old Boston in England, but the setting of the story is soon changed to Boston Town of New England.

The story is absorbing, graphic, and truly delightful, carrying one along till it seems as if actual participation in the events had been the lot of the reader. The same faculty of delineation that produces naturalness in depicting life, that is so conspicuous in her famous "Pepper Books," marks this latest story of Margaret Sidney's. The author effaces herself and her art. She makes characters live and speak for themselves. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

THE BOY WITH THE U. S. FORESTERS.

By FRANCIS ROLT-WHEELER.

Large 12mo. Decorated Cover, $1.50.

This book is as worthy and interesting as the very successful first volume of this series, "The Boy with the U. S. Survey," dealing with a department of public work so much in the public eye. It covers five important lines of adventurous development:

1. The prevention and fighting of forest fires.
2. The regulation of the grazing of cattle and sheep.
3. The preservation and disposition of lumber.
4. The wild ardor of the pursuit of big game.
5. The responsible life of the individual forester.

The life of typical boy is followed in all its adventurous detail—the mighty representative of our country's government, though young in years—a youthful monarch in a vast domain of adventure, and inciting patriotism at every step, this handsome book is one to be instantly appreciated. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

HON. JOHN W. WEEKS.

When a man of much wealth becomes a public servant, not for the material things that come from such a position, but purely for the love of doing a hard day's work for the people, he deserves that high and lasting fame that the possession of millions could never give.
Sometimes he gets it in his lifetime,
as has Captain John W. Weeks, member of the House of Representatives from the Twelfth Congressional District of Massachusetts. Men who know the nation and its affairs know Captain Weeks, not as the great banker, the skilful financier he is, but as one of the most useful men in Congress; as the friend of our forests; as the strong force in the monetary commission; as the expert on postoffice affairs and conduct, and as the keen student of naval matters. They realize that although his career in the House has been almost meteoric in its swift blazing of renown, still there is back of it the solid substance of which any lawmaker might well be proud.

There is an old saying that if you would know a Congressman thoroughly go back home with him. So if you were to see "the Captain" in a day's doings
in Boston or Newton, greeted as an old friend, giving smile for smile, returning doubly good will for good will, you would begin to understand the power of a fine, manly, generous character.
Service and sentiment—these two are mighty and must prevail.

What the stars have in mind for the future career of John W. Weeks they keep to themselves. But no one who knows the man and realizes his capacity and his magnetism can doubt that neither Captain nor Representative is the highest title to which he will attain.—Boston Republican.

MINSTREL SHOW.

The first grand minstrel entertainment given by the employees of the Martin Manufacturing Company took place on Monday and Tuesday evenings of this week at Players' Hall, West Newton, with enthusiastic audiences present each night. A pleasing program was presented by a large chorus and principals, including an original song sung by Mr. Charles Shea. The interlocutors were young ladies, Misses Minnie G. Hill and Elizabeth Murphy. Only the end men were in black face. The program was as follows:

Opening Chorus—"The Martin Kazooza" (Introducing Spanish Solo)
Margaret C. Foley

End Song—"That's a Plenty"
B. J. Marier

End Song—"Play That Barber Shop

Unusually Low Prices
for Early Fur Orders

This year I have inaugurated the policy of making especially tempting prices to early customers to keep my expert furriers busy and also to so please patrons that they will be my best advertisement.
I desire to call particular attention to a direct importation of very fine skins of that will make up into very beautiful and graceful garments. I have established a reputation by the superiority of my goods in style, quality, price and workmanship.

WHY IS THE SPIRITUAL WORLD?

What is the need of believing in a spiritual world? What purpose would the Creator have in making such a world? What should be the effect of believing in a spiritual world upon our life in this one? Such were the questions discussed by the Rev. John Goddard last Sunday evening at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville, in the final lecture of his course on "The Spiritual World."

We need to believe in a spiritual world
because without such a belief this world would be meaningless. Lacking a faith in immortality we can only arrive at one conclusion of all our thought about the scheme of things—the conclusion of "The Preacher," that "all is vanity."
Not even the consolation of religious faith will bring us happiness if death is to end it all. The instinctive clinging to life of the unhappiest of men is an unconscious belief in immortality and a vague longing for it. But surely this world is not the place in which it would be worth while to live forever. A spiritual world is needed.

God needs a spiritual world, in which He can make his servants happy forever. For surely His infinite love for men is not a thing of a few fleeting years. The initial power of Christianity lay largely in its promise that there was a "Kingdom of Heaven" in which the Master's goodness should be realized.
Because God loves us, he will bring us through death into a world where we shall be freed from physical limitations, from weakness, choking environments, unharmonious companions, and shall be able happily to develop our highest possibilities of usefulness.

And because men are no longer satisfied with vague conceptions, He has made the facts about the spiritual world available to any who will listen to them, through the experience and writings of Emanuel Swedenborg.

The effect of a knowledge of these facts and of belief in them is first of all to remove once and for all the fear of death, not only for ourselves but for our friends. For while we cannot but miss the dear ones who leave us, at least we know that they are alive and are as happy as they will let God make them. But besides this, belief in a spiritual world gives a new impetus to life here. For heaven is no sentimental paradise, but a place of usefulness as well as joy. And if we are to live the life of heaven hereafter we must begin to live it now and here.

In addition to the present course of lectures Mr. Goddard announced that another course, dealing with other distinctive teachings of the "New Church," will be given later in the winter. This will probably be in the Lenten season.

When time for holiday shopping is so precious as it will be in next week's busy six days, you will save yourself much mental worry, loss of time, money and some other things, if you will first decide to give everyone remaining on your list a book—then go in to Lauriat's and buy it. You will find the task of selecting an easy one from such a stock and the prices as low as you can get anywhere. As to the service—well it is different from some other places.

Which Will You Have

"WHITE HOUSE"
Coffee or Tea?

Perhaps you'll use BOTH—for they are the choicest products of the world's most famous plantations. They are purest of the pure, wonderfully uniform in quality and flavor, and the most delicious and satisfying coffee and tea particular people can possibly buy. They should appear specially to cautious housewives because they are packed under the most scrupulous sanitary conditions and are wholesome and safe to use.

"WHITE HOUSE" COFFEE

is packed only in 1, 2 and 3 lb. sealed cans.
Best goods all over the United States supply
it or will get it for you. Thousands of people endorse it and will use no other coffee. YOU will if you try it.

"WHITE HOUSE" TEA

is packed only in 1/2 and 1 lb. All-Tin packages, under these five distinctive names—
"Formosa Oolong," "Blend," "India &
Ceylon," "Orange Pekoe," and "English Breakfast." There is a choice of flavor for every taste.

THEATRES

Park Theatre—You couldn't make anyone a better Christmas present than "Seven Days," nor could you give yourself a jollier treat either. You needn't hang up your stockings for this Christmas gift. In fact, it would be better not to, for the play is funny enough without having the Park Theatre decorated with suspended hosiery. Anyway, the stocking hasn't been made that is big enough to hold the fun in "Seven Days." The wit and merriment and laughter would overflow your stocking ever hung up or taken down. If you are shopping and get worn out and discouraged, drop in and see "Seven Days." Get two hours and a half of gaiety that will last many times seven days. And remember, as the side show man says, this is the last chance. "Seven Days" is nearing the end of its Boston run. It closes on Saturday night, Dec. 31. New Year's Eve, and hies back to New York to make old Manhattan laugh. See "Seven Days" and you'll have a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year no matter what happens.

Tremont Theatre—That fascinating little Boston girl who has been heard from during the last three years, sometimes in New York, then in San Francisco, again in London, must have experienced a most comfortable sensation when she returned to the home of her childhood last week and read the signs "Miss Christie MacDonald in 'The Sprind Maid' at the Tremont Theatre." Boston opera lovers took this ravishing little star instantly to their hearts and "The Sprind Maid" has attracted crowds to the Tremont ever since. Its success can be likened only to such great works as "The Merry Widow," "The Arcadians" and "The Chocolate Soldier." Successes come only at rare intervals and it is little wonder that Mayor Fitzgerald after the first night said, "At last we have a premier Boston can be proud of. Miss MacDonald is a credit to the home of her girlhood."

Boston Opera House—Following is the repertoire of the Boston Opera Company at the Boston Opera House for the seventh week, and it will be noted that the regular Wednesday evening subscription performance has been transferred to Thursday evening, Dec. 22, when in conjunction with the opera "Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo, the Imperial Russian Dancers, Anna Pavlova and Mikhail Mordkin and complete ballet will present "The Arabian Knights."

On Monday evening, Dec. 19, will be presented Carmen, in French by Bizet, with Maria Gay in the title role, and Giovanni Zenatello in the role of Don Jose.

Thursday evening, Dec. 22, will be given "Pagliacci" in Italian, with Carmen Melis as Nedda, and Florencio Constantino as Canio. The opera will be followed by the Imperial Russian Dancers and complete ballet, in the Arabian Knights.

Friday evening, Dec. 23, at 8, La Harafr in French will be repeated with the same cast as last week, Fely Deryene as Pilar, George Baklanoff as Ramon, and Robert Lassalle as Pedro. The Imperial Russian Dancers will recite their dance of Thursday evening, "The Arabian Knights," with a complete ballet.

The opera to be presented at the Saturday matinee on Dec. 24, will be "Mefistofele" in Italian by Boito, with Alice Nielsen as Marguerite and Carmen Melis as Elena. Florencio Constantino as Faust.

The opera to be presented at the Saturday evening performance at popular prices will be "Otello," in Italian, by Verdi, with Giovanni Zenatello as Otello, Baklanoff as Iago, and Frances Alda as Desdemona.

MR. PECK'S LECTURE.

Mr. Peck witnessed several presentations of "The Passion Play" during the past summer, and stayed at the homes of those playing the leading parts, viz. Christus, Judas and Mary. Besides being granted permission by the burgomaster of the village to go behind the scenes and inspect the costumes, samples of which he was given that the artist might faithfully portray the color scheme of the play. He was also taken to the homes and workshops of other representative characters and homes photographed there.

The list of illustrations which Mr. Peck will use, besides those of the play, include views of the surrounding country, picturesque scenes in the village, the homes—interior and exterior—the Rural decorations, wood carvings, the villagers at their daily work, their home life and the flood of Mr. Peck was the only American with a camera in the village at the time of the flood.

VIOLATED ORDINANCE

A number of residents of Newton Centre were in the police court last Friday morning to answer to charges of failure to remove snow from their sidewalks in violation of the new ordinance which has just gone into effect. Those who appeared were E. Willis Darrell, Edward A. Andrews, Daniel T. Kidder, George A. Holmes, George F. Spalding, John A. Daniels and George P. Clark. All but Mr. Clark pleaded guilty and accepted Judge Kennedy's offer to continue their cases until April 1 on condition that they complied with the ordinance in the future. Mr. Clark was not satisfied with this disposition of his case and after the other defendants had been dismissed, was given a trial on his plea of not guilty. Mr. Clark frequently expressed his displeasure as the trial progressed and finally was warned by the judge that he was in danger of contempt of court. After he had been fined $10 he entered an appeal, but declined to give bonds for appearance at a higher court. As he would neither pay his fine nor give bonds, and insisted on leaving the court-room, he was arrested and locked up in the cell. An hour or so, however, caused him to change his mind and he finally decided to pay the fine.

N. H. S.

The hockey team has been admitted to the Preparatory League of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey Association. The games already scheduled with Cambridge Latin and Brookline High will be championship games, while the match with Wellesley High, scheduled for today, will only be a practice match. Another date will be given to Wellesley High later on in the season, which will have a championship bearing.

Foot, Rice, Peckham, Spencer, Thompson, Spalding and Burns are the leading players on the Newton High team.

LODGES.

The election of officers of Waban Lodge, I. O. O. F., will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall, Newtonville, next Wednesday evening.

RECEPTION TO MAYOR

The Newton Club will give a reception to His Honor the Mayor, Charles E. Hatfield, at the clubhouse, Newtonville, on Saturday evening, Dec. 31, from 8 until 12 p. m.
His Excellency the Governor, Eben S. Draper and Mrs. Draper, and the president of the club, Mr. James L. Richards and Mrs. Richards will receive with His Honor the Mayor.
Owing to the presence of the Governor's staff all military men are expected to wear full dress or social full dress uniform. This is to be a general reception to which all citizens of Newton and their families are invited. Formal invitations will be extended to the members of the Newton Club, to members of all other clubs in the city, also to heads of departments and officials and to distinguished guests from outside the city. As it is impossible, however, to send formal invitations to all of Mr. Hatfield's friends it is desired that the public announcement of this function will be considered as an invitation.

BELDEN-WASHBURN.

The wedding of Miss Helen Alvord Washburn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Washburn of Newtonville, and Mr. Frank Milton Belden of Brooklyn, N. Y., took place Tuesday evening at the Washburn residence on Lowell avenue, which was most attractively decorated with pink chrysanthemums, Southern smilax and laurel. Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu of Auburndale performed the ceremony at eight o'clock. The bride was most charming in a draped gown of white satin, with trimmings of pearl and crystal and Duchess lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by a coronet and she carried lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Helen D. Taylor of Newtonville as maid of honor, wearing pink satin, founced chiffon over dress, with crystal trimming. She carried Killarney roses. Mr. Herbert S. Pratt of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. Carl S. Wells of West Newton, George C. Coon of Brooklyn and William J. Boardman of Boston.
A largely attended reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Belden being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Washburn, Miss Belden and Miss Taylor.
After a wedding trip to Havana, Mr. and Mrs. Belden will reside at 272 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will be at home after January 15.

BOYS WIN.

An interesting debate was held in the assembly hall of the high school Wednesday morning between the boys and girls debating clubs, on the question, "Resolved that the tariff should be levied for revenue only." The boys took the negative side, and the girls the affirmative. Headmaster Adams presided and the judges were Mayor Hatfield, ex-Mayor Bothfield and Captain Howard of the school committee. The girls were represented by the Misses Katherine Bacon, Adelaide Fairbanks and Ethel Bartlett in the first presentation of their side and by Miss Helen Gamse in rebuttal. The boys presented Robert West, Carl Kepner and Donald Balcher, and West also spoke in rebuttal. The judges rendered a two to one decision in favor of the negative side.

The wise man will not disturb a sitting hen nor a quarrelsome woman.

DECLINES RE-ELECTION

CITY CLERK KINGSBURY SURPRISES FRIENDS

The declination to continue in office as city clerk sent to the Board of Aldermen-elect of 1911, last Monday evening, by Col. Isaac F. Kingsbury, caused quite a sensational surprise in the city.
Col. Kingsbury has held the office since March, 1883, and is one of the oldest and most popular officials in the City Hall. He is a native of the city, having been born in Chestnut Hill Jan. 2, 1841.

He attended the Newton schools and the Normal School at Bridgewater. Upon graduation he preferred to reimburse the state for his tuition, and entered the agency in Boston of the Taunton Copper Company, remaining till his enlistment Aug. 13, 1862, in the Newton Company K, 32nd Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry. He received promotion as sergeant in his company, sergeant-major of the regiment, second lieutenant, first lieutenant and adjutant, and captain. On the latter commission he could not be mustered on account of the reduced number of men in the regiment. Frequent narrow escapes from injury were his lot, as in every regiment fighting in the army of the Potomac. At Gettysburg his sword had been sheathed to more readily assist the colonel, who called that he was wounded. The rebel shot struck the shield scabbard, which had swung to the right leg, indenting it but saving the leg. The sword never since drawn, was sent safely home.

In the spring of 1864 Lieutenant Kingsbury was detached from his regiment and assigned to duty as brigade inspector of the Second Brigade, First Division, Fifth Corps, and at the charge on Laurel Hill, May 12, received a severe contusion of the right breast from a spent canister shot, but was not obliged to leave the field. On the third of June, at Bethesda Church, a fragment of a shell exploding within a few feet in his front struck his right hand, necessitating the amputation of the index finger. This injury was followed by nearly fatal sickness.

While convalescing he was ordered to duty at Gallops Island for mustering and forwarding detachments of recruits. At the close of the war, being mustered out July 13, 1865, he entered the United States customs service. Becoming interested in the volunteer militia, he assisted in organizing the "Clafin Guards," being elected its first captain. In 1872 he was appointed chief clerk of the adjutant general's department of Massachusetts, also assistant adjutant-general, with rank of colonel, holding this position under each executive from Governor William W. Washburn to Governor Benjamin F. Butler, resigning from the staff of the latter upon election as city clerk March 26, 1883.

He was selectman of the town of Newton in 1870, 1871, 1872 and 1873. Was representative of his regiment on the state commission to locate the Massachusetts monument on the battle field at Antietam. Is one of the original members and the present commander of Charles Ward Post, 62, G. A. R., and is a companion of the Massachusetts Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

He was for a long time a member of the First Church and parish clerk, but became a member of the Church of the Redeemer at Chestnut Hill, and was one of its first wardens.

His musical tastes found expression in membership of church choirs, the Newton Musical Association, the Handel and Haydn Society and the Cecilia Club.

He married Miss Laura D. Holmes of Bridgewater Jan. 4, 1865, and they have two children, Mary M., the wife of Dr. Vladimir G. Simkovich of New York, and Isaac William, a rising young physician of Hartford, Conn.

Col. Kingsbury's present term will expire on the second Monday of February and the Board of Aldermen will probably elect his successor on inauguration day, Jan. 9. Assistant City Clerk Frank M. Grant is mentioned for the position.

CLAPP-CLAPP.

The marriage of Mr. George Allen Clapp of Newtonville to Miss Sarah Lillian Clapp of Boston took place at the Old South Church in this city last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at four o'clock by Rev. Allen Cross, the church edifice being decorated for the occasion with palms, Southern smilax and white lilies.

The bride was gowned in white satin chiffon, the bodice covered with point lace. She wore a tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Mary Frances Brooks of Boston, as maid of honor, wearing coral pink chiffon, trimmed with bands of fur. She wore a black hat, trimmed with coral tinted plumes and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Helen Pray of Brookline, Miss Elizabeth Bates of Wilmington, Del.; Miss Charlotte Edwards of Hingham, and Miss Mary Clapp of Boston, were dressed in turquoise blue chiffon, with hats of the same tone, trimmed with marabout and pink roses. They carried blue chiffon muffs trimmed with marabout. Miss Antoinette Clapp, a sister of the bride, was her attendant and was in white touched with gold. She had on a black hat trimmed with pink roses and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of rosebuds. Mr. John Steison Clapp of Newtonville was the best man and the guests were seated by these ushers. Messrs. Earl Rowland of Newton, a cousin of the groom, Merrill Greene of New York, Charles Irving Porter of Boston, Frederick Weal of Brookline, Charles F. Clapp, Albert Clapp of Boston, William Clapp of Portland, Me., and Frank L. Nagle, Jr., of South Framingham.

A reception followed until 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Somerset, where the floral decorations were pink roses, smilax and palms. Mr. and Mrs. Clapp were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Eugene Howard Clapp, mother of the bride, and Mrs. George A. Clapp, mother of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Clapp will reside at the Wadsworth, Kenmore street, Boston, where they will be at home on Mondays in February.

NEWTON MAN HURT.

From causes unknown a gasoline tank on the automobile of John Cormier exploded Monday afternoon while Mr. Cormier was driving his automobile in Massachusetts avenue. Mr. Cormier was badly burned about the face and body and is at the City Hospital. He is 32 years of age, married, and lives at 46 Cook street, Newton.

Woman and the Commune.

"The mud fury which seemed to have taken possession of the mob in Paris found its most enthusiastic exponents in the women, who were anxious to proceed to the extreme measures which the men deprecated," writes Lady St. Heller in her book "Memories of Fifty Years." "The organized corps de petroleuses were a savage crew, who had no feeling of pity or mercy in their hearts and would have sacrificed even those they loved most dearly to the cause which they had espoused. They co-operated actively with the commune, deluging what public buildings they could with petroleum and then setting light to them, and most of the fires that broke out in Paris on the entry of the troops originated through their action. They went down into the streets and fought at the barricades, showing superhuman courage, and when one of the great fights took place at the barricade in the Rue de la Paix, which was defended by the communists, the first person to mount it and to hoist the red flag of the revolution was a woman."

Cutting Off Noses.

Rameses II. of Egypt cut off the nose of any person convicted of treason or arson. Actisanes, another Egyptian ruler, punished robbers in the same way. After each nose had been amputated back even with the bridge the culprit was sent to a colony of noseless felons, the place of banishment being known as Rhinocorum, from the nature of the punishment its colonists had undergone.

In England in 1071 Lord Coventry, then "great keeper of the British seal," had his nose cut off by order of the king because he had dared to ask some questions about an actress then playing at Drury Lane theater.

A conscript who protested openly that he had been enrolled in the army of Frederick the Great in a fraudulent manner had his nose amputated by order of that sovereign, who spoke of the punishment as an "indelible mark on the front side of the face."

The Ameer Was Thorough.

There were some interesting episodes in the life of Sir Charles Euan-Smith. Once in the market place of an Afghanistan town he was fired at by a native. He lodged a complaint with the ameer, who appeared to take no notice of the incident, merely remarking, "That's all right." Sir Charles complained again and met with the same reply. He still thought that the ameer was treating a serious matter with less consideration than it deserved, but thought it advisable to say no more on the subject. About a week afterward he was invited by the ameer to ride with him. They rode for some distance outside the town, and they passed gibbet after gibbet. At length Sir Charles said, "Your highness has been busy of late." "Oh, no," replied the ameer; "they are your little lot." He had seized all the members of the would be assassins' family and hanged every one of them.

To Husband and Wife.

Preserve sacredly the privacy of your own house, your married state and your heart. Let no father or mother or sister or brother ever presume to come between you or share the joys or sorrows that belong to you two alone.

With mutual help build your quiet world, not allowing your dearest earthly friends to be the confidant of aught that concerns your domestic peace. Let moments of alienation, if they occur, be healed at once. Never, no, never, speak of it outside, but to each other confess, and all will come out right. Never let the tomorrow's sun still shed you at variance. Renew and renew your vow. It will do you good, and thereby your minds will grow together contented in that love which is stronger than death, and you will be truly one.—National Magazine.

Dogs and Fleas.

If your dogs are troubled with fleas a very simple way to get rid of the pests is to provide beds of fresh cedar shavings or, better, cedar excelsior in the kennels or wherever the dogs sleep. The scent is not at all unpleasant to the dogs, but is abhorrent to the fleas. When a dog's coat gets thoroughly scented not only do the fleas leave him while asleep, but they will not jump upon him when he is out during the day.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Entirely Apt.

At first glance the novel's title, "The Rainbow," seemed to be lacking in significance, but as it afterward developed that the hero blushed crimson, was blue with the cold, had his lips grow gray, was seized by a black rage, fell into a brown study, grew green with envy, purple with indignation, livid with fear, yellow with chagrin and scarlet with embarrassment, the title proved to be entirely apt.—Puck.

Mnemonics.

"Why do you always put a pitcher of water and a glass on the table before an orator?"

"That," said the chairman of many reception committees, "is to give him something to do in case he forgets his piece and has to stop and think."—Washington Star.

Quite Strong.

Grocer—Good morning, Mr. Popple. How are those eggs I sent you?

Popple—Better, thank you. They are gaining strength every minute.

The more you speak of yourself the more you are likely to lie.—Zimmerman.

—The Sewing Circle of the Methodist Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. A. Hovey of Centre street last Monday afternoon. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

—A delightful organ recital was given by Mr. John Hermann Loud in the Baptist Church last Monday evening before a large audience. Mr. Loud was assisted by Miss Marion Haskell, who rendered several soprano solos.

—Before one of the largest audiences in the history of the Congregational Church, the Lotus Quartet of Boston gave a concert last Sunday afternoon. A brief address was given by the pastor the Rev. Dr. Edward M. Noyes.

—The regular Christmas entertainment for the children of the Methodist Sunday school was held last Wednesday evening in the church. There was a delightful entertainment given by Mr. Ernest Prescott of Boston in which he gave several interesting impersonations, besides a very clever act in ventriloquy, after which refreshments were served.

—The services of the First Baptist Church next Sunday will be in keeping with the spirit of Christmas. The pastor will preach at the morning service on "Jesus, Christ, Lord." The attractive musical program arranged under the direction of Prof. John Hermann Loud is given elsewhere in this issue.

—The children of the Baptist Sunday school had their annual Christmas entertainment yesterday. A delightful musical entertainment was given, after which refreshments were served.

The school had as its guests 16 children from the West End of Boston in the afternoon and those from the Pomroy Home in the evening. The attendance was the largest in the history of the school both afternoon and evening.

Little Pitchers.
In a certain small town there are two young women whose favorite occupation has been to discuss the affairs of their neighborly living not for that purpose one afternoon they found themselves blocked in the indulgence of their pastime by the presence of the small daughter of the hostess. A slight indisposition of some sort prevented sending the child out of doors, so they were forced to put up with her presence, doing their best, however, to nullify it.

Something eatable was produced and an absorbing new game invented which she could play quite by herself, so they breathed freely and began.

The talk at length reached a point involving the latest scandal of the neighborhood and the retelling of some inside information which must not become public property. A hurried look at the child on the floor found her apparently so occupied with her game that it seemed quite safe to go on if one observed a decent discretion. Voices were accordingly lowered and direct allusion veiled, but when the matter had been thrashed out to their satisfaction the child raised her eyes and remarked with deliberation and emphasis:

"I hear, I know, I understand, and I'll blab!"—New York Times.

Books and Their Care.

Books on shelves may be seriously injured if packed too tightly. When quickly pulled out for use the top of the book is likely to come off. Moreover, the constant pressure, if too great, will loosen the whole back in time and the friction in putting upon and taking from the shelf mars the covers. On the other hand, a reasonable amount of lateral pressure is necessary. If placed on the shelves too loosely the leaves tend to open and admit dust, dampness and consequent mildew. In the case of heavy volumes the weight of the leaves will be found resting on the shelves if the books are placed too loosely. This is likely to make the backs concave. Badly painted shelves are another source of injury to books. Care should be taken when paint or varnish is used that the surface is perfectly smooth, hard and dry when the books are put in place and that the surface will remain so during variation of temperature or humidity.—House Beautiful.

An Anecdote of Pope.

There is an old anecdote of Alexander Pope concerning one of the old watermen who were employed for many years in rowing Pope on the Thames. Pope was in the habit of having his sedan chair lifted into the punt. If the weather was fine he let down the glasses; if cold he pulled them up. He would sometimes say to the waterman:

"John, I am going to repeat some verses. Take care to remember them the next time I go out."

When that time came Pope would say:

"John, where are the verses I told you of?"

"I have forgotten them, sir."

"John, you are a blockhead. I must write them down for you."

John said that no one thought of saying when speaking of him, "Mr. Pope," but that he was always called "Mr. Alexander."

The Original Encyclopedia.

The first real encyclopedia was Pliny's "Natural History." This work was an extensive one, numbering some thirty-seven volumes and dealing with all the then known facts of the world. Pliny, who died A. D. 79, collected the data for his work in his leisure intervals while engaged in public affairs. The "Natural History" was for its time an amazing production, treated of some 20,000 facts and was of very high authority throughout the entire middle ages. Forty-three editions of the work were printed before the year 1530, and no scholar's library was considered complete without it.—New York American.

Wakeful Night.

A rather imaginative Washington lady decided she had insomnia. She couldn't sleep, she said. One morning she was more than usually depressed.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked the husband. "Another sleepless night?"

"Worse than that," she replied gloomily. "I did manage to drop off to sleep, and I dreamed all the time I was asleep that I was awake."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Made the Rhyme.

"Carpet" rhymes with no single word, but some bold poet dared to evade the difficulty thus:

"Sweet maid of the inn, 'tis surely no sin to toast such a beautiful bar; believe me, my dear, your feet would appear at home on a nobleman's carpet."—London Answers.

Cynical.

"The course of true love doesn't always run smooth," sighed the young widow.

"That's right," rejoined the old bachelor. "Sometimes it ends in marriage."—Chicago News.

Many Meanings.

Traveler—Some expressions in the Chinese language have as many as forty different meanings.

Little Miss—Same way in English. "You amaze me. Mention one."

"Not at home."

The beloved of the Almighty are the rich who have the humility of the poor and the poor who have the magnanimity of the rich.—Saadi.

The Gullible Public.

Two boulevardiers of Paris tell how they proved the gullibility of the public. They bet a friend 1,000 francs that by inserting three advertisements of three lines each in papers in the course of a week they would receive 500 francs without giving any explanation or making any promise to the senders.

On a Saturday the following advertisement appeared:

"Intelligent persons will send 5 francs to such an address."

On the Wednesday the insertion ran: "Last possible day is Sunday. Send your 5 francs then, or refusal."

The third on the following Saturday was:

"All 5 francs posted after tomorrow will be inexorably refused."

By the Sunday morning seventy-seven postal orders for 4 shillings each had come in, and the next morning eighty-two more arrived. The gullible public had sent in not 500 francs, but 705 francs in a week. Having proved their point and won their bet, the two boulevardiers naturally returned the postal orders to the ingenious senders.

English of Long Ago.

The king's English has changed as kings have come and gone, says the St. James' Gazette. Here is a passage from the record of a crowning of long ago: "The Cardinal, as Archbishop of Canterbury, showing the king to the people at the High parties of the said pulpit, shall say in this wise, 'Sirs, I here present Henry (true) and rightful, and undoubted inheritor by the laws of God and man to the coronure and roiall dignite of England, with all things thereunto annexed and apperteyning, electe, chosen and required by all three estates of the same land to tak ypon him the said coronure and roiall dignite, whereupon ye shall understand that the dale is prefixed and appoynted by all the piers of this land for the consecration, enveccion and coronacion of the said most excellent Prince Henry; will ye, sirs, at this tyme geve your willes and essentes to the same consecration, enveccion and coronacion? Whereupon the peple shall say, with a grente voice, 'Ye. Ye. So be hit. King Henry! King Henry!'"

Weighing the Mayor.

A mayor, particularly an English mayor, is traditionally a man of weight and substance, but there is only one municipality that insists that his honor get on the public scales and prove it. Of the thousands of quaint and curious customs surviving in "the old country" this is perhaps one of the most odd. The mayor of High Wycombe has to be weighed on Nov. 9 of each year, inauguration day, and this custom has been observed for about six centuries. The mayor elect walks at the head of a procession consisting of the councillors, the handle and the mace bearer. He is clad in cocked hat, silk stockings, blue coat and knee breeches. Upon reaching the town hall the mayor is placed upon the scales by the head constable, and a record of his avoirdupois is solemnly made in a book kept for this purpose.—Harper's Weekly.

The Brain is Very Adaptable.

Each vocation makes a different call upon the brain and develops faculties and qualities peculiar to itself, so that as the various professions, trades and specialties multiply the brain takes on new adaptive qualities, thus giving greater variety and strength to civilization as a mass, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

When the world was young the brain of man was very primitive, because the demand upon it was largely for self protection and the acquisition of food, which called only for the development of its lower, its animal part. As civilization advanced, however, there was a higher call upon the brain and a more varied development until today, in the highest civilization, it has become exceedingly complex.

Only Two Kinds.

Little Lawrence's grandfather was very ill, and a trained nurse had been employed to care for him. When he became convalescent a young woman who had studied in a hospital for a short time was secured in her place. A sympathetic neighbor meeting Lawrence, the following conversation took place:

"How is your dear grandpa this morning, Lawrence?"

"He is better."

"Have you the trained nurse still?"

"No; the trained nurse has gone away, and the one we have now is half trained and half wild."—Woman's Home Companion.

Feminine.

"What is Mrs. Green crying for?"

"Mrs. Watson snubbed her in the street car."

"But Mrs. Green doesn't speak to Mrs. Watson anyhow."

"I know, but she's crying because she didn't see Mrs. Watson in time to snub her first."—Detroit Free Press.

Hotel Was Crowded.

"If you remember I slept in this hotel last night on a pool table."

"I remember," said the clerk.

"Well, did you find a set of false teeth in the corner pocket?"—Pittsburg Post.

In the Airship.

"Conductor."

"Yes, madam."

"Let me off at that pretty cloud."—Woman's Home Companion.

WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

Away up in the Bavarian Alps there lies a little village nestled in among the mountains with seemingly no way out save the way you came in. It is not so very different from many another mountain village, I presume, and yet the others are nameless so far as the outside country is concerned, while this one is known the world over. And what is the reason? Probably because it is the home of a "peculiar people." Many, many years ago the region round about was visited by a plague, but this little village was exempt until one man anxious to see his family once more before he died brought the dread disease into the hitherto immune district. Many deaths followed and the village threatened to be well-nigh destroyed. To appease their God and stay the plague these people made a vow to portray every ten years the scenes of the last week of the life of Jesus. The plague was stayed and ever since, now some four centuries, these "peculiar people," with a few exceptions in time of war, have carried out their vow. To be worthy a part in this "Passion Play" seems to have become the dominating motive of these people. The fame of this wonderful performance has spread over all the earth and thither have come representatives of every race and every religion, Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, and all alike have come away impressed with its sacredness. Despite the walls of superstition which the centuries have built about him, it is the human Jesus which these people have portrayed with such effectiveness that even stout-hearted men have found themselves unable to resist. To have witnessed the Oberammergau Passion Play is one of the deep privileges of life, one that deepens as time goes by. It cannot be discussed. Suffice it to say that if any "went to scoff they remained to pray," if any anticipated a crude affair they came away disappointed, for more artistic arrangement of color and grouping, nor a more perfect performance cannot be imagined.

It was a subdued crowd, a reverent crowd that filed out of the theatre after the long performance was ended. One longed to flee to the mountain-side and think it over or to see the village without the people. But to escape four thousand is not so easy, so with deeply reverent hearts we turned our steps once more to our good Frau Schmidt and her hospitable home.

With the approach of the Christmas season the memories of Oberammergau stand out more and more vividly, for there we found embodied in the hearts of these simple people the echo of the angels' song "Peace on earth, good-will to men."

A Merry Christmas to all!

The Civil Service Reform committee of the Massachusetts State Federation has just sent out a special plea asking that the clubs interest the young people in the high schools in Civil Service Reform by offering a prize medal for the best essay upon the subject. A bronze medal has been prepared designed and executed under the direction of St. Gaudens which the clubs may secure for five dollars to be awarded the writer of the best essay. Accompanying the circular is a booklet entitled "Some Salient Features of the Civil Service in Massachusetts." This sets forth the principles in brief and readable form by means of twenty questions and answers. It points out the positions open to women and in answer to the question "Why should we as club women be interested in Civil Service?" it states: "First and foremost because we wish to be good citizens; second, we desire to further the cause of good government; third, we believe we can do much to secure greater opportunities for women through Civil Service."

In the closing question it says: "You can aid—"

By appointing a Civil Service Committee in your club, who will bring important matters to the attention of the club, and distribute literature intelligently wherever and whenever it is most needed in your particular community.

By arranging for Civil Service programs in your club.

By offering prizes to the pupils in your schools.

By seeing that notices of Civil Service examinations are posted in conspicuous places and by urging competent persons to take such examinations.

By placing in the reading rooms of public libraries general and special literature pertaining to Civil Service Reform.

By reporting progress made, and asking for further suggestions from the state committee.

By influencing your member of the Legislature to vote correctly on bills affecting the civil service."

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will omit its meeting next week.

The Monday Clubs omits its regular meeting on Dec. 26, but will make its annual visit to the Newton City Home on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 29. The members will meet at the home of Mrs. Phipps of Walnut street at 2 p. m.

Monday's meeting of the Waban Woman's Club held at the home of Mrs.

Archie C. Burnett on Waban avenue was particularly interesting because of the piano playing of Miss Georgianna Nelson, a favorite pupil of Leschetizky. The stereopticon lecture by Dr. William F. Ross of the Massachusetts General Hospital upon "The Instruction of the Young in some Vital Matters" gave his hearers much valuable information.

The Monday Club continued the study of Stevenson with the consideration of several of his books at its meeting on Dec. 19.

At the meeting of the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands on Monday afternoon Mrs. Logan was in charge of the program, the subject being "The Bigelow Papers" by James Russell Lowell.

On Tuesday afternoon the Newtonville Woman's Guild celebrated Forefathers' Day with short talks upon various antiques and curios. Mr. Samuel Thurber of the Technical High School spoke of an historic chair which had formerly belonged to Rebecca Nurse. Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden told of an old doll, Mrs. W. C. Richardson of an example of Mid-Victorian art, Mrs. Herbert R. Gibbs of a collection of antiques and curios, and Mrs. J. A. Fenno of an old medical appliance. There was also vocal music by Miss Margaret Baker, accompanied by Mrs. D. E. Baker. Tea was served by the social committee.

At 10:30 on Tuesday morning, Dec. 26, the Current Events class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will meet.

The meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning will be omitted. The members will take notice.

An extra meeting of the Newton Ladies Home Circle will be held on Thursday, Dec. 29, at 2:30, at the home of Mrs. C. A. Drake, 497 Auburn street, Auburndale.

"Southern Music and Stories" is the announcement for the monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday, Dec. 29. The daughters of club members will be guests at this meeting.

LODGES.

Members of Tennyson Rebekah Lodge 119 met Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, West Newton, and held their annual election of officers, organizing for the coming year as follows: Mrs. Mary E. Manter, N. G.; Mrs. Catherine Buck, V. G.; Mrs. Florence Newell, treasurer; Harvey Wood, recording secretary; Mrs. Ella F. Mason, financial secretary; Abbie L. Chamberlain, trustee for three years. Two candidates were initiated. There were a number of visitors present from Waltham lodges.

POLICE NOTES.

Arthur A. Cooper, a salesman of 45 Bowers street, Newtonville, was fined $20 by Judge Kennedy Tuesday for passing a worthless check. Cooper tendered a check to a Newtonville news-dealer in payment of a small bill, and had no account at the bank.

His Chance to Vote.
The chronicles of our vice presidents are notoriously barren of incident. This probably was the reason for the way Adlai Stevenson secured the exercise of a constitutional prerogative. It was one sleepy day toward the end of his term as vice president. The United States senate was plowing through the calendar and passing many bills. Bills are considered agreed to in the senate if no oral objection is raised after they have passed through the preliminary stages, but the usual form of asking for the yeas and nays is followed by the presiding officer. The vice president had said:

"Senators in favor of the bill will say 'Aye.'" Pause. "Contrary, 'No.'"

"Not a single response."

"The vote is a tie," announced Mr. Stevenson.

The senator in charge of the bill paused on his way to the cloakroom and looked surprised.

"In case of a tie the vice president may cast the deciding vote. In the exercise of his constitutional privilege the vice president votes 'Aye.'"

The "Sun Drawing Water."

The phenomenon commonly known as the "sun drawing water" is due to rays of sunlight between the shadows of clouds. It is seen to best advantage when the atmosphere is somewhat hazy and when the sun is wholly or partly behind a cloud and is not in the higher part of the sky. Patchy stratocumulus clouds are most favorable for the formation of these rays, and they are probably most distinct when seen in the part of the sky below the sun, when they appear to extend either directly or somewhat obliquely downward. It is in this form that the effect is most commonly called the "sun drawing water." But such rays may extend in any direction, so that they diverge from the sun as a center. No rain need be falling anywhere near the observer, though it is not impossible for the rays to be visible at a time when rain streaks also are visible in part of the sky. The rain streaks, however, do not diverge from the sun, but are in lines of the falling rain.—St. Nicholas.

The Scleroscope.

This little American invention has been described as a kind of mechanical finger intended to discriminate by delicacy of touch between various substances submitted to it. The ready detection of the degree of hardness and elasticity of various surfaces is its special function. It consists essentially of a light weight, like the hammer of a pile driver, which is allowed to fall inside a tube placed upright on the surface to be tested. The bottom of the hammer, which weighs only a few grams, is finished with a blunted diamond, intended to give it the requisite hardness. After a fall it rebounds, and a carefully graduated scale on the tube, indicating the height of the rebound, shows the degree of hardness of the surface experimented with. On a piece of ordinary steel the hammer rebounds nine-tenths of the height of its fall.—Youth's Companion.

The Tale of a Key.

There is a roll top desk in an office near Wall street which can be bought cheap. The owner is a commuter and has desk room in a large office. He came late the other day and discovered that he had forgotten his keys. No key at hand would unlock the desk. The maker could not give aid for an hour or more, and some papers had to be reached before noon. The desk was forcibly opened, and two inner compartments were smashed. Warm and tired from the exertion of wrecking his property, the man took off his coat and slipped into an office coat. In the pocket of which his keys jingled. Tableau! Before going home he confided to the office boy that he wouldn't care if he hadn't told.—New York Tribune.

The Pillory.

The pillory in England was abolished as a punishment, except for perjury, in 1815 and was totally abolished in 1837. The last person to suffer at the Old Bailey was one Peter Bossey, for perjury, June 22, 1830. Notwithstanding the fact that this mode of punishment was supposed to be only for the lighter offenses, it often happened that the pillory meant death to those placed in it, the culprit frequently being stoned to death by the heartless mob.—New York American.

Next Best Thing.

"Say, Mayme, did you ever have any turtle soup?" asked a ramboned youth of the girl beside him.

"No," admitted the maiden; "but," added she, with the conscious dignity of one who has not been lacking in social experience, "I've been where it was."—Lippincott's.

The Wherefore.

"Why are you so sure on your congressman?"

"When we called on him in Washington last session he made a speech to us instead of taking us out to lunch."—Kansas City Journal.

High Prizes.

Frost—Are the descriptions of scenery in Besteller's novel good? Snow—Great! The best I ever skipped.—Harper's Bazar.

Force of Association.

"How frigid that girl's manner is!"

"No wonder. She is the daughter of a millionaire iceman."—Baltimore American.

The Hall-Mark of the Shoe

There is a standard in shoes quite as convincing as that which guarantees any superlative article.

The hall-mark of gold or silver is not more exacting than the "Goodyear Welt" which stamps the shoe of the highest standard.

To the shoe manufacturer and to the shoe dealer Goodyear Welt denotes a shoe fashioned by the perfect system of machinery provided by the United Shoe Machinery Company.

THE GOODYEAR WELT

American genius in the Goodyear Welt system has shattered the traditions of centuries and the perfect shoe is the result.

Machinery has supplanted man. In every important process in the manufacture of shoes the machinery does the work with a precision, effectiveness and attractiveness that the human hand can never approach.

In every factory in the world where shoes of the highest grade are made the Goodyear Welt System is in operation because persons of discernment everywhere demand them.

The United Shoe Machinery Company, Boston, Mass., furnishes without charge, upon request, an alphabetical list of all welt shoes sold under a name or trade-mark, and with it a book describing the Goodyear Welt process in detail with pictures of the marvelous machines employed.

MR. COBB DEAD.

Mr. Edward W. Cobb, an old resident of Newton, passed away at the Newton Hospital last Saturday after a short illness. He was a native of Nantucket, where he was born 96 years ago. As a young man the deceased was in the newspaper business in Nantucket, but in later years was engaged in the insurance line, with offices in Boston, and as an assistant assessor and overseer of the poor in Newton. He was a member of Eliot Church.

One son, Mr. Charles E. Cobb of L. A. Loiseux of New York, survives. Mrs. H. H. Haines, and one daughter, Mrs. H. M. North and Mrs. Henry Campbell. The whist was held in the parlors instead of in the assembly hall. On Saturday evening the entertainment committee provided a most enjoyable vaudeville show. Mr. Pitt F. Parker gave some of his clever drawings, including one of "Salome," which made a great hit. The other attractions included a magician, a harpist and an impersonator. It was followed by a Dutch feed in charge of Mr. E. P. Tuttle. Messrs. C. N. Pitts and George Owen were in charge.

The ladies' and gentlemen's bridge whist on Tuesday evening attracted nearly a hundred, 20 tables being in play. The prize winners were Mrs. R. G. Howard, Mr. Williston, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wilcox, Miss Byfield, Miss Wilcox, Mr. Judkins and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kendal. Mrs. F. A. Wilcox was matron and she was assisted at the tables by Mrs. H. M. North and Mrs. A. C. Cummings.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

The ladies' matinee whist last Friday afternoon was largely attended, 28 tables being in play. The prize winners were Mrs. Harry Spencer, Mrs. Hanna, Mrs. Helmer, Mrs. Norton and Mrs. E. S. Wheeler. The affair was in charge of Mrs. C. S. Spencer, assisted by Mrs. R. P. Haines, Mrs. H. R. Viets, Mrs. H. M. North and Mrs. Henry Campbell. The decision of Colonel Kingsbury to retire from the office of city clerk,
which he has held for the past 27 years,
has been received with universal regret. For nearly a generation he has filled this important office, not only with ability and efficiency, but with the utmost tact and courtesy. The successive re-elections to the office, each one by unanimous vote, bear eloquent testimony to the regard in which he is held by the members of the present and past city governments, all of whom regard him as a personal friend. During his tenure of office the city has doubled in population and increased enormously in wealth. These changes vitally affected the business of the city clerk, and with the labor entailed by new legislation, have added largely to the burdens of the office. Colonel Kingsbury has met every duty which has been placed upon him with that spirit of faithfulness and loyalty which is one of his chief characteristics. His loyalty to his country was proved by three years' arduous service at the front during the Civil War and his loyalty to his city has been shown by the care and interest he has given to his work as city clerk. In retiring from active official life, Colonel Kingsbury will take with him the personal affection and cordial best wishes of his hosts of friends all over the city.

ALDERMEN MEET

The last regular meeting of the aldermen of 1910 was held Monday evening with President Jones presiding and only one member absent.

The petition of the Telephone Co.
for poles on Fisher avenue was favored by Mr. H. S. Allen for the company, who said that the new changes in rates required additional wires and that as the company was unable to obtain rights over private land, it must put its poles in the highway. The poles were strongly opposed by Messrs. C. S. Luitwiler, Paul P. Foster, James A. Darling, F. T.
McGill and A. L. Pratt. No one appeared at hearings for telephone attachments on Circuit avenue, Irving street, Edison poles on Rowe street, Rockledge road, and off Lake avenue or on petition of John A. Potter for gasoline license on Waltham street.

The requests of the Mayor for certain transfers of appropriations, for $200 additional for temporary interest, and to transfer $85 to 1911 appropriations for inspection of milk were granted.

The registrars of voters reported the result of recount for ward alderman in Ward 2 with a gain of three votes for Alderman Avery, and a loss of three votes for Mr. O'Grady. The result of the recent city election was then officially declared.

The city engineer submitted a sewer assessment on Allendale road which was passed and immediately abated for one half on petition of A. W. Tarbox.
The application of Giuseppe Bontempo to build a frame store on West street was refused.

On recommendation of committees,
sewers were ordered in Westwood street, Webster street, Whitlowe road
and in private land off Webster street, auctioneer licenses granted to A. E. Alford and G. F. James, a minor's license to Joseph W. Richards, a gasoline license to John A. Potter, a liquor transportation permit to N. Veduccio, relocations on Marlboro street, Auburn street, attachments on Beacon street, Circuit avenue and Irving street to the Telephone Co., poles on Rowe street, relocations on Rowe street and Centre street, and attachments on Linwood avenue to the Edison Co., leave to withdraw given on petitions for street municipal licenses, to Antonio Morella for pool table licenses and on petitions of Telephone Co. for poles on Bennington street, Fisher avenue, Lowell avenue,

Page road and Foster street. Sewer assessments were ordered on Collins road, sidewalks assessments on Ilmore street and Wesley street, settlement authorized on claims of J. H. Kensle, $50, and W. H. Nash, $25, leave to withdraw given on claims of G. W. Snow, Dorothy Brown and Margaret Hetherington, authorizing Mayor to petition for legislation to abolish deputy election officers, no action necessary voted on request of Auburn Improvement Society for more stringent ordinance relative to waste papers and rubbish, amending ordinances relative to care of City Hall and courthouse, granting $17,670 for city expenses to Jan. 15, authorizing payment of $24,814.50 for interest due Jan. 1, and authorizing distribution of Kenrick fund income for 1910.

Alderman Doherty strongly favored action to divide precinct one of ward two into two voting precincts, but the matter was subsequently referred to a committee.

The order establishing a municipal buildings insurance fund and transferring $25,000 from the overlay account thereto, was taken from the table and adopted after considerable debate, by a vote of 18 to 2. Aldermen Barker and Heard voting nay.

Alderman Woods said in part: I think you will agree that it is the duty of trustees to protect property with insurance. As individuals they will do as they please in relation to their property, either have or go without insurance, but as trustees I think it is their duty to follow and protect it carefully with insurance to a certain extent. We as members of the Board of Aldermen are trustees of the property of the city.
We cannot be as fortunate in the future as in the past so far as the fire loss to the city is concerned, and the law of average is bound to assert itself sooner or later. The subject of insurance of public buildings is not a remarkably profitable one for insurance companies.
They are considered among the third class, yet some of the largest companies in the world will not carry over $25,000 on a schoolhouse. I think we should learn from the examples of those companies some of whom have been in business for 100 years that we should not rely too much on our good fortune. We have apparently a ready made fund which has been accumulating for several years. I don't know of anything fairer than to take this money from the overlay fund that has been accumulating and making a reservation fund to take care of the losses which are bound to come. Alderman Barker said: To my mind
there seems to be two questions: One,
about the proper use to which this money could be put, and the other whether insurance is a good investment for us. The budget was drawn with the strictest lines of economy and economy was the main feature, whether we considered it efficient or not at that time. We were a bit closer on economy than we were of efficiency and I am of the opinion that there are wiser ways of distributing this money. We cut the appropriations which the Mayor recommended a considerable amount and it is a question whether we are not taking some chance when we did that. The matter of insurance has been brought up in times past and they thought it not wise and it seems to me we are going to experiment. We are not going into this in a business like way. Let us have an insurance fund where there are wooden buildings for their danger of burning is greater than buildings like the Technical High School. Let us insure these and protect ourselves in a business like way, not in a half-hearted way. If we take this $25,000 as the basis of an insurance fund then we have got to add it to year by year. My hope is that if we go into this and have set insurance the fixed charges will be increased which is not wise when we consider the financial condition of the city.

Alderman Sullivan: At the last meeting I doubted the wisdom of creating this fund, not doubting the wisdom of insurance but because of the decrease in our receipts, etc. I had hesitated in regard to voting in this matter. Since I have read the fire at Lawrence with a loss to the extent of $100,000, I looked into the matter and talked with some Lawrence men and I found the loss was $62,000, with only $7000 insurance carried and I found the consensus of the opinion has been very severe. Now that seems to have brought the matter right home and I feel we should have some form of insurance and I am going to vote for this.

Alderman Heard: I think that we are making a mistake in taking this step at this time. We are told that we should act for the city in the same way as we should act in our private business and that we are trustees and should act in the same way as trustees.
Statements of that sort are of a general character and are only true in a general way. It is the duty of every man to save up as much as he can, to sacrifice his own interests for the advantage of his children, but we should make a great mistake if we should save up money to any considerable extent belonging to the taxpayers, and I think we are doing that sort of a thing here if we undertake this. This is not a new question, because it has been discussed by cities all over the land and by our city. Many years ago it was brought up and the consensus of the opinion was against the city taking insurance. Now the object of the insurance is to take care of the risk against fire and to replace what is lost if it occurs. A man who owns a single house should insure it, but there is a great question whether a man is wise to insure a large number of widely scattered risks. We have according to the records some 61 buildings scattered all over the city, varying as to their risk and I think we can well afford to not carry any insurance. It is a fact that fires have occurred and that there have been fire losses and if this very building we are in should burn down tonight
it would be taken care of by an issue of bonds, and there is no reason in my opinion to put insurance on a building which will be to the advantage of those who come in the future. It seems to me that it belongs to those who have contributed in the past. We are taking the money from those who have had the use of the building, those who have paid for the building and putting it towards the purchase of a new building in the future. If you take it in the form of a sinking fund we are applying to the erection of a building for use by those of the future. If the principles of insurance are true the city owns personal property which there is a risk against and on the same principle we should undertake insurance of that property. There is also no insurance for use for those insured in our employ. There are other points which it seems to me effect this and are important as to its expediency. Our debt is something over six million and extends to about 1940. In the next five years we pay off a fourth of that debt, leaving us in a much more satisfactory condition as to finances and in a position where we would be better able to make a new expenditure. If we undertake insurance the only way to do it is to along with it insure these real fire risks. Now our risks are scattered. The buildings in recent years are small risks.

It seems to me that we are not only going wrong but we are mistaken in the way we are going, and I object to taking the amount out of the overlay.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

The last regular meeting of the present school committee was held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, following a dinner which was tendered the committee by the Technology College class of the Household Economics department of the Technical High School. The girls of this class cooked and served the following dinner:

Tomato Soup	Olives	Celery
Imperial Sticks	Potato Souffle
Cranberry Jelly	Squash Cauliflower
Macedoine Salad	Rolls
English Plum Pudding
Whipped Cream
Crackers	Coffee

The young ladies who acted as waitresses were the Misses Ruth Brigsteke, Dorothy McNeil, Gertrude Russell,
Alice Klockner, Annie Butler and Katherine Davis.

At the business session leave of absence for balance of school year was granted Miss Grace K. Blackman of the Hamilton School and Miss Grace J.
Edwards of the Underwood School. The resignation of Miss Marion Churchill of the High School was accepted and her appointments and Miss Mary R.
Davidson, English department, Technical High School; Miss Edith H. Sawyer, history department, Technical High.
The superintendent was authorized to employ an expert milliner for lessons in millinery for two periods of six weeks, each beginning in January and April.

The sessions of the High Schools, beginning Jan. 3, will close at 1:40 to permit a ten minute lengthening of the lunch period.

Mr. Adoniram J. Leach was granted permission to address the different schools as a representative of the American Peace Society.

MOCK TRIAL

A large audience attended the mock trial given Wednesday night in the rooms of St. Mary's Episcopal Church of Newton Lower Falls by the members of the St. Mary's Club. The trial was entitled "A Ready-Made Suit." The defendant, Warren Jennings, dressed as a woman, was charged with having married nine different tailors, but after much testimony and lengthy arguments was found not guilty. Following is the cast: Charles S. French, judge; Harold E. Leslie, clerk of court; Herbert
T. Davis, prosecuting attorney; Thomas
L. Houghton, attorney for the defence;
William C. Norcross, sheriff; Warren
Jennings, defendant; Chester S. Spring,
Lewis Connolly, John Toole, Warren
Calden, Alan Connolly, S. C. de Palma, witnesses; Marshall P. Spring, C. H.
Spring, William P. Morse, Arthur Barry, Robert Shattuck, Edward Leslie, Edward Crosswell, Frederick Spring,
Lee Perkins, W. E. Seal, Edward Parker, John S. Connolly, styren, etc. After the trial a concert was given by Mrs.
Mary Schofield, Miss May Burnett, Mrs.
Francis B. White and Miss Ella Wright.

FIREMAN BURIED

Members of the local fire department, of the I. O. O. F. and the A. O. U. W., as well as scores of friends, paid tribute to Captain John R. Huggard of Hose 4, at funeral services held Thursday afternoon at his home, 1079 Washington street, West Newton. The firemen present included Chief Walter R.
Randlett and Assistant Chief George S.
Holmes. Rev. J. Edgar Park of the West Newton Congregational Church was the officiating clergyman and following the regular church service the ritual of the Odd Fellows was conducted by members of Waban Lodge 156, including Oscar McQueen, N. G.; Charles F. Dow, N. G.; and Hugh Hughes, V. G. They also held services at the grave in Newton Cemetery. The Beethoven Quartet sang "Lead, Kindly Light," "Abide With Me" and "Shall We Meet Beyond the River." The pallbearers were George K. Stacy of Engine 2, E. T. Whiting of Chemical B.
M. F. Turner of Truck 2, E. C. Waterhouse of Combination A, Frank S. Frost of Combination A, and Benjamin P.
Tripp of Engine 2. The firemen had sent a floral tribute in the form of the regulation badge, while the Odd Fellows and the A. O. U. W. had also sent flowers.

—Miss Maria Annie Bown, wife of Ernest A. Bown, passed away at the Newton Hospital Wednesday, the result of a shock. She had been in failing health for some time. Her husband and one daughter survive her. Funeral services were held from her late residence on Pearl street this morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. George S. Butters officiating, and the burial was in Milton.

Know the Stars in the Dragon?

Winding in and out between the stars of the Great and Little Dipper is the constellation of the Dragon. The tip of the tail lies between the pole star in the Little Dipper and the pointers in the Great Dipper, but much nearer the latter and only a few degrees below the pointers. The rest of the constellation, outlined with faint stars, curves downward and around the Little Dipper, when with a final coil it terminates with the two bright stars Gamma and Beta, which mark the head of the Dragon, or, in fact, its eyes. Aratus in describing the constellations speaks of the Dragon as "with eyes oblique retorted, that naked can gleaming fire."
Its leading star, Alpha, near the tail of the Dragon and halfway between Mizar (the middle star in the handle of the Great Dipper) and the lowest star in the bowl of the Little Dipper,
is known by the name of Thuban.
Four thousand years ago it was the pole star.—Mary Proctor in Chicago Tribune.

Does Your Cat Cough?

Poor pussy! As if the immemorial charges against her of keeping us awake at night and of eating canary birds whenever she gets the chance were not enough, the doctors have just discovered that for years she has been responsible for the spread of diphtheria. Dr. G. J. Auburn of Manchester, England, having traced an epidemic of this disease in a suburb of that city to a pet cat belonging to one of his patients, has found, after much clever investigation, that all cats are peculiarly susceptible to diphtheritic affections of the throat. He has therefore recently been warning all families who own cats to watch them carefully and if they develop coughs to forbid their being hugged and petted. Dr.
Auburn further recommends that if the cough persists and the cat begins to grow thin to have the animal destroyed at once. The only really safe way, he says, is to let the first wheeze be pussy's death warrant.—New York

Left to a Worse Fate.

The business man was sitting in his office thinking of starting for home
when a suspicious looking person came in with a leather bag in his hand.

"If you don't give me $5," said the visitor, coming at once to the point,
"I will drop this on the floor."
The business man was cool. "What is it?" he asked.

"Dynamite," was the brief reply.
"What will it do if you drop it?"
"Blow you up!"

"Drop it!" was the instant command. "My wife told me when I left home this morning to be sure to send up a bag of flour, and I forgot it. I guess it will take just about as much dynamite as you have there to prepare me for the blowing up I'll get when she sees me!"

"I'm a married man myself," said
the dynamiter and quietly slipped out.

Shied at the Price.

A noted painter said at the Art club in Philadelphia, apropos of picture
prices:

"I am glad there are not many buyers like an old farmer in Center Bridge.
A very distinguished etcher, sketching in Center Bridge, made a study of the farmer's barn. The farmer happened to appear and said he'd like to have the sketch.

"'Ef 'tain't too dear,' he added cautiously.
"'Oh,' said the etcher, who makes $12,000 a year, 'I won't charge you anything for the sketch, but—'
"His eye lighted on the pigpen.

"'But I'll tell you what. You can give me one of those nice little pink sucking pigs there.'"

"'Why, man,' said the farmer with a frown, 'do ye know what them pigs is worth? They're worth a dollar apiece.'—Exchange.

Strong on Length.

Richard Carl engaged as cook a Swedish girl who proved unsatisfactory. On departure she asked for a written testimonial, and Dr. Carl presented her with the following:
"To whom it may concern: I have lately had in my employ Hulda Swanson, who was engaged to cook for a family of three and do such other things as would be possible when not cooking. Under this head might come a little dusting and dishwashing and answering the doorbell. Taking all these things into account, I wish to say that Hulda is absolutely the tallest cook I ever saw."—Success Magazine.

The Poet Again.

He had long hair and a pensive look.
He wrote a poem entitled "Why Do I Live?" He signed it Augustus and sent it to a magazine.

The editor wrote him as follows:
"My dear Augustus, the reason why you live is because you sent the poem
by mail instead of bringing it personally."—Paris Modes.

A Harsh Order.

On the beach near an English town
a sign bearing this legend was nailed to a post:

"Notice.—Any person passing beyond this point will be drowned. By order of the magistrate."

A Chance to Make Money.

A young man who had been out of employment for some time and to whom money had become a stranger stood on the Walnut street bridge over the Schuylkill gazing down at the water.

Stumble was in his mind, but he was afraid to seek death by drowning and only contemplated it when he realized that he had no money to purchase poison, a rope or something of the sort.

As he was standing there a well dressed man accosted him.

"Young man, do you want to earn $47?" he said.

"Forty dollars?" gasped the unfortunate, to whom the sum sounded like a million. "Lead me to it," he said.

"Come along," said the stranger as he led the way across the bridge.

The young man followed, a new hope gleaming from his eyes.

The stranger led the way to a room
on a side street off Walnut.

"Here we are," he said.

"Well, how am I going to earn those $47?" asked the young man.

"Well, you see, I'm a little hard up for cash," said the stranger, "and I'm going to sell you a pair of five dollar shoes for a dollar!"—Philadelphia Press.

The Carrot Cure.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, referring to the true efficacy of carrots as a cure for wounds (a tradition which was certainly not handed down from Crecy), writes to Dr. Hunt in 1893, telling him how a man's heel, which was severely wounded at the battle of Fredericksburg, was treated by Dr.
Bigelow, who did nothing but keep the wound open and made the patient use for this purpose a little plug of carrot, which seemed to agree with him very well.

Another more modern medical authority says that for delicate persons an excellent supper vegetable is a fair sized carrot, boiled whole so as to retain its aromatic properties, then split into quarters and warmed afresh before being served hot. It acts as a nervine sedative while being cordial and restorative. A sense of mental invigoration will follow, and the digestion of this estimable root will be readily performed without preventing sleep.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Peacock Plumage.

However much milliners may admire the plumage of the peacock and however much they may desire the money it brings, superstition prevents many of them from using it.
"Rather than give peacock feathers house room I would lose my best customer," one milliner declared. "I have done it more than once. Women who want their own materials made up have brought peacock trimming, and when I positively refused to handle it they went away angry and looked for somebody else to work up their peacock feathers. But no doubt they had a long chase, because two-thirds of the milliners feel just as I do about peacock feathers."

"But why?" asked a woman who carried a peacock feather in her hand bag.

"It's bad luck, that is why," said the
milliner.—New York Sun.

No Paprika in Her Bones.

A Hungarian restaurant in New York became famous for its culinary triumphs, and many visitors to the city became acquainted there with the mysterious dishes produced in Hungarian kitchens. In one of these parties several years ago was a young matron from the far west, who, anxious to extend her culinary knowledge and seeing how her husband relished one of the courses of the meal, asked the head waiter for the recipe for the dish.
"I can give it to you, madam," was the courteous reply, "but you can't make it."

"And why not?" asked the sightseer.
"Because you must be Hungarian.
It might come right for an Austrian,
but an American never. You must have paprika in your bones." And, taking that high ground, the request was refused.—New York Tribune.

Across the Hall.

"Say, Snibbs, let me use your phone,
will you?"
"Sure. What's the matter with yours?"

"It's all right. I want to telephone to my wife that I'm going to bring a man from out of town to dinner."

"Well?"

"He's sitting in my room now, and I hate to have him watch my face when my wife tells me what she thinks of the proposition."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Bird's Barbed Wire Fence.

There may be seen along the roadsides in Central America a brown wire about the size of a canary which builds a nest out of all proportion to its apparent needs. It selects a small tree with horizontal branches growing close together. Across two of the branches it lays sticks fastened together with tough fiber until a platform about six feet long by two feet wide has been constructed. On the end of this platform nearest the tree trunk it then builds a huge dome shaped nest a foot or so high with thick sides of interwoven thorns. A covered passageway is then made from the nest to the end of the platform in as crooked a manner as possible. Across the outer end, as well as at short intervals along the inside of this tunnel, are placed cangling little fences of thorns with just space enough for the owners to pass through. On going out this opening is closed by the owner by placing thorns across the gateway, and thus the safety of the eggs or young is assured.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Penknives.

Nowadays we use penknives principally for sharpening pencils. There was a time, however, when they were used primarily for doing something else. They used to be just what their name would indicate—they were "penknives." The ancients used pens made of goose quills, just as our forefathers did up to about a hundred years ago. The quill pen was made by hand, of course, and whenever the point of one would break or lose its elasticity it was up to the penman to put a new point or "rib" on the quill.
This was done with a small knife, and hence we have the word that has outlived the quill pen a hundred years

HOCKEY.

Hockey of every description was displayed by the Brae Burn Country and the Brookline Hockey clubs in the opening match of the Boston Hockey League played at the Boston Arena Wednesday night.

Brae Burn was the winner, 2 to 1. The match was spirited and far more enjoyable to the spectators than any match thus far. There was a dash of fast work at the very start by both teams, after which lack of condition was plainly noticeable, and the players tired. The men were allowed altogether too much freedom; there were many fouls, but they lived the play quite a bit.

Brookline scored in the first period. Then followed much tall and lofty tumbling in which Penhallow, the cover-point of Brae Burn, was slightly hurt. Brae Burns' players had the greater stamina, and with an advantage in weight tied up the score in the final period. Small shooting the puck into the cage for the tying point. With two minutes to play, Carlton was substituted for Thompson at cover point for Brookline. The move proved disastrous, for Carlton, becoming confused in carrying the puck, aided Small in making the winning goal. Brae Burn was without the services of Grover Fels, who has tonsillitis, and Heron, who is in Pittsburgh.

The wonderful work of the Brookline defense was the only thing which saved the team from receiving a worse beating. Thompson at cover point, Whittier at point and Beal at goal for Brookline were good, while Small, Hickey and Marston were the feature players for Brae Burn.

Forgive and forget, but don't forget to forgive.

PROF. PILLSBURY DEAD

Professor John H. Pillsbury of Beacon street, principal of the Waban Boys' School since 1899, and for several years one of Waban's foremost citizens, passed away at his residence on Monday morning, after just one week's illness. His death was the direct result of a shock. He was born in Limington, Me., Dec. 20, 1846, and was graduated from Wesleyan University in 1874 and received his A. M. in 1877. He was a teacher at Wilbraham Academy, Wesleyan, and the Springfield High School, and a university extension lecturer at Smith College. He had been principal of the Waban School since 1899. He was ordained a minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1870, and had held pastorates in Raymond and Kennebunk, Me., and Malden, Stoneham and Dedham. He was the author of several scientific books. He is survived by a widow and one son, W. Robinson Pillsbury. The funeral services, which were held on Wednesday afternoon were of the simplest, the Rev. Charles M. Meldeu, pastor of the Newton Centre Methodist Church, officiating, and there being no music nor pallbearers in accordance with the wish of the deceased. Many friends and fellow educators were present, however. The body was taken to Limington, Me., for interment.

Two Dimensional Vision.

Most people do not know that they ought to be very thankful for having both eyes in one plane instead of having them one on each side of the head. If the latter obtained no one could tell that an object had more than two dimensions until experience and the sense of touch educated the brain to it. Any one can try it for himself. Shut one eye and look at different objects. They appear flat. With binocular vision two views of each object are obtained and neither is exactly like the other, so the idea of depth comes in.

The most easily shown example of the difference is as follows: Take a ring and hold it about two feet from the eye. With one eye closed it will take at least five trials to thrust a pencil through the ring, whereas with both eyes open it can be done on the first trial.

All animals with eyes on opposite sides of the head labor under this disadvantage, as do all insects. It is called two dimensional vision, as the idea of depth is not possible. All this is on account of the image thrown on the retina of the eye being in only two dimensions.—Philadelphia Press.

Woodcarvers of Burma.

The woodcarvers of Burma are the most skilled in the world. They select and cut the best logs along the Irrawaddy river in the dry season, and these are thrown into the shrunken stream. There they lie until the freshets of the rainy season lift them and bear them down to the populous cities below.

Then huge elephants are employed to drag the heavy logs from the stream and take them to the saw-mills. They are then worked up into timbers suitable for the woodcarvers. The carvers use the figure of Buddha or some other emblem concerning the Buddhist worship in the greater part. The details are worked out in a careful way.

Sterns of boats are carved in an elaborate manner, and some of them would be worth a fortune in this country. The prow of the boat is usually ornamented with a figurehead of very elaborate carving. The art of woodcarving is handed down in the families in Burma, the children being taught by their fathers.—Wichita Eagle.

Trial of a Dead Man.

Mr. Christopher Hare's book on "Charles de Bourbon, High Constable of France," mentions the strange trial which succeeded the close of that turbulent career. He had died in conquering Rome, which his leaderless soldiers straightway sacked. For this crime it was necessary to find a scapegoat, so "on July 26, 1527, in the presence of King Francois I., on his seat of justice, assisted by the peers of France and the assembled chambers, Jean de Surle, first usher of the court, called Charles de Bourbon three times—at the bar of the parliament, at the marble table and at the marble steps—and then reported that the said de Bourbon had not appeared. The sentence was drawn up, then solemnly read out: 'The constable de France, dead, was condemned, his goods returned to the crown, and the door of his palace by the Louvre was painted yellow.'"

A still life by Jan van Huysen in the museum at The Hague was injured, but it is believed that the perpetrator was neither vandal nor thief. The picture represents a basket of fruit on which a number of insects have gathered. On a pale yellow apple, which is the centerpiece in the cluster of fruit, is a large fly, painted so true to nature, so say the officials of the gallery, that the canvas was injured by some one who endeavored to "shoo" it and brought his cane or hand too close to the canvas. "A tribute to the painter's genius," says the letter recording the fact, "for which the work had to suffer."

Arctic Rock Weed.

Drifting down from Alaska comes the greatest of all sea plants, the arctic rock weed, that grows in shape like a huge ship's hauser and sometimes with branches 500 feet long. There are no signs of leaves, but at intervals of a fathom or so a knob, for all the world like the buoy on a drift net, grows around the stem, aiding, as does the buoy, in keeping the plant afloat and creating the impression that some nets have gone astray.—New York World.

Method in Her Breakage.

The remains were taken to Peterboro, N. H., for burial on Thursday.

PRIZES AWARDED

The annual distribution of prizes won in golf tournaments during the summer by members of the Brae Burn C. C. took place Monday night at a banquet held at the club. Harry L. Ayer presided as toastmaster and gave out the prizes. All present entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion.

Songs were sung and there were impromptu speeches from the prize winners. It was hinted after the evening's fun was over that several of the speakers had exaggerated a bit in telling how they won their trophies, but this insinuation was brushed aside with the retort that all is fair in love and golf.

The Windeler shield, which was won by the Brae Burn Club in the state amateur championship, was on exhibition, as well as the Lesley cup, which the Bay State men won at Myopia over Pennsylvania and New York. The members of the Brae Burn team that won the sectional team matches were presented with bronze medals.

The committee in charge of the occasion comprised Harry L. Ayer, chairman; A. H. Gilbert, H. D. Locke and T. W. Sprague. The list of prize winners follows:

F. P. Hitchings, G. B. Angus, S. W. Stevens, W. G. Ahern, C. C. Bell, F. J. Burrage, W. E. Stiles, L. A. Brown, H. C. Walker, W. D. Smith, E. S. Litchfield, R. B. Sprague, J. N. Manning, L. Righter, J. J. Mitchell, Jr., H. A. Stiles, E. F. Lovejoy, H. L. Dexter, Jr., S. C. Lowe, J. D. Green, W. C. Chick, H. W. Stucklin, Percival Gilbert, W. F. Wyeth, T. E. Whiting, H. A. Roark, C. B. Watterman, F. E. Nason, A. E. Burr, C. F. Nye, S. G. Warren, A. S. Pratt, F. B. Witherbee, Howard Emerson, F. C. Tufts, Allen Hubbard, W. S. Wait, Dwight Chester, A. T. E. Hale, J. Gould, G. J. Lovejoy, R. G. Whiting, T. W. Sprague, W. B. Merrill, A. H. Gilbert, W. H. Rand, Jr., A. D. Locke, F. J. Hale, G. E. Peters, W. L. Crocker, W. S. Carlton, A. L. White and H. L. Ayer.

FIRST ICE CARNIVAL

The annual skating carnival of the Brae Burn Country Club drew nearly a thousand guests, arrayed in gaily-colored skating attire, to the club's grounds Friday night. Spectators said it was the most pleasing carnival given at the club in many a year, and congratulations were showered from every side on Edward F. Woods, Harry L. Burrage and Frank B. Witherbee, the committee on arrangements.

The ice on the pond wore a glary surface that sparkled under the big, full moon. Beside the pond were several little shacks, but for the convenience of the skaters, who wearied of the sport, and each of the houses had a big log fire. Out in the middle of the pond was a big bonfire and, in the glow of this, many tried their skill at curling, while a brass band played winter melodies.

At the clubhouse the chef had prepared a skater's dinner and a large number were served. The whole grounds about the pond and the house were made lively with Japanese lanterns, strung from tree to tree.

There was still another attraction—the Harvard freshmen playing Brae Burn at hockey in their opening game of the season. Harvard won, 4 to 2, for the first-year collegians displayed better team work and had little or no difficulty battering down the home team's defence.

NOMINATE OFFICERS.

A caucus of the members and members-elect of the Board of Aldermen of 1911 was held at City Hall last Monday evening, after the regular board meeting had adjourned. Senior Member Alderman Charles F. Avery presided and Alderman Williamson acted as clerk. President Matt B. Jones was named for president, and Alderman Frank R. Moore for vice-president. The declaration of City Clerk Kingsbury to accept a re-election was received and a committee appointed to take suitable action.

Tomorrow may never come, so get busy.

Mme. Gray will close her millinery store from Jan. 14 to March 20. All winter stock will be closed out regardless of cost. 21 Mt. Auburn street, Newton. Closed Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

LAND COURT.

To the Brae Burn Country Club, a duly existing corporation having its usual place of business in Newton, in the County of Middlesex, and said Commonwealth, Robert H. Hill, Margaret C. Mague, Frank A. Day, Trustee,
said Newton, and said County of Middlesex,
and Charles I. Travelli, Trustee,
said Newton, and said County of Middlesex,
unknown, or her heirs, devisees or legal representatives; and to all whom it may concern.

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court by Henry H. Day,
William B. H. Dowse, Benjamin S. Palmer,
Charles I. Travelli and George A.
Frost of said Newton, to register and confirm their title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate in said Newton, bounded westerly by land
of Brae Burn Country Club, Gates Street, land of Robert Hill, and land of Margaret C. Mague measuring in all about 844 feet; northerly by land of Frank A. Day et al, Trustees, about 524.35 feet; easterly by the same about 278.60 feet; southeasterly by the same about 645 feet; and southwesterly by the same in part and in part by land of Brae Burn Country Club about 420.47 feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and its boundaries are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at
the Land Court to be held at Boston,
in the County of Suffolk, on the ninth day of January, A. D. 1911, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.
And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of December in the year nineteen hundred and ten.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

FAITHFUL.

If there are any more faithful servants than our letter carriers, I do not know of them. Three times a day, three hundred times a year, they come to our door; through the bitter cold and fierce storms of winter, and the fervent heat of summer, bringing glad tidings from far or near; their service is faithful and courteous. At this time of giving and receiving let us not forget them,
but again extend to them on Xmas day
the glad hand with something in it, showing them we appreciate their labors
in our behalf.

Truly Answered.

Bats trading in the Medway in former years rejoiced in rather curious names, and the following was only one of the many amusing incidents resulting from this:

A boat named What's That to You?
passing a lockyard at nighttime was hulled as usual by the coast guard-man.

"Bout ahoy! Your captain's name?"
"Captain X."

"And what are you laden with?"
"Coals."

"Where bound for?"
"Chatham."

"Ship's name?"
"What's That to You?"

"I asked you the name of the ship."
"What's That to You?"

"You shall be reported for your insolence!" roared the coast guard-man. Again he put the question, and, receiving the same reply, the boat was commanded to remain where she was.

In the morning two boats were seen keeping guard. The officials, as they boarded the vessel with full authority to seize the offenders, observed for the first time the name painted in large letters. Amid the laughter and jeers of the crew of the What's That to You? they pulled merrily away.—London Telegraph.

Political Passions of 1844.

There were elements of picturesqueness and drama in the politics of the before the war time which are lacking nowadays. Marlon Harland tells in her autobiography of a Whig rally which makes the political meetings of today seem tame, cut and dried affairs. It was in 1844, the year of Clay's defeat, and feeling ran high.

At that particular time John Tyler was perhaps the most unpopular man in the Union. In the progress of his review of national affairs the orator at last came to the hated name. Instantly uprose the majestic figure of Captain Cochrane, the local eccentric, clad in the scarlet English hunting coat he invariably wore. "The Lord have mercy upon the nation!" he cried, his voice solemn with wrath and soborous with the mild jeeps for which the Bell was noted. "Fellow citizens, I always cry to high heaven for mercy upon this country when John Tyler's name is mentioned!
Amens and amen!"

THEATRES
Tremont Theatre—Boston theatregoers will be glad to learn that "The Girl in the Taxi," with Carter De Haven, the laughable French farce which ran for nearly three months in that city last summer, is to return to the Tremont Theatre as the Christmas week attraction at that playhouse, with a special Christmas matinee Monday afternoon, Dec. 26. The same cast which was seen at the Tremont Theatre in "The Girl in the Taxi" last summer will be seen Christmas week. Headed by Carter De Haven, whose singing and dancing specialties receive their rounds of applause, it includes Jessie Millward, Laura Guertie, Fremont Benton and Jeannette Regard. Three matinees will be given at the Tremont Theatre during the visit of "The Girl in the Taxi"—Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. The engagement will close Saturday night, New Year's eve.

Boston Theatre—Beginning Christmas night at 8 and continuing for two short weeks, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, the Boston Theatre will offer Adeline Gence, the world's greatest dancer, in Klaw & Erlanger's gorgeous musical production, "The Bachelor Belles." During her engagement here Mlle. Gence will present three of the latest diversions of her repertoire. The first dance presents her as a kind of re-embodiment of the great Marie Taglioni, past mistress of the style of ballet dancing known as "The Ideal," which she created. Her school of dancing is pure and founded on charm. Her second dance is very elaborate. In it she appears garbed as a butterfly and she is attended by an octet of dancing girls from London Empire who are dressed to represent roses. Her last dance is a Hungarian fold dance which is described as remarkable. "The Bachelor Belles" has a lively and interesting plot. The cast and ensemble numbers include more than 65 people; the principals being Frank Lalor, Lawrence Wheat, John Park, Stanton Heck, Josie Sadler, Eva Fallon and Ruth Peebles.

Castle Square Theatre—The opening performances of "Jack and the Beanstalk" at the Castle Square have been immediately triumphant. For the third year in succession Mr. Craig has chosen a musical piece as his Christmas production, and for the third time he has succeeded. "Jack and the Beanstalk" bids fair to rival if not to excel "The Circus Girl" in popularity. It is made up of a great variety of things, singing, dancing, humor, specialties and spectacular effects, and it bids fair to have a longer run at the Castle Square than it has ever before received in Boston. Two large holiday audiences are promised at the Castle Square for Monday's performances of "Jack and the Beanstalk" and seats are now on sale for the two coming weeks.

Colonial Theatre—Bessie McCoy will make her first appearance as a star at the Colonial Theatre on Christmas Monday afternoon, when she begins a three week's engagement in Boston. This wonderfully graceful dancer will be seen in Charles Dillingham's singing and dancing comedy, "The Echo." "The Echo" is in two acts, the first being laid at the Echo House, a New England hostelry famous because of its echo; the second in a mountain grove. To the hotel wander many persons, some in search of quiet, others seeking amusement. Among the guests is Rudolph W. Sylvester, a wealthy soap maker, played by John E. Hazzard. Miss McCoy appears as the head waitress, who becomes entangled in half a dozen love stories and incidentally has her own affair of the heart. "The Echo" is essentially a dancing play, for every member of the cast is a tennisclothes artist. Miss McCoy herself appears in several specialties, among which are the Yodel Doodle Guards and the Grizzly Bear dances, in which she is assisted by Arthur Hill, attired as Bruin.

Boston Opera House—The repertoire for the eighth week of grand opera at the Boston Opera House includes a third appearance of the celebrated Russian dancers, Anna Pavlova and Mikael Mordkin, supported by their complete Imperial Russian Ballet of 26. On Monday evening, Dec. 26, Verdi's "Il Trovatore" in Italian will be given, with Jeanne Korolevitch in the role of Leonora. Giovanni Zenatello will sing the role of Manrico. Aida by Verdi in Italian will be presented on Wednesday evening, Dec. 28, at 745, with Carmen Melis as Aida, Maria Gay as Amneris, and Zenatello as Radames. The ever popular opera "Carmen" will be repeated on Friday evening, Dec. 30, at 745, with Maria Gay in the role of Micaela, Nielsen as Micaela, and Florentino Constantino as Don Jose. At the Saturday matinee, Dec. 31, I. Paggiacci in Italian will be presented with Fely Dereyne in the role of Nedda. Followed by Anna Pavlova and Mikael Mordkin and the complete Imperial Russian Ballet in various dances. The popular price performance at prices from 50 cents to $2.50 on Saturday evening at 8 will be "Carmen" in Italian by Verdi. Alice Ta Travinia will sing the role of Violetta, Elvira Leveroni the role of Annina, Anna Roberts will be Flora and Florentino Constantino will sing Alfredo.

ENTERTAINMENT CLUB.
The Entertainment Club opened its season Friday evening in the Channing Church parlors by presenting a dramatization of Dickens' Christmas play, "The Cricket on the Hearth." There was a representative audience present and the success of the play was largely due to the management of Messrs. H. P. Curtis and Prescott Warren. The well balanced cast was as follows:
John Peerybingle, a carrier..... Mr. Henry P. Curtis
Mr. Tackleton, a toy maker..... Mr. Howard M. North Caleb Plummer, his man..... Mr. Prescott Warren
Old Gentleman, Mr. Frank P. Scofield
Porter..... Mr. Wallis W. Webster
Dot, John's wife..... Mrs. Henry P. Curtis
Bertha, a blind girl..... Mrs. Morton W. Haddock
Mrs. Fielding..... Mrs. Frank P. Scofield
Miss Fielding..... Miss Carolyn Clarke
Tilly Slowboy..... Mrs. Ralph W. Bartlett

MR. OLIVER M. FISHER,
Recently elected Treasurer 20th Century Club.

RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ellery-Bright of Waltham gave a reception and tea with dancing Tuesday afternoon, at the Brae Burn Country Club, to introduce their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Garbrant Bright. The clubhouse was decorated with a profusion of Christmas green, with holly berries and other touches of red to add to the effect.
Mr. and Mrs. Bright received with their daughter, and near them were massed the flowers sent to Miss Bright in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Bright wore black velvet and lace, over white satin, and Miss Bright was in white crepe de chine. The tea table was decorated with pink roses and those who poured were the Misses Dorothy, Katherine and Verna McCutcheon, Misses Katherine Colton, Anna Lawrence, Margaret Pearmain, Katherine Brooks, Sallie Gilman, Hilda Haynie, Charlotte

Bowker, Winifred Rogers, Nancy Whitney and Anna Parke.

When the Hen Crows.
Willford in his "Nature Secrets" (1908) writes:

"Beasts eating greedily and more than they used to do prenotes foul weather, and all small cattle that seem to rejoice with playing and sporting themselves foreshew rain. Oxen and all kinds of neat, if you do at any time observe them to hold up their heads and snuffle in the air or lick their hooves or their bodies against the hair, expect then rainy weather. Asses or mules rubbing often their ears or braying much more than usually they are accustomed presages rain. Hogs crying and running up and down with hay or litter in their mouths foreshew a storm to be near at hand. The little snail beast (called a flea) if much thirsting after blood it argues rain. The cock if he crows in the daytime very much or at sunset or when he is at roost at unusual hours, as at 9 or 10, expect some change of weather and that suddenly, but from fair to foul or the contrary. But when the hen crows good men expect a storm within doors and without."

Lured Into Bathing.

In a railway carriage that the other day a London medical man told a good story which had come within his own experience. A mother was frequently bringing her child to him for treatment, but the doctor could discover nothing amiss except its need of a good wash. She was certain the infant was suffering from some terrible complaint and begged the doctor to do his best. He prescribed a daily wash with the water in which potatoes had been peeled. Never suspecting that this was merely a ruse to get the child washed, the mother followed the instructions to the letter. Rosy cheeks appeared, and a clean, healthy looking child gladdened the mother's heart. She sounded the doctor's praises everywhere and advised other mothers to test the efficacy of potato water. It never occurred to her that precisely the same result would have followed the daily application of soap and water.

A Spanish Ship Treasure.

In 1702 the largest bulk of treasure ever taken from a ship at sea was brought into London. It was the whole of the cargo of the Spanish ship Hermione, captured on May 21 by H. M. S. Active. The Hermione surrendered to the Active without an action, and the treasure was landed at Portsmouth and conveyed to London in twenty decorated wagons, with British colors over Spanish and an escort party of sailors. The strange procession reached London on Aug. 12, the day on which George IV. was born. On being sold the treasure realized £519,705 1s. 6d., and the share of the officers and men of the Active was as follows: The captain, £65,073 13s. 9d.; three commissioned officers, each £13,004 14s. 1d.; eight warrant officers, each £4,336 3s. 2d.; twenty petty officers, each £1,806 1s. 8d.; 158 seamen, each £485 5s. 4d.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Jury Penalties.

Nowadays no penalty is enforced when the twelve men chosen to form the jury are unable to agree upon a verdict. Formerly, however, a refractory jurymen was committed to prison and the verdict of the eleven was taken. In the reign of King Edward III. the judges decided that a verdict given by a majority was a nullity and recommended that the judges should carry the jury about with them in a cart till they should agree. The old custom that jurors should fast until they had agreed in their verdict prevailed long, but was mercifully relaxed somewhat in Tudor times, and during Queen Elizabeth's reign a banquet was usually given to the jury by the successful party to a suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Science and Cheese.

A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference unless he waits for results?

There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer.

For instance, there is the brand known as Linburger.

But why pursue the subject?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Circumventing Papa.

"Reginald, I'm awfully sorry, but papa says he doesn't want to see you coming here any more."

"Boo-hoo, your father's wish is law. He shall not see me again if I can help it. What evenings in the week does he spend downtown?"—Chicago Tribune.

Force of Habit.

"A thousand stars are looking down on you this night," said the poetical young man to the girl.

And she unconsciously put her hands up to arrange the position of her hat.

Official.

"We have had an official warning not to burn much gas this month."

"I never heard of such a thing."

"Oh, yes; it was last month's bill."—Buffalo Express.

Made It Clear.

Now, Charlie, says the Boston Globe, don't get these things twisted: You eat bivalves, see through binoculars, ride bicycles, wish you had bipsaws and marry bipses.

CLAPLIN GUILD NOTES.

At presumably the last drill in the old armory the company turned out as strong as ever. The work taken up consisted in the duties of a sentinel and knowledge of general and special orders. The men were found to be especially well informed on this important branch, due to the instructive method employed by Captain Guilford.

Major Jones, surgeon of the regiment, was at the armory Monday evening for the purpose of examining men for enlistment and also recruits. Four of the regularly elected men passed the close scrutiny of this painstaking surgeon with high credit, as they were found to be in perfect physical condition. One recruit also passed.

The committee on dedication is working hard to make the affair a complete success and everything seems to be pointing favorably to that end.

On Wednesday evening, the 28th of this month, the company will officially desert the old building and take possession of the new building, unless something unforeseen happens. It is Captain Guilford's intention to march the company up over the road, weather permitting, and after reaching the new armory to have an informal opening.

Quartermaster-Sergeant Wenmouth is rapidly recovering from his painful accident of last week. During his absence Corporal Cook Franklin Randall is ably filling the position.

The winners of last season's average score medal contest are announced as follows: Corporal J. E. McCabe, first prize, gold medal; Lieutenant Cook, silver medal; and Captain Guilford third with a bronze medal. To compete for these medals the contestants must fire 100 shots in competition, so it is easily seen that the winners had to work for their prizes.

MR. J. H. GELDART,
Newton Y. M. C. A. representative in China.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Next Sunday being Christmas day no meeting will be held in the afternoon. Monday being a Christmas holiday the rooms will be closed all day.

Mr. A. H. Waitt has offered three beautiful cups for a model aeroplane contest. Any boy who is building a model aeroplane and would like to enter into such a contest will please communicate with the officers of the Association. This contest is open to any boy in Newton who would like to compete regardless of membership in the association.

The banquet given by the Foreign Extension Committee of the Newton Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening brought together nearly one hundred business men of the city. Mr. C. T. Wang, a Chinese student at Yale University, made a stirring address showing the need of extending association work just at this time into the large Chinese cities. Mr. J. H. Geldart, who is going out as private secretary to Fletcher S. Brockman, general secretary for all China, next spoke. To illustrate his reason for giving his life to this work he told the story of 15 men who were killed in a huge log. There were 11 men on the log and only four men on the heavy end. Now, which end would you help on? He proposed to tackle the hard task by giving his life to work in the foreign field. After Mr. E. T. Colton, who is a representative of the International Committee, had made an interesting and instructive address the men present voted to have as the representative of the Newton Y. M. C. A. in China, Mr. J. H. Geldart, and several hundred dollars was raised on the spot for his support. If this project goes through, as it undoubtedly will, the sun will never set upon the work of the Newton Y. M. C. A. for it will be extended around the world.

A fund is being collected among members of the Y. M. C. A. to provide a memorial to the late John J. Cody, the amateur athlete who was one of the strongest men on the track team and the holder of many records.

CITY HALL.

After an investigation, Mayor Hatfield has granted a license for a moving picture and vaudeville show in Lafayette Hall, Nonantum. One of the stipulations is that no child under 18 will be admitted, unless accompanied by an older person.

A recount was held Friday night of the votes in Ward 2, polled at the recent city election in which Alderman Charles F. Avery was re-elected over Howard O'Grady, democrat, by 372 to 345. The recount gave a gain of three votes to Alderman Avery and a loss of three to Mr. O'Grady, the figures being 375 to 342.

Mr. Howard B. Coffin was re-elected (for the 20th time) treasurer of the Association of Massachusetts Assessors at their annual meeting held in the Revere House, Boston, Wednesday. In 1874 when Newton first became a city, Mr. Coffin was elected principal assessor and served the city in that capacity together with his two associates, Isaac Hagar and Samuel M. Jackson, for nearly 20 years. Mr. Coffin is one of the best real estate experts in the city.

REAL ESTATE.

Ajvord Bros. have sold for Gordon Dexter to a purchaser whose name is withheld for the present a tract of land containing nearly 22 acres on the western side of Needham street, Newton Upper Falls, between Needham street and the track of the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad, lying a frontage of about 1250 feet on Needham street. The price was considerably in excess of the assessment, which was $7700.

BROWN'S RISE IN MACHINERY WORLD.

George W. Brown is a master of machinery. He has now been more than 60 years in business, and he has climbed from the position of clerk in a general store in Vermont to his present position as general manager of the U. S. M. Co. He was born and brought up on a Vermont farm, started work as an 18-year-old boy in a Vermont store, and, after establishing a store of his own in Vermont, he went West, and was in the service of the trans-continental railroads. He was at one time auditor in the motive department of the Central Pacific road, with headquarters in Sacramento. About 40 years ago he returned to Boston and there he found his opportunity, and followed it, until it led him to fame and fortune even greater than he dreamed of in the visions of his boyhood. He became associated with the Wheeler & Wilson Co., manufacturers of sewing machines. In 1876 he became manager of the Lynn office of the Wheeler & Wilson Co. In Lynn he became interested in the lasting machine which J. W. Matzinger, a Lynn shoe worker, invented. He put money into a company formed to develop the machine and he became general manager and treasurer of the company.

In about 1893 Mr. Brown and an associate went about New England seeking a location for the Consolidated Method Lasting Machine Co. They finally decided to lease two floors in the then new Association factory on Rantoul street. They filled up one floor with machinery from the Boston factory and employed 20 men. Mr. Brown wondered what the company would do with the second floor. But the business increased so much in a few years that the Beverly Building Association had to build an addition to accommodate it. The Consolidated Hand Method Co. was chief among the companies that were merged into the U. S. M. Co. Mr. Brown was chief among the promoters of the merger. He became general manager and treasurer of the U. S. M. Co. He continued as treasurer until last year, when L. A. Coolidge was chosen to the position, and Mr. Brown became chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. Brown, who was troubled about the vacant second floor in the small Association factory, is now troubled to find room in the big plant of the U. S. M. Co. for its growing business. Mr. Brown is very much interested in welfare work. He is a member of the welfare committee of the National Civic Federation. His interest is more than theoretical, for he is very largely responsible for some of the advanced ideas that are enjoyed by employees of the U. S. M. Co. at Beverly.

Mr. Brown is now 69 years old, but he is as active as a young man. Besides his most responsible position as general manager of the U. S. M. Co., he is a director in the First National Bank of Boston, and other corporations, and he is a member of the important trade organizations, and also of the Algonquin Club, the Tedesco Country Club, the Episcopal Club of Massachusetts, and other organizations. He likes to mix with men, and he is a frequent attendant at the gatherings of the organizations in which he holds membership—Salem News.

Mr. Brown is a resident of Newton, making his home on Washington street, Hunnewell Hill.

In the homes which are the most cheerful, you will find a "WINCHESTER" Steam or Hot Water Heater in the cellar. The atmosphere is balmy and congenial, not cold nor forbidding. Is the "WINCHESTER" in yours? Manufactured by Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

The long anticipated evacuation of the old armory did not take place this week as scheduled on account of the failure of the contractors to finish up their work. It was the intention of Captain Guilford to march his company up over the road, but that will have to be dispensed with now on account of the uncertainty of the date. Drill this week took the form of a school under the instruction of Lieutenant Coulter. Guard duty, school of the rifle, and school of the squad was handled very ably and intelligently by the men, showing an intense interest in their work.

Quartermaster Sergeant Wenmouth has reported for duty after his recent accident.

The inspection of this company by the representative of the War Department has been ordered for Tuesday evening, Jan. 10, 1911, at 8 o'clock. This will take place in the new armory.

The Newton armory will be the first one to be dedicated by Governor Eugene N. Foss.

HORSE HIT BY AUTO.

In an accident which occurred at the corner of Lexington and Main streets, Waltham, Monday evening, a horse owned by Thomas F. Melody of Auburndale broke its leg and it was necessary to shoot the animal later.

The horse was in charge of J. F. Kiley of Auburndale, who was riding with a friend. At the corner the horse and an auto owned by the Gately Publishing Co. of Boston came into collision. Both drivers endeavored to avoid an accident, but they did not have opportunity and when the crash came the horse was thrown, the carriage damaged and the occupants narrowly escaped serious injury. The forward part of the auto was somewhat damaged.

YOUNG—MOORE.

The wedding of Mr. Harold Frederick Young, the private secretary to Mayor Hatfield, and Miss Florence Clara Moore, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Moore of Dorchester, took place Monday evening at the home of the bride, 21 Windemere road, Dorchester. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Howard C. Gale, pastor of St. John's Universalist Church, the house being attractively decorated in Christmas fashion. Miss Helen E. Farwell of Dorchester was the maid of honor and Mr. Sherburn Marshall of Waltham was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Herbert L. Moore of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Louis H. Young and K. Edwin Peterson of Auburndale. A reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Young being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Young of Auburndale. Mr. and Mrs. Young will spend their honeymoon in snowshoeing in the White Mountains. They will reside at 2077 Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, on their return and will be at home after Feb. 1.

HOCKEY.

The Dartmouth hockey team defeated a patched up Brae Burn seven at the Brae Burn Country Club Tuesday night 4 to 0. The game was a hard played one throughout and in flashes was more or less rough. Norris and Stucklen of the Dartmouth team both had to retire on account of broken skates, and Wells and Martin were the victims of nasty tumbles.

Dartmouth's team work and the playing of Wells practically won the game. Brae Burn played with but three regulars. Captain Mackay is ill and was out of the game. G. Bray acting as captain in his absence. It was agreed to play two 15-minute periods, but as the timekeeper made his escape during the latter half, the second interval was nearer half an hour long.

S. S. ATHLETES

The first in a series of athletic meets in the recently organized Sunday School League was held Wednesday evening in the Newton Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and was a complete success.

There were entries from the Newton Baptist, Newton Methodist, Watertown Baptist, Eliot, Auburndale Congregational and Allston Congregational churches. The Newton Baptist with 22 points won the meet. There were four events for seniors and two for juniors. Theodore Morton was the star performer and with three firsts and one second helped the Newton Baptist to win first place.

The final standing was as follows:
Newton Baptist 22
Newton Methodist 12
Watertown Baptist 8-12
Eliot 6-12
Auburndale Congregational 3
Allston Congregational 2

The summary was as follows:

SENIOR EVENTS.
120-yard dash, won by T. Morton (Newton Baptist), H. Decker (Newton Congregational) second, R. Barber (Newton Methodist) third. Time 12.4-5s.

225-yard run—Won by T. Morton (Newton Baptist), L. Lane (Watertown Baptist) second, E. Cook (Watertown Baptist) third. Time 28.3-5s.

Running high jump—Won by T. Morton (Newton Baptist), J. S. Irving (Newton Congregational) second, E. Hoyt (Allston Congregational) third. Height 5 ft. 3 in.

Standing broad jump—Won by P. Morton (Watertown Baptist), T. Morton (Newton Baptist) second, L. Lane (Watertown Baptist) third. Distance 9 ft. 3-4 in.

JUNIOR EVENTS.

Potato race—Won by R. Viles (Newton Methodist), D. Reid (Newton Baptist) second, F. Hawkins (Newton Methodist) third. Time 34.1-5s.

Three standing jumps—Won by R. Viles (Newton Methodist), E. Knapp (Auburndale Congregational) second, D. Reid (Newton Baptist) third. Distance 22 ft. 5-12 in.

Mr. F. D. Eichbauer of Newton Centre was the referee. C. V. Moore, Jack Fines and D. Webster were timers. Fred Maguire and John Gaw were judges at finish. M. Livermore and F. D. Fuller were field judges. H. Morgan was scorer and William MacPherson was starter.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS IN BURLINGTON.

Voted to Have Edison Service at Special Meeting.

At a special town meeting held Monday evening, the 19th, in Burlington, it was voted to make a ten year contract with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company for lighting streets and town offices.

The Edison Company will extend their lines for commercial and power business so that Burlington people can now have modern illuminating. They have never had anything but old fashioned lights.

This makes 35 cities and towns now using Edison service.

ANDERSON—MANN.

Mr. John G. Anderson, an instructor at the Fessenden School at Newtonville, and one of the most prominent golfers in the state, was married Wednesday morning at Linden Heights, O., to Miss Irene Mann, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lee H. Mann. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home at the Fessenden School.

SLIGHT BENEFIT

The commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court to make an apportionment of the expense of sinking funds, interest and maintenance of the Metropolitan park district have filed their report. The commissioners believe that 60 per cent of the expense should be borne on valuation, 25 per cent on valuation with certain deductions for towns on the outside border of the district, which are supposed to derive less benefit from the parks, and 15 per cent for various considerations such as population, accessibility, etc. Under the return made by the commission Newton has a slightly less percentage than during the past five years, but it is so small as to amount to nothing. The decisions are made in the apportionment, one for parks, in which Newton's share is reduced from .03479 to .03400, on Boulevards, where the reduction is from .02610 to .02602 and for Nantasket a reduction from .03467 to .03457. Newton's share of the expense of the Charles River dam is fixed at .03469 for maintenance and .03099 for sinking funds and interest. This is a new item and will probably amount to considerable as the total expense to July 6 last is $3,877,817.89.

RUNAWAY BOY.

A ten-year-old boy named John Alexander, who was found by Officer A. M. Fuller last Friday morning at Newton Upper Falls in a half-dozen condition, was taken to the police headquarters, where he told various conflicting stories. He was finally found to be an inmate of the Working Boys' Home at Newton Highlands, who had been at the railroad station to meet his mother, who was to take him home for a Christmas vacation. Instead of going to the station he ran away.

CITY HALL.

The assessors have made supplementary assessments amounting to $920,000, a most substantial addition to our valuation.

City Hall officials and clerks made ready to receive the private secretary to Mayor Hatfield, a wedding gift of silver knives, forks and spoons. At a special meeting of the Aldermen held Tuesday night these jurors were drawn for the January term of Middlesex Superior Court: Joseph C. Hagar, Charles Roy, Ellery Peabody, Don M. Leonard, Rev. James L. Barton and Francis J. Burrage.

BECK—SQUIRE.

Mr. Ronald M. Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Eugene M. Beck of Cornell street, Newton Lower Falls, was married Monday noon to Miss Louise A. Squire of New York. The ceremony was performed in St. Paul's Church, Brookline, by the Rev. David B. Matthews. The bride was attended by Miss Emily Warneck of Brookline as maid of honor and the best man was Mr. Ralph Beck, a civil engineer and is connected with the Erie railroad.

RECEPTION TO MAYOR

The Newton Club will give a public reception tomorrow evening in honor of Mayor Charles E. Hatfield. The occasion will be notable from the fact that Governor and Mrs. Eben S. Draper will be present and will receive with Mayor Hatfield and President and Mrs. James L. Richards, and Lieutenant-Governor Louis Frothingham.

The Governor's party will be attended by the military staff. The whole house will be thrown open for the guests of the club on that evening. There will be two orchestras and immediately following the supper there will be dancing until 12 o'clock. On account of the presence of the military staff all military gentlemen are expected to appear in full dress uniform or evening dress. The club desires that the public announcement of this reception shall be considered as an invitation to all the citizens of Newton to attend with their families as it is impossible to send personal invitations to all.

HOWARD—HOSMER.

One of the notable society events of the winter was the wedding Wednesday evening, at the West Newton Unitarian Church of Miss Alice Frances Hosmer, the daughter of Mrs. Charles L. Hosmer of West Newton, and Mr. George Thomas Howard of Somerville. The church was most attractive in laurel, palms and Easter lilies and a splendid musical program was rendered by Mr. Henry T. Wade, organist. Herr Ferdinand Kauffmann, a distinguished violinist from Berlin, a friend of the groom, and who played as a compliment to Mr. Howard. Herr Kauffmann was accompanied on the organ for his number, the second movement of the Concerto, by Mr. Arthur Kautzenbach of New York, who also complimented the bride and groom in this manner.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Julian C. Faynes, pastor of the church. The bride, who wore white meteor satin with Princess lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Arthur G. Hosmer of West Newton. Miss Marion Hallett of Somerville and Miss Evelyn Crandon of Cambridge were the bridesmaids and wore green satin with gold and white lace and carried American Beauty roses.

Mr. Edwin Crandon of Cambridge was the best man and the guests were seated by these ushers, Messrs. Arthur T. Lovett and A. Stuart Pratt of West Newton, Frank Brigham of Waltham, Charles Hough of Belmont, Frederick Plummer of Auburndale, William T. May of Newton Centre and Arthur Hatch and Charles Fitz of Somerville. A largely attended reception followed at the Hosmer residence, 284 Mt. Vernon street, West Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Howard being assisted in receiving by Mrs. Charles L. Hosmer and Mrs. Charles Howard and Mrs. Agnes Hallett, sisters of the groom. The house decorations were suggestive of the holiday season, with masses of poinsettia, red carnations and Christmas greenery.

MRS. BIXBY DEAD.

Mr. Abbie E. Bixby, widow of the late Henry L. Bixby, for many years chief of the Newton fire department, died suddenly Tuesday evening of heart disease while visiting her daughter in Boston. Mrs. Bixby was 61 years of age. She is survived by two daughters, Miss Mabel Bixby of Boston, Miss Maude Bixby of West Newton and one son, Mr. Harry Bixby of Boston. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the chapel of the Newton Cemetery.

MRS. GOODBAR IN RECITAL.

Mrs. Lafayette Goodbar, Boston soprano, announces her second Boston recital for Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, at Jordan Hall.

Mrs. Goodbar appeared in recital first in Boston last season at Steinert Hall with a program made up largely of the works of Boston's distinguished composer, Mrs. H. H. Beach, winning unstinted praise both from her large audience and the press.

For her coming appearance Mrs. Goodbar has again favored Boston composers in making up her program, using a number of Mrs. Beach's songs—three of which have been published within the past few months—also several by Benjamin L. Whelpley—and will use for a closing number Haydn's aria from the "Creation." With verdure and "Clad," with organ accompaniment, and it is said that her work in music of devotional character is rarely equalled.

Don't call on your neighbor just to borrow something.

BURR MEMORIAL

Prof. Ira N. Hollis announced this week that the executive committee of the Harvard Varsity Club had decided that the building which is to be erected next spring, adjoining the Harvard Union, is to be a memorial to Francis H. Burr, '02. A graduate offered $25,000 towards the cost of this new clubhouse on condition that the building should be such a memorial. Following the acceptance of this condition by the executive committee the donor immediately paid over that sum to the treasurer of the Harvard corporation, stipulating that his name should not be made public.

Francis Burr was the first president of the Harvard Varsity Club and took a very active interest in its welfare. It has not been decided what form the memorial will take, but a hall with a tablet in memory of Burr has been considered.

Under the direction of the executive committee the plans for the new clubhouse are being prepared, and it is expected that they will be in condition for submission to the members early in the new year. By an arrangement with the trustees of the Harvard Union the clubhouse of the Varsity Club is to be erected as an addition to the union on the Prescott street side. It will include training table rooms for the varsity squads, living rooms, bedrooms for the coaches and there will be a large piazza facing the grounds in front of the union.

It is expected that ground will be broken about the first of March and that the building will be ready for use by the football training tables next fall.

N. H. S.

At the Brae Burn Country Club Friday afternoon the hockey team defeated Wellesley High 8 to 0. Wellesley showed lack of team work and speed. The Newton boys had things their own way all the time and scored goals with the greatest of ease. Captain Foote and Spaulding were the stars for Newton, while Captain Winton of Wellesley played a superb game, but was not well supported.

Spaulding proved himself one of the best goal shooters that Newton has developed in a number of years. He succeeded in caging the puck five times. Several of the shots were from difficult angles. The positions on the team are not fully settled as yet and it is doubtful if the regular team will be made up before the opening league game.

Spencer, Forte, Baldwin, Thompson and Captain Foote are the leading candidates for forward positions. Rice and Walker are having an interesting battle for coverpoint. Burns of last year's team is again playing point and he is developing into a brilliant performer. Peckham is the leading candidate for the goal berth.

The hockey team was somewhat surprised Wednesday afternoon with the great game put up by Milton High at the Brae Burn Club rink. Neither side scored in the three periods of play. The defence work of both teams was perfect, although the condition of the ice slowed the play to a large extent.

The work of Baldwin, Foote and Rice was exceptional for Newton, while O'Heron, Walsh and Sears excelled for Milton.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by George Pray Smith and Annie S. Smith, wife of said George Pray Smith, in her own right, to Caleb S. Spencer dated July 23, 1908, and recorded with Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, in book 3455, page 581, for breach of the conditions therein contained, and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the premises on Tuesday, the twenty-fourth day of January, A. D. 1911, at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Newton in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and bounded as follows, to wit: beginning at the corner of Watertown Street and Walnut Street, as it was prior to the release to the city of Newton hereinafter mentioned, and thence running northerly on said Walnut Street two hundred and fifty (250) feet to land formerly of Kate Page; thence running westerly by said land formerly of Kate Page two hundred and forty (240) feet to land now or formerly of Baker; thence running southerly on said land now or formerly of Baker two hundred and fifty (250) feet to said Watertown Street; and thence running easterly on said Watertown Street about two hundred and forty-one (241) feet to the point of beginning; being the same premises conveyed to me by Oliver H. Burrows and John H. Wilson of Boston, in the County of Suffolk of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, by deed dated June 9, 1909 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, book 3448, page 240.

The above-described premises are hereby conveyed subject to a prior mortgage of seven thousand ($7000) dollars and any interest and taxes that may be due.

Terms—$300.00 at time and place of sale.

A Persistent Yankee.

To illustrate Yankee persistency a Wall Street magnate told the following story the other day:

"A new England Yankee who was a prisoner on a pirate ship in the good old days when pirates roamed the seas became, because of his Yankee attributes, objectionable to his captors. It was finally decided to maroon him on a desert island with but little food and a coffin to remind him of his inevitable fate. The island was found, and the New Englander and the coffin were left alone on the beach, while the pirate ship sailed away. For several days she sailed and then became becalmed. For three days she lay there with not a breath of air. On the evening of the third day a black speck was noticed on the horizon. It steadily grew larger and soon was close enough for the men on the ship to make out what it was."

The man of millions paused for an instant and then said, smiling, "It was the Yankee in his coffin, with half of the lid in either hand rowing for home."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

How to Quit Smoking.

Do not light the first cigar less than half an hour after breakfast. The more difficult this delay may be, the more need there is for a cure. The remainder of the day smoke the same as usual. It is only the first cigar with which we are dealing. Keep this up for a week, then lengthen the interval to an hour for another week, then make it one and a half hours, two, two and a half, and so on. If you have an "all gone" sensation, a longing for something and don't know what sort of feeling, eat an orange or apple or almost any kind of fruit, but don't smoke until the time is up. The nerves being deprived of their morning stimulant are crying for nourishment, which nature is hastening to supply through increased appetite to supply digestion. By the time the first cigar is entirely eliminated the cure is effected with no serious derangement of the heart or digestive apparatus. It now requires only a moderate will power to make the cure permanent.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Crow's Stratagem.

A crow had been captured by the children in a southern family and brought home and tamed. They were very fond of the crow and treated it with kindness. As in most houses where there are children, there was also a pet cat. The cat and crow were not friendly. One day an unusually nice morsel was given to the cat. This the crow not only looked at with envious eyes, but made several attempts to secure. The cat bent off each attempt, however, and the crow had to resort to stratagem. Disappearing through the open door, he returned in a few moments with a long string that had been reeled from a rag carpet. Placing this on the floor some little distance in front of the cat, he proceeded to wriggle it as he had seen the children do when playing with the cat. The cat instantly jumped to catch the string. This was, of course, exactly what the crow wanted, and he pounced upon the coveted morsel and flew away with it.—Harper's Weekly.

A Strict Dramatic Censor.

Vienna once possessed the strictest dramatic censor ever known in the person of Franz Hoegelin, who held that post in the Austrian capital at the beginning of the last century. Hoegelin published a manual for the guidance of censors. "A pair of lovers should never be allowed to appear on the stage alone. They must always be accompanied by a third person of mature years." Marriages out of one's class were also strictly forbidden by Hoegelin on the stage, and he quotes an instance of a play which he refused to pass because the author made the hero, Count Valdemar, marry a gardener's daughter. "Such misalliances have unfortunately been known to occur in real life, but that is no reason why they should be allowed on the stage," he said.

Not the Same.

On one occasion when "The Mikado" was being rehearsed Gilbert called out from the middle of the stalls, "There is a gentleman in the left group not holding his fan correctly." The stage manager appeared and explained, "There is one gentleman," he said, "who is absent from his seat." "Ah," came the reply from the author in grave, matter of fact tones, "that is not the gentleman I am referring to."—Dundee Advertiser.

A Silent Partner.

Niblett—That woman who just went out is the partner of your joys and sorrows, I suppose? Rufon—She's partner to my joys all right, but when it comes to my sorrows she slips over to see her mother.

Very Devoted.

"What have you tied that string around your finger for?" "My wife's away, and this is to remind me that I promised to think of her every day."—Toledo Blade.

Chip of the Old Block.

Caller (viewing the baby)—Do you think he is going to resemble father? Mother—I shouldn't be surprised. He keeps me up nights even now.—Boston Transcript.

Can You Blame Him?

"Pa, what does 'skeptical' mean?" "That describes a man's feelings when a woman tells her age."—New York Press.

The long look within ourselves will cure us of a lot of impatience with other folks.—Henry F. Cope.

Courtaut the Wolf.

Paris has forgotten the time when it used to go in terror of the wolves which carried off women and children from the streets and even raided the graveyards. At one time they became so mad with desire for human flesh that in a single week they devoured fourteen persons, all between Montmartre and the gate of St. Antoine. On the vigil of St. Martin (says Grace James in "Joan of Arc") there was hunted and taken a horrible wolf, "which it was said had done more, and more cruelly, than many others put together. That day he was killed. He had no tail, and from that he was called Courtaut. There was as much talk about him as if he had been an outlaw of the woods or a cruel captain, and when he lived folk said to one another as they went forth to labor in the fields, 'Look out for Courtaut.' And on this day he was taken through Paris in a cart, dead, with his great jaws open, and all the people went to see, and they made holiday and rejoiced, because Courtaut could trouble them no more."

Rented Wedding Cakes.

There was something wrong with the cake, the baker said. It looked all right, and it smelled all right, but his artistic sense told him it would not taste all right.

"Then fix it up with an extra coat of icing and we will keep it for a renter," said the proprietor.

"Who in the world would rent a cake?" some one asked.

"Wedding parties," said he. "They want a big cake in the center of the table for show, but a cake of that size good enough for a wedding would cost more than they can afford to pay, so they order fine cake put up in individual boxes for the guests and use the bride's cake just as an ornament. They don't buy it; they rent it. Sometimes a cake is rented a dozen different times. After each wedding it is freshened up with a new coat of icing and looks as good as new for the next occasion. A good renter fetches about $3 a wedding."—New York Press.

Sarcastic Caddy.

A certain nobleman, who may be called Lord X., bears the reputation of being somewhat stung in money matters. On a wet afternoon he hired a cab to take him to Victoria station. Arrived at the station, he handed the cabman a shilling and of course was met by the inevitable demand for an extra sixpence.

"Certainly not," said the other promptly. "You came the longest way as an excuse to extort money. Why didn't you go through St. James' park?"

The cabman saw he had no chance and said sullenly:

"Cos St. James' park is closed. That's why."

"Nonsense," said the other sternly. "It's right, though," was the grave reply. "They say that Lord X. dropped a shilling coming across the park last evening, and the gates are closed until they find it."—London Tit-Bits.

Shut Her Up.

A young wife was continuously pestered by her mother-in-law about the way she was bringing up her firstborn babe. The young wife was intelligent and capable, and she was really doing very well with the baby. From her mother-in-law, however, she got nothing but sour advice, warnings and veiled abuse. One day the mother-in-law, looking fixedly at the mother with her baby on her lap, said angrily:

"A woman has no right to have a child if she doesn't know how to hold it."

"No, nor a tongue either," was the quiet reply.—Detroit Free Press.

Berlin.

"Berle," from which Berlin has caught her name, means uncultivated land. Slavonian Wends, the earliest settlers on the sandy plain, could make but little out of the soil. The population in 1832 was only 250,000. Less than forty years later it was 800,000, and now it runs into 2,000,000. The man who gave to Berlin its present form was Frederick II., but Frederick the Great and the Great Elector started the noble hobby of beautifying the wonderful city.

The Mantle of Charity.

The lady was making some remarks about the kind of clothing some other ladies at church had on.

"The finest garment a woman can wear," said her husband, "is the mantle of charity."

"Yes," she snapped, "and it is about the only dress, judging by the fuss they make over the bills, that some husbands want their wives to wear."

Sweden's "Church Boat."

The "church boat" is a popular institution in Sweden. It brings families to service from the farms around Lake Siljan to Leksand. The water route is the nearest and most convenient, and so the big boat goes from farm to farm along the shore picking up the churchgoers, who later return by the same route.—Wide World Magazine.

Counting the Cost.

"What's the cost of a marriage license?" asked a youth whose fancy had lightly turned to thoughts of conjugal felicity.

"Well," answered his friend, "30 shillings down and your entire salary each week for the rest of your life!"—London Telegraph.

Where Time Doesn't Count.

A party of East Indian natives were found sitting in a row on the platform of a station after the train had left, and, being asked the reason, one of the men replied, "Oh, sahbi, we are waiting till the tickets are cheaper."

The Tombigbee.

"Do you know the origin of the name of the Tombigbee river?" asked the well informed man. "Well," he went on, "it is Choctaw, every syllable, only the word is not 'Tombigbee.' It is 'Tom-bi Ik-bi,' two words, the 'I' being short in each instance. Long ago Choctaws inhabited the section now embraced within the states of Mississippi and Alabama and traversed by the stream that song was about. Nearly a century ago a white man—a carpenter—came among the Indians. He lived on the banks of the stream and among other things made rude coffins for burials. Indians at that time 'buried' their dead upon an arbor supported by poles, but they gradually came to the white man's custom of burying in earth and went to the white man carpenter to get their boxes. From this incident, I am told, the stream received its name, 'Tom-bi' meaning box and 'Ik-bi' meaning wake or maker, only they added the word 'bok,' which signifies river or creek, so, literally translated, the combination means 'the river where lies the man that makes boxes.' Time as well as the Anglo-Saxon disposition to round corners in pronunciation Anglicized 'Tom-bi Ik-bi' into 'Tombigbee.'—Wichita Eagle.

The Uplift Movement.

When he left the house Saturday morning Burton yanked at the door as if he would pull it off its hinges. When he couldn't open it he started to grumble until his wife came to his assistance.

"What'n blue blazes is the matter with this door?" he grumbled, giving it another powerful yank without being able to open it.

"The trouble with you, John, dear," the wife ventured, "is that you are always down on everything—down in the mouth, down on the world. Let me try it."

With a gentle tug upward on the knob she easily opened the door.

John was about to sputter out a sarcastic remark when the force of his wife's logic sank in his thick skull.

"I get it!" he exclaimed. "I get the lesson."

That afternoon when his wife visited his office she saw over his desk a little motto with the words, "Me For the Uplift."—Youngstown Telegram.

A Sign of a Crowd.

A very fat, puffing, elderly woman stepped up to the box office of the Chestnut Street theater and, placing a coin on the ticket window, said:

"Give me a ticket to the gallery."

"You are at the wrong window, madam," said the ticket seller. "The gallery ticket office is to your left as you go out of the door."

The old woman walked down the steps and, advancing a few feet, glanced around inquiringly and then let her gaze wander to the iron fire escape which was suspended above the sidewalk.

Going back to the main box office, she said:

"Say, me boy, Ol can't get in there; it's crowded."

"Crowded?"

"Sure, it must be," she said. "They have the steps pulled up."—Philadelphia Times.

With an Eye to the Future.

It would probably take many generations of adversity to train Americans into the farseeing thriftiness of my people," once observed an American of Scotch birth. "I remember a case of a Scotchwoman who had been promised a new bonnet by a lady. Before she undertook the purchase the lady called and asked the good woman:

"Would you rather have a felt or a straw bonnet, Mrs. Carmichael?"

"Weel," responded Mrs. Carmichael thoughtfully, "I think I'll tak' a strae ane. It'll maybe be a monthfu' to the coo when I'm done wi' it."—Lippincott's.

Crockett's Revenge.

There is a story of Crockett of "Stekit Minister" fame to the effect that when he offered his first volume to a Scotch firm it was returned with a polite note assuring him that there was no market for that sort of thing. The letter was marked "No. 390b." In later years when the same publishers asked him for one of his manuscripts he politely requested them to refer to their previous correspondence with him marked "390b."

One of Tom Hood's Last Jokes.

Shortly before his death, being visited by a clergyman whose features as well as language were more lugubrious than consoling, Hood looked up at him compassionately and said, "My dear sir, I am afraid your religion doesn't agree with you."—Punch's Reminiscences.

Force of Habit.

A street car conductor who recently embraced religion was called upon to take up the Sunday morning offering. He did very well until he came to a boy. "Young man," he said sternly, "you will have to pay half fare."

Lower Falls

—A Christmas dinner to members of the Sunday school and the church choir was given Wednesday night in the parish hall of St. Mary's Episcopal Church. A service was held first in the church under the direction of the rector, Rev. Francis B. White. The supper was in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. C. H. Spring is president, and members of the Girls' Friendly Society attended to the serving. A Christmas tree followed the supper.

A Good Bluff.

He was young and had just graduated from law school. His resources were exhausted, but he bravely swung forth his shingle and waited. But no clients stopped on that side of the street. His office rent was due, and his clothes were becoming shabby, but he went to his office with a regularity that would indicate a thriving practice. He was deep in an imaginary case, and when the authorities were all noted and arguments prepared he started forth downtown and thrashed the mayor's son, whom he met in the street. The act aroused the righteous indignation of the townsmen, and he faced an angry court. But in his testimony he was able to include a sharp attack on the mayor and his administration. He quoted law from Lycurgus and Solon and gave them the page, number and chapter every time. The case was continued and sent up to a higher court. At last it reached the supreme bench, and the young man made the most of his opportunity to show his ability as a lawyer. He lost the case and paid his fine cheerfully, for he had established for himself a practice which assured his future.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

President Johnson's Impeachment.

The house impeached President Johnson on Nov. 25, 1867, charging him with having removed Secretary of War Stanton in direct violation of the tenure of office act, with having appointed General Thomas contrary to the same act, with conspiracy with General Thomas and others for the intimidation of Secretary Stanton and the unlawful disbursement of the war department's money and with inducing General Emory, commanding the department of Washington, to disobey orders.

The house adopted the resolution of impeachment by a vote of 126 to 42. After the trial of the case before the senate the vote for impeachment there stood 35 to 19, thus being short of the necessary two-thirds. The senate adjourned sine die, however, without voting on some of the primary articles embraced in the charges against the president. Thereupon the chief justice of the United States court entered a verdict of acquittal on the record.—New York Times.

A Great Trade Secret.

As every one knows, the process of manufacturing the paper of which Bank of England notes are made is one of the greatest of all trade secrets. It is known only to the governor of the Bank of England and to three other persons intimately connected with the industry, which is carried on at Overton, a quiet little village in Hants. All that the outside world is allowed to know concerning this precious paper is that it is made, among other ingredients, out of charred husks and Rhenish vines.

Quite as profound a secret is the manufacture of both the paper and the ink used for American banknotes. The former has the double advantage of not being a secret preparation, but one that only "takes" one particular kind of ink, which is quite unique, the American government paying the manufacturer, who alone possesses the secret, the sum of $50,000 a year for making it.—Pearson's Weekly.

How Did He Know?

Joe, the fat boy in the "Pickwick Papers," spent most of his time in slumber. He was happier that way. Probably there are a good many other people in the world a good deal like Joe, but most of them do not get the chance for sleep that he had. This scrap of conversation, recently overheard, would seem to indicate that, although this is a nervous age, the desire for sleep is not wholly dead.

"I don't feel well," remarked Smith as he took off his coat in the office, preparatory to sitting down at his desk. "The trouble with me is that I haven't slept as I should. I don't feel well unless I've slept."

"That's the same way with me," remarked his partner. "In fact, I think I feel best of all when I'm sound asleep."—Youth's Companion.

The First Oyster Eater.

The gluttonous Vitellius is reported to have eaten 1,000 oysters at a sitting. "He was a very valiant man who first ventured on eating of oysters," King James was wont to declare, a sentiment echoed by the poet Gay:

The man had sure a palate covered o'er
With brass or steel that on the rocky shore
First brot the oozy oysters' pearly coat
And risked the living morsel down his throat.

Trying to Help.

Hotel Clerk (to rural guest closing front entrance)—Hey, there! What are you trying to do? Uncle Eben—Don't get excited, young fellow! I jest thought, seeing as how I was prob'ly the last one in tonight, I'd do the right thing and lock the doors 'fore going to bed!—Puck.

Matter of Intelligence.

Mrs. Suburbs—John, did you call at the intelligence office today to inquire about a mind of all work? Suburbs—Yes, my dear. Mrs. Suburbs—Couldn't you find one? Suburbs—Oh, yes; I found a dozen, but they were all too intelligent to come out to this place.—Chicago News.

No Necessity.

Perdida (at the candy pulling)—Where do we wash our hands? Myrtle—Oh, we don't have to do that. Pulling the candy makes them beautifully white and clean.—Chicago Tribune.

Make not thy friends too cheap to thee nor thyself to thy friends.—Folier.

Made Him Doubt His Own Name.

It was the quality of sympathy that made Mrs. Cleveland's life in the White House so rich a memory, writes Dr. W. H. Crook in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. I never knew her to make a mistake of a social nature but once, and then it was shared by so many others that I may be pardoned for repeating it in public print. I know the little story is true, for I was present at the time and heard it all. At one of the president's formal receptions a man named Decker appeared, and as he drew near the receiving line he told Colonel Wilson in confidence that his name was such an easy one it could not be mistaken or mispronounced, whereupon Colonel Wilson prevented him.

"Happy to meet you, Mr. Cracker," said the president.

"Happy to meet you, Mr. Baker," said Mrs. Cleveland.

"Mr. Sacker," murmured Miss Bayard doubtfully.

"Happy to meet you, Mr. Black," Mrs. Whitney remarked with confidence.

It is said that a few minutes later Mr. Decker was seen looking at one of his visiting cards to see what his name really was.

Friction Matches.

Friction matches are a comparatively modern invention. They were first made by John Walker in England in 1827, but were rather crude affairs. He improved them somewhat in 1833 by using phosphorus. The first really practical friction match was made in the United States in 1836 by L. C. Allen of Springfield, Mass. Before this time a clumsy form of match was imported from France, which had to be dipped into a bottle of sulphuric acid before it could be lighted. This took a great deal of time and trouble, and Allen, seeing the necessity for friction matches, set about to make them and succeeded. He neglected to patent them, however, and on Jan. 1 applying for letters patent found that a man named Alonzo Phillips, who was a peddler, had discovered through a third person the secret of making the matches and had already obtained a patent. Thus Allen, though the real inventor, was forced to become a mere manufacturer under another man's patent.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Kidnaped Brides.

In the year 902, according to old custom, all the brides for the year at Venice assembled on St. Mary's eve at the cathedral, taking with them their dowries in small chests. There they awaited their bridegrooms, who followed them, and after mass they were married and received the bishop's blessing. In this year the sea rovers of Trieste burst in upon the expectant maidens, who were all dressed in white, with hair loosely flowing and interwoven with threads of gold, carried them off to their barbs and hoisted sail. The dogs of Venice summoned his men to arms, pursued the rovers, overtook them in a creek still known as the Port of the Damsels and brought the brides back in triumph. In memory of this event a solemn procession of twelve young women took place yearly, and the Mariani games were observed with great splendor until the year 1370, when they were discontinued in a time of disastrous war.

How They Fight Fire in Turkey.

This is the method of fighting fire in Turkey. In the center of Constantinople a high watchtower has been erected. When the man in the tower sees a blaze the alarm is sounded and the firemen are called to their posts. If they have horses they proceed very leisurely to hitch them to the engines or carts and trot to the fire, but in most cases they have no horses, and the men drag the engines through the streets at a walk. They do not hurry to attach the hose to the hydrant. The captain first finds the owner of the building that is in danger of destruction and finds out how much he will pay to have the fire put out. If the blaze is beyond control the captain approaches the owners of surrounding property and bargains with them for their protection, and of course they pay him liberally.—New York Post.

Ouida Out of Sorts.

Ouida is a decidedly pessimistic mood appears in Lady Dorothy Nevill's reminiscences. In 1887 Ouida sent to Lady Dorothy a card bearing the following "Jubilee epitaph":
Full half a century of measures small,
Weak wits, weak words, weak wars, and that is all.
It is amazing that Ouida could even for a moment have lapsed into such dull snappishness. Lady Dorothy's ascription of the foolish couplet to "feelings of depression" is doubtless just.—New York Tribune.

Defining the Difference.

"Madam," said one French gentleman introducing another, "this is the Marquis de Blank, and I assure you he is not such a fool as he looks."

"Madam," quietly remarked the marquis, with a bow, "my friend has just stated the exact difference between himself and me."

Blighted Affections.

Now the ashes of my heart are entombed in my breast, as in a sepulcher of ice, yet once that heart was formed of fire and burned and raged until it perished, self consumed.—From "The Partridge."

Mean.

First Fair One—How dreadful it is to have a skeleton in the family! Second Fair One—I know, dear. Have you ever tried exercise?

Avoid popularity; it has many snares and no real benefit.—Penn.

POMROY HOME.

At the Pomroy Home for Orphan Girls there was no observance on Sunday, the children attending service at the Immanuel Baptist Church and enjoying a bountiful dinner there. Before breakfast on Monday the girls investigated the mysteries of the well-filled stockings and at noon a turkey dinner was served.

Afterward came the distribution of gifts, and for this the superintendent, Miss Clara M. Hayes, had arranged novel features. First a huge box was filled with gifts and the blindfolded girls were allowed to grope about for a present.

Then gifts marked with each girl's name were hidden in various places about the house and the girls were allowed to hunt for them. No one could take a gift marked for another, and before all were found more than an hour of fun had been enjoyed.

A number of the "old girls," many of whom are now married, returned for the dinner and to join in the fun attendant on the distribution of the gifts.

where it has been for the past five years, when ex-Mayor Weed's fine

we had been paying for this apparent luxury. The action in apportioning the expense for the Charles River improve-den to our taxpayers as the amount has been rapidly increasing during the past five years, and makes a large total.

This was occasioned by the action of the commission of five years ago in sidestepping its duty of determining the proportion at that time, as ordered by the Legislature. It will probably be necessary for the city to ask legislation to extend the first payment over a series of years, as the accumulation, if paid in one year, would seriously affect our tax rate.The situation in regard to rapid transit from Boston to Newton as involved in the present controversy between the Riverbank subway and the Boylston street route, resolves itself, so far as this city is concerned, into a question as to whether it is better to insist upon immediate construction of the Riverbank subway, or to wait several years for the larger and better subway thru Boylston street.

EXTRA CARS.

Special street car service will be given by the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company tomorrow evening to accommodate guests of the Newton Club, who will attend the reception to Mayor Hatfield. Besides the cars from different parts of the city to the club house, there will be additional cars running after midnight.

POLICE.

John A. Cunningham, a Waltham milk dealer, was in the Waltham court Thursday morning, charged with selling watered milk and with selling skim milk that was below the standard. He was found guilty on both charges, being fined $15 on the first, while the other case was continued until May 31. The complaints were made by Frederick L.
Marion, an inspector for the state Board of Health, who had secured samples of the product sold by Cunningham.
A chemist who made an analysis also testified. Some of the milk contained 15 per cent of water and even though the can was labelled skim milk
the contents were below the standard.
Cunningham declared that the skim milk
was sold only to a baker.

LODGES.

The whist party in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville, Tuesday night, under the joint auspices of the local organizations of Sons and Daughters of Veterans, was well attended, there being about 100
present. Mrs. Alice K. Burns and Lawrence Putnam constituted the committee in charge.The annual meeting of Garden City Lodge, N. E. O. P., was held Wednesday night and organization for the coming year was effected as follows:
Thomas F. Burke, W.; William H.
Meehan, V. W.; Miss Anne Kenna,
secretary; Miss Louise Hargendon, financial secretary; Michael J. O'Connell, treasurer; Miss Katharine Mac-

—At the Methodist Church last Sunday a Christmas service was held in the morning. The Sunday school concert took place in the evening and consisted of recitations, solo and chorus selections
by members of the school and remarks
by the pastor.—A number of young men members of the Eliot Co-operative Club, assisted by several young ladies, will present the college play, "The Sophomore," under the auspices of the club, at the Hum-well Club on Monday and Wednesday evenings, Jan. 9 and 11.—A wedding of interest to their many friends here was that of Miss Ida E.
Rivett of Faneuil to Mr. Theodore R.
Lockwood of Brighton. The ceremony took place Wednesday evening at the Eliot Church parsonage on Hyde avenue and Rev. H. Grant Person was the officiating clergyman.—Mrs. Margaret Barry, the widow of the late John Barry and for many years a resident of Watertown street, Nonantum, died on Monday in Boston. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning from the Church of Our Lady, where there was a requiem mass. The burial was at Calvary Cemetery.—Mr. Henry T. Wade gave the next of his organ recitals at Eliot Church Wednesday afternoon. The selections were taken from the compositions of Guilmant, Garret, Wangle, Galeotti, Thiele, Gray and Lemare. At the recital Jan. 4 Mr. Wade will include the overture to William Tell, by Rossini.—Col. Alexander M. Ferris of Washington street was among the former commanders of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company present at the reception and dinner given the last of the week in the company armory in honor of Captain John D. Nichols, Lieutenant Francis H. Appleton and Colonel Sidney M. Hedges.

Montevideo English.

A letter from a concern in Montevideo, South America, to a Chicago firm:"My dear sir: We know, you ask for agents. We can offer you this. Our office has the representation many articles we can offer the representation yours. We ought to know you; we have placemen and gadders whose business is only to sell our articles.
Our business is diffused till some bra-silian villages; where the american articles are worth of the highest attention. Our mind is that, the diffusion of the news is the best middle for the know; all things; and we don't stop in middle for its circulation; we have decided the appear of The Commercial Review next issue where you can be fellow labourers; and we wish no one expenditure; that is; to say always;
you dispense us any casualties."We like "gadders," as applied to travelling men, don't you?—Chicago Tribune.

He Found His Man.

Englishmen are rather fond of poking fun at those parts of Great Britain
where other than the Anglo-Saxon element is dominant, and a favorite subject for jest is the prevalence of the Jones family in Wales.One of the colleges of Oxford university was much resorted to by Welsh-men. A man from another college looking for a friend went into its quadrangle and shouted, "Jones!"All the windows looking on the quadrangle flew open."I mean John Jones," said the searcher.

Half the windows closed.

"I mean the John Jones who has a toothbrush," he explained.All the windows closed but one.—

A Stitch in Pain.

A stitch is a sharp, spasmodic pain in the muscles of the side like the piercing of a needle and is very apt to be produced if exercise is taken immediately after a hearty meal. This arises because the nervous energy necessary for the proper working of the muscles in exercise is engaged in author direction—namely, in assisting the digestion of the food. Anything that interferes with the proper supply of nervous energy required for exercise, whether it be debility or the process of digestion or exhaustion arising from overexertion, is apt to cause this spasmodic pain.

Adam's Sister.

The palm tree has always been venerated wherever it grows; in some places it is worshipped. "Honor the palm tree," says a Mohammedan writer, "for she is your father's aunt, for this tree was formed of the remainder of the clay from which Adam was created."

She Knew.

Farmer Hanks (musingly)—They say the deacon's wife was a paragon before he married her, and— Mrs.
Hanks—Nothing of the kind! I know the whole family, and she was a smallish!

A Very Large Mine.

There was once in Cripple Creek an odd character named Burns. He was an odd person who always, no matter what his work, wore what used to be called a "Prince Albert." He struck a rich vein of ore and named that the Prince Albert. Being of a generous and convivial disposition, this lucky fellow was, of course, surrounded by many self seeking friends. When he and they were in their cups some of them, with an eye to the main chance, managed to wheedle out of Burns on one pretext or another a deed of a share in his mine. With royal prodigality he scattered deeds about among his retainers and camp followers untill finally something had to be done,
and the case was taken into court.
One of the lawyers had Burns on the stand. "Now, Mr. Burns," said the lawyer, "will you please tell the court
how you can explain your conduct?"
The evidence shows that you have deeded away twenty-nine twenty-fourths of your mine. What have you to say to that?" "Well, sir," replied
the witness, "you must remember, sir, that the Prince Albert is a very large mine."

A Cleanup.

The three amateur sharpers smiled.
They thought they had found an easy mark. He was well dressed and grossly lubricated. And he bore a tight roll of bills that looked like a bologna sausage."Boys," he thickly said, "I'm goin'
to spend this wad of stuff to th'
gawment laundry an' have it dry cleaned. It's so fearful dirty. Maybe one of you gents would kindly see it's addressed to proper place?""Why, yes," replied the gang. "We'll take care of it.""Thanks," replied the victim. "An'
now I mush ask you to lemme have a few clean bills for emergensish, don't you know?"So they searched themselves and gave him a new twenty and a ten and a five. Then, taking the soiled wad, they hurried away.Two days later the three clever ones were arrested for having counterfeit money in their possession.But the guileless lubricate was seen no more.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Born Diplomat.

"Splendid!" exclaimed the old colonel as a company passed the saluting base."Did you hear wot ole nasty face sees?" No. 3 of the front rank asked No. 4."Stand fast after parade, No. 4, for talking in the ranks!" snapped a sergeant from near by."It wasn't me talkin'!" muttered
No. 4."You'd better not get tivo on us in trouble," advised No. 3 in a whisper."Talking while marching past!" echoed the adjutant. "What on earth did you find to talk about then?""As we was passing the salutin' base," explained No. 4, "the colonel sees, 'Splendid!' Yes, I sees to myself, an' you've got the smartest officer in the British army to thank for makin' us splendid, and that's our adjutant.""Er—sergeant, send the man away and don't bring such frivolous complaints before me again," snapped the adjutant.—London Answers.

The Change of a Word.

"You wouldn't think there'd be enough difference between the definite and the indefinite article to matter much, would you?" said a woman who writes for a living. "I made a lifelong enemy of a woman once just by writing 'the' where I meant 'a.' It was an account of her wedding I was doing. I said something about the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's aunt, and then I added that there were present 'only the few friends of the family.' The bride never got over that 'the' in front of few.
It happened five years ago, and when my name is mentioned she still froths
at the mouth."—Washington Post.

Beaver Tales.

The Indians say that if a beaver sent out from the parents' lodge fails to find a mate he is set to repair the dam. If he fails a second time he is banished.An Arab writer has the same story.
He tells us that those who buy beaver skins can distinguish between the skins of masters and slaves. The latter have the hair of the head rubbed off because they have to pound the wood for their masters' food and do it with their heads.

A Surprised Landlord.

The very young travelling salesman
was registering at the village hotel.
"I want a room with running water in it," he remarked."Running water?" cackled the landlord. "What do you want to do, miser—practice indoor trout fishin'?"

Hoyt's Hospitality.

It was the habit of Charles H. Hoyt, the dramatist, to invite almost everybody he met to come up and spend a few weeks with him at his summer home in New Hampshire.One night Hoyt, Bert Dasher, W. H.
Currie, Frank McKee and several other house guests of Hoyt were sitting on the veranda of Hoyt's summer house waiting for dinner. The train had just arrived, and they saw an old farmer and his wife coming up the path."Who are they?" asked Hoyt. "I never saw them before.""The dickens you didn't," replied Currie. "That is that old chap and his wife who talked to over at Springfield and invited to visit you.""Oh, well," said Hoyt, "maybe they are just coming in to dinner. They will take the night train back."Then he looked again and saw the lired man behind the farmer and his wife wheeling a big trunk on a wheel-barrow."No, by George," shouted Hoyt, "they are here for a run!"And they stayed a month.—Cleveland Leader.

Long and Short Story Writers.

Which are the great short stories of the English language? Not a bad basis for a debate. This I am sure of —that there are far fewer supremely good short stories than there are superlously good long books. It takes more exquisite skill to carve the cameo than the statue. But the strangest thing is that the two excel-lences seem to be separate and even antagonistic. Skill in the one by no means insures skill in the other. The great masters of our literature, Fielding, Scott, Dickens, Thackeray and Turgenev, have left no single short story
of outstanding merit behind them, with the possible exception of Wandering Willie's tale in "Red Gauntlet."On the other hand, men who have been very great in the short story, Stevenson, Poe and Bret Harte, have written no great book. The champion sprinter is seldom a five miler as well.
Poe is the master of all. Poe is, to my mind, the supreme original short story writer of all time.—Conan Doyle
in "Through the Magic Door."

Yosemite Versus Grand Canyon.

Yosemite for a home or a camp, the Grand canyon for a spectacle. I saw a robin in Yosemite valley. Think how forlorn and out of place a robin would seem in the Grand canyon!
What would he do there? There is no turf for him to inspect, and there are no trees for him to perch on. I would as soon expect to find him amid the pyramids of Egypt or amid the ruins of Karnak. The bluebird was there also, and the water ouzel haunted the lucid waters. The reader may create for himself a good image of Yosemite by thinking of a section of seven or eight miles of the Hudson river midway of its course as emptied of its waters and deepened 3,000 feet or more, having the sides nearly vertical,
with snow white waterfalls fluttering against them here and there, the famous spires and domes planted along the rim, and the landscape of groves and glades, with its still, clear, winding river, occupying the bottom.—John Burroughs in Century.

His Apology.

A recent refusal by a member of the English parliament to withdraw "one comma" of what he had said about a member of the government recalls the fact that Richard Brinsley Sheridan
once declined to punctuate an apology.
In the house of commons one day
Sheridan gave an opponent the lie direct. Called upon to apologize, the offender replied:"Mr. Speaker, I said the honorable member was a liar it is true and I am sorry for it."The insulted party was not satisfied and said so."Sir," retorted Sheridan, "the honorable member can interpret the terms of my statement according to his ability, and he can put punctuation marks where it pleases him."

Poets' Licenses.

The poet was sick at heart. He just had submitted one of his very best productions to an unfeeling editor, who had rebuffed him in these gentle words:"I wish there was a law about poets' licenses like the dog license law.
If I had my way a poet would have to take out a license every year and those who didn't would be killed."—

Her Little Composition.

A class was reciting in a school.
"Who can give me," said the teacher,
"a sentence in which the words 'bitter end' are used?"Up jumped a little girl excitedly. "I can, teacher. 'The cat ran after the bureau and the dog ran after her and bit her end.'"

tured. I gave him a beautiful box of smoked one himself and gave all the rest away to his friends.—London Opinwife, "wearing a phonograph horn for

Under the Orator's Spell.

Justice Brewer was once speaking of the oratory of John B. Gough. "I would go home after hearing his eloquence thoroughly elated, but when my father or mother asked me what Gough had said I could not tell them for the life of me. I remember once at a Yale commencement along in the fifties, about the time that I was graduated there, an incident illustrating the force of personal magnetism. Gough was to deliver an oration. He spoke, of course, on temperance. There was a distinguished audience. On the stage were many of the venerable, notable men in New Haven of that day. A large space was clear about the table, for Gough liked to walk back and forth as he talked. He described how a drunkard had beaten his wife and came to his climax with, 'Any man who would kick a woman ought to be kicked out of the universe!'
"He emphasized his words with a vigorous thrust of one foot, whereto
every person on the stage, intensely wrought up by the orator, likewise kicked outward as did Gough."—Kansas City Journal.

When Tabby Raises Her Battle Cry.

Despite the cat's softness, laziness, sufficiency and purring amiability, her piercing wavery in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing
—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half terrifying, half infuriating note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the warwhoop of our tribal enemies
did a century or centuries ago, says
Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.One of Mark Twain's wise old froutlemen had caught this note when he explained to the tenderfoot that an inal speech had rules of composition and grammar, just like human speech, and that "the reason a cat riles ye so ain't on account of the noise she makes, but on account of the sickenin' bad grammar she uses." And he was right, for the grammar of scarp lifting and the whole alphabet of battle, murder and sudden death tingles and screams in the rasping cry.

Two Can Play.

"Walter," called the irate diner,
"there seems to be a dollar on this bill I can't account for.""Oh, that's just a joke, sir," apologized the waiter, "just a bet the cashier and I have. I'll have it fixed right away, sir.""What do you mean about a bet?"
asked the diner, detaining him."Well, sir, I bet the cashier 50 cents
you would see the mistake, and he bet
you wouldn't, so I win, sir."

"Suppose I hadn't noticed it?"

"He'd have got the dollar, sir."

"Oh, I see. Give me your pencil."

And he wrote a few lines on the back of the bill, folded it up and handed it to the waiter. "Take that to the cashier."The waiter leaned over the cashier's shoulder as he unfolded the paper. It read:"I'll bet you $5 that when you send this back you don't find me."

And they didn't.—Lippincott's.

Practical Help.

"Mister," whined the mendicant with the wooden leg, "can't you help a poor old sailor wot has had his leg bitten off by a shark?""Dear me!" exclaimed the kind hearted professor, "I believe I can, my poor man. Come around to the college."After hobbling along for ten blocks the professor led the way through an iron gate and up to his study."Here you are, my poor man. Now, don't say I never gave you anything."The beggar almost toppled over with astonishment.

"W-w-hat's that, sir?"

"Why, that's my latest book on 'Sharks and Their Ways.' If you have that book with you when you fall overboard next time you won't lose the other leg. You'll know just how to dodge them. Good day."—Chicago

Earliest Theater.

What was probably one of the earliest theaters built was the theater of Dionysus, which was begun five centuries before Christ. The seating capacity of this remarkable building is said to have been 30,000, nearly four times that of our largest amusement palace.
The theater of Dionysus was erected when Greek art and literature were in their prime. Here were presented to appreciative spectators the wonderful works of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides.

A Sickly Diary.

"Look here, old chap, I'll give you a valuable tip," said the experienced married man to the prospective bridegroom. "Don't let your wife keep a diary on the honeymoon. My wife did that, and now whenever we quarrel she brings it out and reads some of the idiotic things I said to her then."

who used to be such a joker?""Well, he proposed to his present

he has given up making jokes ever

A Humble Hero.

Every student of history remembers
Captain Perry's dispatch after the battle of Lake Erie, a sentence terse and yet glowing, "We have met the enemy, and they are ours."Every one remembers the great and significant result of the fight, but few perhaps have heard of one humble worker who served his country just as true; there as if he had been on deck amid shot and shell, earning glory as well as the reward of a good conscience.Just as the ships were going into action the mate of the Lawrence said to Wilson Mays, who was ill and unfit for service:"Go below, Mays; you are too weak to be here.""I can do something, sir," was the stout reply.

"What can you do?"

"I can sound the pump, sir, and let a strong man go to the guns."Then he sat down by the pump and thus released for active service a man who had more muscle, and when the fight was over there he was found with a bullet through his heart.

Mingsley's Stammering.

Charles Kingsley loved talking, had an enormous deal to say on every conceivable subject and loathed to say it. But his stammer was always checking him. He gurgled and gasped and made faces and would sometimes break off in a conversation or a meal, rush out into the open air and liberate his suppressed emotions by rapid exercise or physical exertion. Yet, as has often been observed in similar cases, when he had to preach the stammer subsided, and, though there was some facial contortion, the flow of the discourse was never interrupted. He said to his friend Tom Hughes: "I could be as great a talker as any man in England but for my stammering. When I am speaking for God in the pulpit or paying by bedside I never stammer. My stammer is a blessed thing for me. It keeps me from talking in company and from going out as much as I should do but for it."—G. W. E. Russell in Winchester Guardian.

Lisbon in Pepys' Times.

Pepys' Diary gives an unadorned picture of the Lisbon court in his day. On Oct. 17, 1601, he talked with Captain Lambert, fresh from "Portugall," who told him it was "a very poor, dirty place—I mean the city and court of Lisbon; * * * that there are no glass windows, nor will they have any; * * * that the king has his meat sent up by a dozen of lazy guards and in pipkins sometimes to his own table and sometimes nothing but fruits and now and then half a hen. And now that the infantia is become our queen she is come to have a whole hen or goose to her table, which is not ordinary." Some few months later, when some "Portugall lady" had come to London, Pepys found them "not handsome and their farthingales a strange dress. * * * I find nothing in them that is pleasing, and I see they have learnt to kiss and look freely up and down already and I do believe will soon forget the reclusive practice of their own country."

Opportunity.

There is a story of a sculptor who once showed a visitor his studio, which was full of gods, some of them very curious. The face of one was entirely concealed by the hair, and there were wings on each foot. The visitor asked this statue's name.

"Opportunity," was the reply.
"And why is his face hidden?"
"Because men seldom know him when he comes to them."
"Why has he wings on his feet?"
"Because he is soon gone and once gone can never be overtaken," was the reply.

We all know the story of the man who sold the old farm which he had barely been able to get a living from during his entire life and his amazement and chagrin when the new owner discovered gold upon the land the first week of his ownership. A great many of us are in that very condition with regard to our opportunities if we did but know it.—Washington Star.

Pampered Pups.

The dog doctor was making out a bill for the month's expenses of a Japanese spaniel. The items were room rent, board, medical attendance and electric light.

"Electric light?" exclaimed his secretary. "What on earth does a dog need with electric light?"

"He doesn't need it at all," said the doctor, "but his owner has ordered it, and he has been supplied with two eight-candle power lights every evening he has been in the hospital. He is one of those spoiled pups who were put to bed in a light room in their infancy, and now he cannot sleep in the dark. We always have two or three of that kind on hand. They occupy a special ward where the lights burn all night long."—New York Sun.

Tricking a Game Warden.

When a game warden bought seven pounds of meat and paid a dollar a pound for it he thought he was getting some pretty convincing evidence against a man in Herkimer county whom he supposed to be a chronic violator of the game law. The protector found this particular piece of meat in an icehouse one hot August day, and he spotted it for venison.

"What will you take for that chunk of meat?" he asked the owner.

"That's a tender piece of meat," replied the woodsman, with a wink at the stranger, "and meat is dear way back up here. I wouldn't part with it for less'n a dollar a pound."

"Well, give me a pound."

"Nope; couldn't do that. It would spoil the piece for cookin' to do that."

The game warden had to take the whole thing, and he paid $7 for it, satisfied that he had caught one of the worst game law violators in the Adirondacks. Down to Albany he sent the meat for the forest, fish and game commission to analyze to prove it venison. But it wasn't. It was veal.

The backwoodsmen tell the story as one of the best jokes ever played on a game protector.—New York Tribune.

Columns of St. Mark.

Two memorable granite columns, known as the columns of St. Mark, brought from the Holy Land in 1120 and standing in front of the quay and landing steps of the Piazzetta, have been associated with the fortunes of Venice for many years. At first they lay prostrate for a long time, while no one would undertake to raise them. But a reward offered by the doge at length induced one Nicolo Barratiero (Nick the Blackleg) to offer his services. He succeeded and claimed as his reward the privilege of carrying on between the columns games of chance, elsewhere prohibited by law. To neutralize this as much as possible it was enacted that all public executions should take place on the same spot. One column is surmounted by the Lion of St. Mark. The other carries a fine figure of St. Theodore, the patron saint of the city, who stands upon a crocodile and with sword and buckler gives token that the motto of Venice is "Defense, Not Defiance."

What She Would Do.

"Johnnie, dear," said his mother, who was trying to inculcate a lesson in industry, "what do you suppose mamma would do for you if you should come to her some day and tell her that you loved your studies?" "Lick me for telling a falsehood," said dear little Johnnie with the frankness of youth.

A Quick Return Business.

"You said you were going into some business that would bring you quick returns," said a young fellow to his chum.

"I did," was the answer. "I am sending manuscripts to the magazines."

A Nice Bull.

An Irishman, quarrelling with an Englishman, told him if he didn't hold his tongue he would "break his impenetrable head and let the brains out of his empty skull."

Stopping It.

"Willie," said his mother, "are you making the baby cry?"
"No'm," replied the boy. "I'm holdin' my hand over her mouth to make her stop."

Caustic.

Mr. Flubb—This affair is horribly dull. I guess I'll go home. Miss Clip—That would remove some of the dullness, Mr. Flubb.—Chicago News.

Imagined ills painted by our fears are always greater than the true.—Me-fastasio.

Entertaining Royalty.

Nothing puts a bigger feather in the cap of a society hostess, says the London Saturday Journal, or at the same time causes her more anxious cares and thought than mere expenditure than the presence at one of her dinners or dances in the huge Mayfair mansion of a member of the royal family—most of all the king and queen. The entertaining of royalty is one of the most delicate triumphs the society woman, whether she be a duchess or merely a millonairess, can achieve. It has a code of etiquette all to itself—a code which must be rigidly observed or no hope is there of ever securing another visit from a royal guest of the reigning house. The number of titled and untitled guests bidden to meet the sovereign at, say, a dinner party is strictly limited and of course highly select. On one occasion $20,000 was spent by a hostess in entertaining a crowned head for a week end, while another example is that of a certain baronet who had a marble staircase put in his house solely because of an approaching visit from the late king.

A Remarkable Escape.

During the reign of terror in Paris one of the most remarkable escapes was that of M. de Chateaubrun. He was sent to execution with twenty other prisoners, but after the fifteenth head had fallen the guillotine got out of order and a workman was sent for to repair it. The six remaining victims were left standing in front of the machines with their hands tied behind them. A French crowd is very curious, and the people kept pressing forward to see the man arranging the guillotine. By degrees M. de Chateaubrun, who was to the rear of his companions, found himself in the front line of the spectators, then in the second and finally well behind those who had come to see his head cut off. Before the men could get the guillotine in working order night began to fall, and M. de Chateaubrun slipped away. When in the Champs Elysees he told a man that a wag had tied his hands and robbed him of his hat, and this simple individual set him free. A few days later M. de Chateaubrun escaped from France.

Due Precautions.

In a town in Georgia there was an old preacher whose knowledge of the world was not wide nor deep, but who conceived it to be a place where, if one should trust his fellow men, he should at the same time keep an eye on his own interests.

One hot day he pulled off his coat and preached a vigorous sermon under the pines in his shirt sleeves. At the close of the open air service one of his admirers approached him and said regretfully:

"I don't suppose you knew that the editor of one of the big New York Sunday papers was here when you pulled off your coat?"

"I reckon I knew it well, for I'd been told of it," said the preacher calmly. "I don't believe he's as bad as he might be, and anyway I put my coat on the chair close by and had it right under my eye all the time."—Youth's Companion.

More Story of the Flood.

The legend of the flood as told by the Moros is as follows:

"When the forty days and nights of rain came No and his family got into a box. One pair of each sort of bird and beast also came in. Men who were busy with their ordinary occupations and did not enter the box were overtaken by the flood. Those who ran to the mountains became monkeys; those who ran to the water, fish. The Chinaman changed to a hornbill. A woman who was eating the fruit of a seaweed and would not stop was changed into a fish called a dugong, and her limbs can still be seen under its skin."

Mara's Voice.

Mme. Mara had a voice that extended from middle G to E in alt and was one of the most facile and flexible ever known. She delighted in the florid music of Husse, Graun, Benda, Jomelli, Pergolesi, Porpora, Sacchini and others of that school and with the utmost ease executed passages that are now consigned to solo instruments, such as the violin and flute. She held the stage from 1771 to 1802, with an occasional appearance after the latter date.

His Bedtime.

"When do you wind your watch," asked the man with the bulging brow—"morning or evening?"

"Generally in the morning," answered the man with the bulbous nose.

"I always wind mine just before I go to bed."

"Well—or—so do I."—Chicago Tribune.

—Mrs. Mary M. Nott, the widow of the late Dr. Albert Nott, died last Saturday at her home on Washington street, in her 68th year. Mrs. Nott was a native of Jericho, Vt., but had resided in this village for many years. Funeral services were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at her late home, in charge of Rev. J. Edgar Park of the Second Church, and the burial was at Jericho, Vt.

13TH ANNIVERSARY.

Thirteen years ago the Frances E. Willard Settlement was founded and on Saturday there will be appropriate exercises in which the public is to join.

From 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. everybody who is interested in the work of the settlement is invited to "open house" served in the gymnasium from 12 until 2 o'clock. At 4 p. m. the board of directors will tender a reception in Sanborn Hall to Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson, representing the Massachusetts W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Henry B. Day, representing college friends; Mrs. David R. Denison, representing women's clubs, and Mrs. A. Z. Conrad, representing the church co-workers.

In Pierian Hall at 6 p. m. there is to be a banquet with Frank E. H. Gary presiding. Two-minute toasts are announced as follows: "St. Andrew's, may it be the centre of all sorts of good influences," Rev. Reuben Kidner; "Quotations, Miss Nellie F. Hill; "Co-operation," Rev. C. L. D. Younkio; "Lewysac Lodge," Mrs. Myra L. Higgins; "The Boy and the Club," Miss Caroline M. Caswell, the head resident; "A Golden Opportunity," Dr. Louise C. Purington.

Mrs. Stevenson, who recently returned from a tour of the world, will deliver an address on "The girls of other lands, their needs and possibilities." Mrs. Lucie Tucker Blake will contribute several solos during the evening.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

The Christmas celebration at the Newton Hospital Sunday was the best the institution has ever known, patients and employees alike sharing in the enjoyment. The day began with the singing of carols in the wards by 70 nurses and later the boy choir of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Newton Highlands visited the hospital. Garbed in their vestments, the singers went through the various wards rendering Christmas carols and anthems.

In each ward a tree had been arranged by the nurses and the wards decorated with greenery by the nurses, who joined heartily in the holiday fun. The nurses played the part of Santa Claus and distributed the presents. Afterward there was a turkey dinner for all, besides 15 poor children invited from around the city to enjoy the dinner in the children's ward. There was also a special tree for these waifs.

The nurses also had their tree and a special course dinner. During the day there were many visitors, who also brought gifts for the patients.

PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Henry Barber, late of Newton in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by John Hurd, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving security on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the second day of January, A. D. 1911, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be on one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of December, in the one thousand nine hundred and ten.

Upper Falls

—Fred and Phyllis Mills of High street are at Fitzwilliam for their vacation.

—The many friends of Mrs. William S. Thompson of Boylston street will be sorry to learn that she is quite ill at her home.

—Miss Meredith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Meredith of Abbot street, is gaining slowly at the Newton Hospital.

—Many home gatherings and Christmas trees were enjoyed throughout this place. The ladies of the Home were well remembered by their many friends, for many presents were received by them.

—The Second Baptist of this village held their Xmas concert and tree exercises in the church vestry. Many children were made happy, receiving presents, goodies, etc. Many took part and a good time was enjoyed by all present.

—The funeral of Mr. John Arnold was held at his home on Central avenue, Needham. A quartet from the church sang. Rev. Walter Healey, assisted by Rev. Herbert S. Dow, attended the funeral. Interment was in the Needham Cemetery. Mr. Arnold was in his 86th year. He leaves a widow, seven daughters and one son.

—Another well known citizen has passed away. Mr. Newell Flagg was 78 years old and had been sick nearly a year, so his death was not unexpected to his family. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Walter Healey. Interment was in the Needham Cemetery. Mr. Flagg leaves one daughter and one son, a brother and one sister.

—The M. E. Sunday school had their Christmas tree and entertainment Saturday evening at 6:30 in Wade School Hall. Although it was very stormy there was a crowd present to take part in the good time. Many presents were received, many little folks made happy and all went home after enjoying Xmas eve.

—The services at the Methodist Church on Xmas morning were of much interest. Rev. Walter Healey, the pastor, preached on "The Birth of Christ" and the choir sang some fine Christmas music. "The Hope of the World," "A cantata, A Schnecker," "There Dwelt in Old Judea," W. H. Gries, and "Shepherds in the Field Abiding," W. R. Spence.

—Christmas was very generally observed at the Ralph Waldo Emerson School. Every room from the kindergarten to the highest was beautifully decorated with trees, wreaths, bells, etc. Many pretty presents were made by the scholars, assisted by their teachers, for their friends and parents. Saturday morning all the pupils with parents and friends had their Xmas exercises, consisting of carols, reading, plays and games in the hall. Mr. Darius Cobb helped to entertain in his original manner, much to the delight of the children and the audience. He sang some of his favorite songs, "Chimes of Christmas Morn" and "The Sword of Bunker Hill."

—One of the pleasant family gatherings was at Mr. Lewis P. Everett's on High street. Mr. and Mrs. Everett entertained their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua W. Sawyer, Miss Sawyer, Winchester Sawyer, who came from Sumner, N. H., to visit his parents, and Miss Susan A. Winchester of Portland. A merry Christmas was enjoyed by them all and many beautiful presents were received by each one and all. One interesting feature of the occasion was not only to celebrate Christmas but birthdays in the family that came in December. Five in the family have their birthday in December. The oldest one of these being 85 years old, and the youngest being 8 years old, this month of Christmas, with a beautiful turkey dinner, music, readings, games, etc., during the day and evening, a most delightful time was enjoyed by all.

HOCKEY.

Although Dartmouth easily outclassed the Brae Burn team of the Boston Hockey League in its first game of the local series Tuesday night at Newton, winning 4 to 0, the collegians had a taste of rough hockey.

The match was exceedingly rough, with Brae Burn showing greater inclination at this style of the game. The Dartmouth men were so nimble on their skates that the many thrusts by Brae Burn were easily evaded. Carl Wells of Dartmouth, a former Newton High player, suffered a severe injury as a result of wild swinging of sticks. Marston of Brae Burn, who was captain of Dartmouth team last year, was also hit on the head. Karl Stucklen, the crack Dartmouth forward, was stuck on the back of the neck by an opponent's stick. Bullard and Stucklen also had their skates broken in the melee.

The Brae Burn team was without Capt. Bunt Mackey, its clever forward. Dartmouth was too fast for the club team. The college forwards easily outskated the Brae Burn men.

The score at the end of the first half was 3 to 0. Karl Stucklen and Carl Wells were the Dartmouth stars, while Harry Grafton, Marston and Chet Perry excelled for Brae Burn.

During the second half the timer left the rink. The teams then agreed to play until they were tired. Someone on the side yelled that there was one minute to play and after this period the teams left the ice.

Frances Willard Settlement will keep open house Saturday afternoon, Dec. 31. Every one is cordially invited and urged to visit the Settlement, 38-46 Chambers street, Boston, that day. The Cambridge car marked Hanover street passes Chambers street. There will be an entertainment during the afternoon.

At the last meeting of the W. C. T. U. in West Newton, Miss Nellie Hill, director of the social settlement work, gave a very interesting account of it, especially among the children of whom there are 775 in regular attendance at the clubs. Mr. Frank E. H. Gary of Newton Centre is a member of the advisory board of the Settlement.

THEATRES

B. F. Keith's Theatre—The first week of the New Year at B. F. Keith's Theatre, dainty little Ethel Green will appear in a new act written especially for her, introducing some original songs and dances. Jean Bedini and Roy Arthur, the world famous burlesque comedians, will make their first appearance here in several years in a screamingly funny act. Another team of fun makers will be Hoey and Lee, the H-brew comedians. Another new feature will be the Four Song Writers, "Monarchs of Melody," who will make their first appearance in Boston next week. James Neil and Edythe Chapman will present an original comedy called "The Lady Across the Hall." Sebastian Merrill Company will introduce the famous "Merrill trick," a feat that only Mr. Merrill and the late Ralph Johnstone, aviator and trick bicyclist, have been able to perform. Other strong features are Hathaway, Kelly and Mack in novelty songs and dances, and the Van der Koors, quack illusionists, introducing the famous "Felix," the mind reading duck.

THE GRIGGS LECTURES.
Newton residents are interested in the Edward Howard Griggs lectures announced in this week's issue for the next eight weeks at Jordan Hall, Boston. The course will deal with the Philosophy of Plato and its Relation to Modern Life.

There are certain great masters of thought who belong to all time. Wholly modern, because universal, their thinking, even when thousands of years old, seems freshly coined in answer to the needs of the day that is on.

Supreme among these is Plato. Has the world seen another thinker so universal in character, whose thought is so alive in application to every passing age?

At once poet and philosopher, severe thinker and bold dreamer, Greek in love of all life, yet striving ever from the details that confuse to the unity that interprets, Plato fulfills for every time the function of the great mind in relation to the world of common men.

The aim will be, not only to present the thought of Plato in the great phases of life with which it deals—education, morals, art, knowledge and the state, but in each aspect to point fully the illuminating applications to our own life today.

To the Brae Burn Country Club, a duly existing corporation having its usual place of business in Newton, in the County of Middlesex, and said Commonwealth; Robert H. Hill, Margaret C. Maguire, Frank A. Day, Trustees, and Charles T. Travell, Trustee, of said Newton; Ann Ridgway, residence unknown, or her heirs, devisees or legal representatives, and to all whom it may concern:

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court by Henry B. Day, William B. Dowd, Benjamin S. Palmer, Charles I. Travell and George A. Frost of said Newton, to register and confirm their title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situate in said Newton, bounded westerly by land of Brae Burn Country Club, Gates Street, land of Robert Hill, and land of Margaret C. Maguire measuring in all about 384 feet; northerly by land of Frank A. Day et al, Trustees, about 324.55 feet; easterly by the same about 273.50 feet; southeasterly by the same about 563 feet; and southeasterly by the same in part and in part by land of Brae Burn Country Club about 420.47 feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the ninth day of January A. D. 1911, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

And unless you appear at said Court on the date aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and in said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of December in the year nineteen hundred and ten.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

(Seal.) CLARENCE C. SMITH, Recorder.
